

WE sold lots of goods last year and we are going to sell more this year and at a closer price. Cotton goods were never cheaper in the United States than they are today. We have a large stock on hand. Note the following prices:

Medium Prints.....	30c per yard
Standard Prints.....	40c " "
Extra Prints.....	50c " "
(Over 2500 yards on sale)
Fruit of Lenoir.....	50c
Calot W muslin.....	50c
Calot A muslin.....	50c
L.I. muslin.....	40c
"Vicugna," best flannel in the market.....	80c

S. E. Young and Son

ALBANY, OREGON

T. J. WILSON,

Attorney at Law and Notary Public

ALBANY, OREGON.

DR. J. W. YOGEL,

SPECIALIST FOR REFRACTION

AND DEFECTS OF THE EYE

WILL MAKE REGULAR TRIPS TO SCIO. Watch local column for date of visits

A FEW FARM NOTES

From the Rural Opinions.

W. W. Thompson shipped five cartloads of horses from Moro, Sherman county, Oregon, to the horse cannery at Linton last Saturday.

"Cholla," Oregon's "Fridge" is not doing so well in the hands of his new trainer on the grand circuit this year. He was distanced in the 204 pace at Columbus this week, Searchlight winning in 2:38, 2:34, 2:34.

The horse breeding industry should be revived in Oregon. We have most favorable conditions for producing a high class horse and if breeders will breed and feed for a purpose there should be a good profit in the business for some years to come.

The horse canning establishment at Linton has opened up for business this year. While the price of good horses has a tendency to raise the price of canning material, it is hoped that the price of horse meat will justify a continuance of this establishment until the range is ridden of the Indian pony.

School Fund Apportioned

On Tuesday the state school land commissioners made the largest apportionment of school funds ever made in the state. They disbursed $19,985.55 among the various counties on a basis of $1.51 per capita. This year's school census shows 533,388 children of school age in the state. Last year there were 531,753, and the amount then distributed was $1,549,985.00, or $1.20 per capita. There has been an increase of only 1,635 in the number of school children since last year, yet the amount apportioned is $1,022.28 greater. Linn county's apportionment of the school fund amounts to $10,849.35 on 7,185 children.

One to California.

A carload of Oregon horses left Salem last Wednesday for Santa Rosa, Cal., where they will begin the fall racing circuit. The Van De Center stock farm sent down October 2:10, Albo Dell 2:18 and the green trotter Tickets in charge of John Sawyer; Aug. Zrickan sent down Bill Frazier 2:14, Clayton, a green trotter, and Altura, a green pacer, in charge of Wm. Tracy; L. Zimmerman sent down McBrar, a green trotter by McKinney, and Primrose, a green pacer by Altamont, in charge of John Kirkland. The races begin there August 14 and thence they go to Oakland and thence to the state fair at Sacramento.

Death of Mrs. Bilyeu

Last week we mentioned the serious illness of Mrs. Mike Bilyeu, of Jordan, and before our paper had reached many of our readers death had relieved the sufferings of Mrs. Bilyeu, she having passed away Thursday, August 31, 1899.

Mrs. Bilyeu was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Phillips, of Jordan, she was born near the place where death found her, and was 20 years of age. She had been married a little over a year and a half, and had been ill with quick consumption for the past six months. She leaves a father and mother and two brothers and a sorrowing husband to mourn her untimely demise, all of whom have the sympathy of the entire community in this their sad hour.

The funeral services were held Saturday at one o'clock, and the remains were laid to rest at the Bilyeu cemetery, near Jordan.

The Best Remedy for Flux.

Mr. John Mathias, a well known stock dealer of Pulaski, Ky., says: "After suffering for over a week with flux, and my physician having failed to relieve me, I was advised to try Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and with the pleasure of stating that the half of one bottle cured me." For sale by Peery & Peery.

Horses For Sale.

I have for sale 25 head of unbroken horses, good, well matched driving and work horses. Cheap; easy terms.

R. W. GILL.

Chittum Bark.

Bring your bark to me. Though the price has dropped, I am still paying 2 cents per pound.

ROSS E. HIBLER.

THE NEWS AND THE OREGONIAN ONE CENT FOR $2.00.

OF LOCAL INTEREST

Machine oil at Peery & Peery's.

A. G. Prill, Physician and Surgeon Scio Oregon.

Dr. Curl will be in Scio Tuesday August 15, to remain seven days.

Manhattan horse food, just the thing for over-worked horses, at Ross E. Hibler's.

Born.—At their home near Jordan August 6, 1899, to Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Farrier, a daughter.

If you want the best meal for the money (28c) served in the valley, go to the Albany lunch counter.

Wm. McDonald has purchased one of those 12 foot cut Harvester King binder and header combined.

Manhattan Liniment is just the thing for hoof bound horses and sprains of all kinds. Ross E. Hibler.

Manhattan horse remedies are positively guaranteed. They are the best on the market. Ross E. Hibler.

Jake Bilyeu is now working in the flour mill taking the place made vacant by J. C. Simpson, who took charge of the Spicer warehouse.

Mrs. L. Probst, who resides on a farm near Providence church, has been quite low with Typhoid fever, and fears are entertained as to her recovery.

There is no kick coming at the work done by the men in Linton every Monday by taking it to the express office.

Wanted.—All those knowing themselves indebted to us to call and settle at an early date, as we are in need of money.

The committee having charge of the school socials have decided not to give an ice cream social on tomorrow evening, but will have one next Saturday evening, August 19.

Wanted.—Bacon and Lard. I will pay 10 cents per pound for side bacon, 12 cents for hams and 10 cents for lard in five and 10 pound buckets, in exchange for goods. S. M. Daniel.

I have just put in a fall line of leather belting which I will sell at very low prices. All persons wishing leather belting of any size will do well to call and see my line. T. S. Coffey.

The hop yards in this locality are just now in a very promising condition. There are several yards in this locality and all are free from lice and are looking well.

Tuesday night and Wednesday morning quite a little shower of rain fell, but not enough to injure the grain to any great extent; in fact it will help spring grain that is not yet ready for the harrow.

The Degree of Honor lodge of this city will give a spider-web basket social on Friday evening, August 18, at Houston's hall. A very entertaining program has been arranged, and a good time is assured. All are cordially invited.

Part of the Scio Mill company's oat meal machinery has arrived and will soon be put in place. The other machinery which the company contemplate putting in will not arrive until next month, owing to the fact that it has to be manufactured in the east.

Most of the threshing machines in this locality are at work this week, and in many places the grain is not turning out as well as expected. However the crop will be very near the average and the prices would advance just a few notches the farmer would be happy.

G. Scheiman, who lives near Sanderson's bridge, came near losing the thumb of his left hand Saturday last. He was cutting wood, when his axe slipped, striking his thumb near the hand, cutting it about two thirds off. He was brought in town and Dr. Prill dressed the injured hand.

Chair Viper has accepted the position of conductor, brakeman, fireman, yardmaster and general rouster of engine A, which yanks freight cars between the Scio roller mills and West Scio. He kills the place every few days, so it only takes him a step or two to go a train's length.

Another ice cream social will be given Saturday, August 19, and the proceeds will be added to the assembly hall seating fund. All should lend a helping hand by patronizing these socials, as a small amount from each one thus raised will soon make a sum sufficient to purchase what chairs are needed to properly seat the hall.

Main street presents a pretty "rocky" appearance at the present time. A large amount of gravel has been put on the streets, and still there is quite a lot which remains to be covered yet, but our citizens are awake to the best interests of the town, and our streets will not present the muddy appearance next winter that they did last.

C. O. Jeffrey has sold all his crop and personal property to Mr. Vsetzka, the gentleman who purchased his farm, and says he is just now as near footloose as he ever was. He reserved one team and wagon, and still has a half interest in the threshing machine, but has sold everything else he possessed in the line of stock and personal property.

Geo. Rodgers has a notice in this issue calling for hop pickers, and those who are figuring on picking hops the coming fall should call on Mr. Rodgers. He has charge of the Myers & Large yard this year. This yard is in the condition, and will no doubt produce a large crop. There is 30 acres of hops to pick, and pickers have heretofore done well in the yard.

A. W. Hagen's bicycle hospital is a busy place these days. He has a good bit of work in this line aside from his jewelry work, and to be sure that his idle time is all employed he fills the position of city electrician and just at the present time is chief engineer of engine A, running between here and West Scio. Take it all around he manages to keep busy.

The ice cream social given for the benefit of the assembly hall seating fund, Saturday evening last, was the usual social success. A large amount of delicious ice cream was disposed of and a very enjoyable time was had by all who attended. The only fault that could be found was that the supply of cream gave out too early in the evening. Sixteen gallons of the frozen mixture was disposed of in short order, and quite a quantity more would have found ready sale.

R. S. Frost son of Mr. and Mrs. G. T. Frost, who live a few miles east of Scio, returned last Friday from Dawson City, where he had been for the past year. He was not mining, but owns a claim up there which will be worked the coming winter. He brought back with him a fine gold watch chain made of small nuggets in their natural shape and color. Mr. Frost left Dawson July 15, and a couple of weeks before leaving said he saw W. E. Savage, and states that he was doing quite well, but would remain another year.

The receipts from the two ice cream socials have been very encouraging to those having the matter in charge. The first social netted $16.25, and the last one $20.45, making a total of $36.70 on hand for the purchase of chairs, and with a couple or three socials the amount necessary to purchase sufficient chairs to comfortably seat the assembly hall will be raised. It is a good way to raise the amount, for it does not tax any one person for a very large sum, and again all are given an opportunity to help with the work.

R. H. Moore, a bachelor, who has lived in the vicinity of Providence church for several years past, became insane last week, and was brought to this city Thursday, where it was thought that after a few days of medical treatment he would get right, and return to the household. It then became apparent that he would have to be taken to the asylum, and deputy sheriff G. W. Morrow and A. T. Powell took him to Albany, where he was confined up in the rooming house at Charles hotel, but this was not just to his liking, so with his pocket knife he removed the lock and escaped. He came back to the home of his sister, Mrs. L. Probst, who is a widow, and without a word of warning pecked up a chair and proceeded to beat her members of the household. It then became apparent that he would have to be taken to the asylum, and deputy sheriff G. W. Morrow and A. T. Powell took him to Albany, where he was confined up in the rooming house at Charles hotel, but this was not just to his liking, so with his pocket knife he removed the lock and escaped. He came back to the home of his sister, Mrs. L. Probst, who is a widow, and without a word of warning pecked up a chair and proceeded to beat her members of the household. It then became apparent that he would have to be taken to the asylum, and deputy sheriff G. W. Morrow and A. T. Powell took him to Albany, where he was confined up in the rooming house at Charles hotel, but this was not just to his liking, so with his pocket knife he removed the lock and escaped. He came back to the home of his sister, Mrs. L. Probst, who is a widow, and without a word of warning pecked up a chair and proceeded to beat her members of the household. It then became apparent that he would have to be taken to the asylum, and deputy sheriff G. W. Morrow and A. T. Powell took him to Albany, where he was confined up in the rooming house at Charles hotel, but this was not just to his liking, so with his pocket knife he removed the lock and escaped. He came back to the home of his sister, Mrs. L. Probst, who is a widow, and without a word of warning pecked up a chair and proceeded to beat her members of the household. It then became apparent that he would have to be taken to the asylum, and deputy sheriff G. W. Morrow and A. T. Powell took him to Albany, where he was confined up in the rooming house at Charles hotel, but this was not just to his liking, so with his pocket knife he removed the lock and escaped. He came back to the home of his sister, Mrs. L. Probst, who is a widow, and without a word of warning pecked up a chair and proceeded to beat her members of the household. It then became apparent that he would have to be taken to the asylum, and deputy sheriff G. W. Morrow and A. T. Powell took him to Albany, where he was confined up in the rooming house at Charles hotel, but this was not just to his liking, so with his pocket knife he removed the lock and escaped. He came back to the home of his sister, Mrs. L. Probst, who is a widow, and without a word of warning pecked up a chair and proceeded to beat her members of the household. It then became apparent that he would have to be taken to the asylum, and deputy sheriff G. W. Morrow and A. T. Powell took him to Albany, where he was confined up in the rooming house at Charles hotel, but this was not just to his liking, so with his pocket knife he removed the lock and escaped. He came back to the home of his sister, Mrs. L. Probst, who is a widow, and without a word of warning pecked up a chair and proceeded to beat her members of the household. It then became apparent that he would have to be taken to the asylum, and deputy sheriff G. W. Morrow and A. T. Powell took him to Albany, where he was confined up in the rooming house at Charles hotel, but this was not just to his liking, so with his pocket knife he removed the lock and escaped. He came back to the home of his sister, Mrs. L. Probst, who is a widow, and without a word of warning pecked up a chair and proceeded to beat her members of the household. It then became apparent that he would have to be taken to the asylum, and deputy sheriff G. W. Morrow and A. T. Powell took him to Albany, where he was confined up in the rooming house at Charles hotel, but this was not just to his liking, so with his pocket knife he removed the lock and escaped. He came back to the home of his sister, Mrs. L. Probst, who is a widow, and without a word of warning pecked up a chair and proceeded to beat her members of the household. It then became apparent that he would have to be taken to the asylum, and deputy sheriff G. W. Morrow and A. T. Powell took him to Albany, where he was confined up in the rooming house at Charles hotel, but this was not just to his liking, so with his pocket knife he removed the lock and escaped. He came back to the home of his sister, Mrs. L. Probst, who is a widow, and without a word of warning pecked up a chair and proceeded to beat her members of the household. It then became apparent that he would have to be taken to the asylum, and deputy sheriff G. W. Morrow and A. T. Powell took him to Albany, where he was confined up in the rooming house at Charles hotel, but this was not just to his liking, so with his pocket knife he removed the lock and escaped. He came back to the home of his sister, Mrs. L. Probst, who is a widow, and without a word of warning pecked up a chair and proceeded to beat her members of the household. It then became apparent that he would have to be taken to the asylum, and deputy sheriff G. W. Morrow and A. T. Powell took him to Albany, where he was confined up in the rooming house at Charles hotel, but this was not just to his liking, so with his pocket knife he removed the lock and escaped. He came back to the home of his sister, Mrs. L. Probst, who is a widow, and without a word of warning pecked up a chair and proceeded to beat her members of the household. It then became apparent that he would have to be taken to the asylum, and deputy sheriff G. W. Morrow and A. T. Powell took him to Albany, where he was confined up in the rooming house at Charles hotel, but this was not just to his liking, so with his pocket knife he removed the lock and escaped. He came back to the home of his sister, Mrs. L. Probst, who is a widow, and without a word of warning pecked up a chair and proceeded to beat her members of the household. It then became apparent that he would have to be taken to the asylum, and deputy sheriff G. W. Morrow and A. T. Powell took him to Albany, where he was confined up in the rooming house at Charles hotel, but this was not just to his liking, so with his pocket knife he removed the lock and escaped. He came back to the home of his sister, Mrs. L. Probst, who is a widow, and without a word of warning pecked up a chair and proceeded to beat her members of the household. It then became apparent that he would have to be taken to the asylum, and deputy sheriff G. W. Morrow and A. T. Powell took him to Albany, where he was confined up in the rooming house at Charles hotel, but this was not just to his liking, so with his pocket knife he removed the lock and escaped. He came back to the home of his sister, Mrs. L. Probst, who is a widow, and without a word of warning pecked up a chair and proceeded to beat her members of the household. It then became apparent that he would have to be taken to the asylum, and deputy sheriff G. W. Morrow and A. T. Powell took him to Albany, where he was confined up in the rooming house at Charles hotel, but this was not just to his liking, so with his pocket knife he removed the lock and escaped. He came back to the home of his sister, Mrs. L. Probst, who is a widow, and without a word of warning pecked up a chair and proceeded to beat her members of the household. It then became apparent that he would have to be taken to the asylum, and deputy sheriff G. W. Morrow and A. T. Powell took him to Albany, where he was confined up in the rooming house at Charles hotel, but this was not just to his liking, so with his pocket knife he removed the lock and escaped. He came back to the home of his sister, Mrs. L. Probst, who is a widow, and without a word of warning pecked up a chair and proceeded to beat her members of the household. It then became apparent that he would have to be taken to the asylum, and deputy sheriff G. W. Morrow and A. T. Powell took him to Albany, where he was confined up in the rooming house at Charles hotel, but this was not just to his liking, so with his pocket knife he removed the lock and escaped. He came back to the home of his sister, Mrs. L. Probst, who is a widow, and without a word of warning pecked up a chair and proceeded to beat her members of the household. It then became apparent that he would have to be taken to the asylum, and deputy sheriff G. W. Morrow and A. T. Powell took him to Albany, where he was confined up in the rooming house at Charles hotel, but this was not just to his liking, so with his pocket knife he removed the lock and escaped. He came back to the home of his sister, Mrs. L. Probst, who is a widow, and without a word of warning pecked up a chair and proceeded to beat her members of the household. It then became apparent that he would have to be taken to the asylum, and deputy sheriff G. W. Morrow and A. T. Powell took him to Albany, where he was confined up in the rooming house at Charles hotel, but this was not just to his liking, so with his pocket knife he removed the lock and escaped. He came back to the home of his sister, Mrs. L. Probst, who is a widow, and without a word of warning pecked up a chair and proceeded to beat her members of the household. It then became apparent that he would have to be taken to the asylum, and deputy sheriff G. W. Morrow and A. T. Powell took him to Albany, where he was confined up in the rooming house at Charles hotel, but this was not just to his liking, so with his pocket knife he removed the lock and escaped. He came back to the home of his sister, Mrs. L. Probst, who is a widow, and without a word of warning pecked up a chair and proceeded to beat her members of the household. It then became apparent that he would have to be taken to the asylum, and deputy sheriff G. W. Morrow and A. T. Powell took him to Albany, where he was confined up in the rooming house at Charles hotel, but this was not just to his liking, so with his pocket knife he removed the lock and escaped. He came back to the home of his sister, Mrs. L. Probst, who is a widow, and without a word of warning pecked up a chair and proceeded to beat her members of the household. It then became apparent that he would have to be taken to the asylum, and deputy sheriff G. W. Morrow and A. T. Powell took him to Albany, where he was confined up in the rooming house at Charles hotel, but this was not just to his liking, so with his pocket knife he removed the lock and escaped. He came back to the home of his sister, Mrs. L. Probst, who is a widow, and without a word of warning pecked up a chair and proceeded to beat her members of the household. It then became apparent that he would have to be taken to the asylum, and deputy sheriff G. W. Morrow and A. T. Powell took him to Albany, where he was confined up in the rooming house at Charles hotel, but this was not just to his liking, so with his pocket knife he removed the lock and escaped. He came back to the home of his sister, Mrs. L. Probst, who is a widow, and without a word of warning pecked up a chair and proceeded to beat her members of the household. It then became apparent that he would have to be taken to the asylum, and deputy sheriff G. W. Morrow and A. T. Powell took him to Albany, where he was confined up in the rooming house at Charles hotel, but this was not just to his liking, so with his pocket knife he removed the lock and escaped. He came back to the home of his sister, Mrs. L. Probst, who is a widow, and without a word of warning pecked up a chair and proceeded to beat her members of the household. It then became apparent that he would have to be taken to the asylum, and deputy sheriff G. W. Morrow and A. T. Powell took him to Albany, where he was confined up in the rooming house at Charles hotel, but this was not just to his liking, so with his pocket knife he removed the lock and escaped. He came back to the home of his sister, Mrs. L. Probst, who is a widow, and without a word of warning pecked up a chair and proceeded to beat her members of the household. It then became apparent that he would have to be taken to the asylum, and deputy sheriff G. W. Morrow and A. T. Powell took him to Albany, where he was confined up in the rooming house at Charles hotel, but this was not just to his liking, so with his pocket knife he removed the lock and escaped. He came back to the home of his sister, Mrs. L. Probst, who is a widow, and without a word of warning pecked up a chair and proceeded to beat her members of the household. It then became apparent that he would have to be taken to the asylum, and deputy sheriff G. W. Morrow and A. T. Powell took him to Albany, where he was confined up in the rooming house at Charles hotel, but this was not just to his liking, so with his pocket knife he removed the lock and escaped. He came back to the home of his sister, Mrs. L. Probst, who is a widow, and without a word of warning pecked up a chair and proceeded to beat her members of the household. It then became apparent that he would have to be taken to the asylum, and deputy sheriff G. W. Morrow and A. T. Powell took him to Albany, where he was confined up in the rooming house at Charles hotel, but this was not just to his liking, so with his pocket knife he removed the lock and escaped. He came back to the home of his sister, Mrs. L. Probst, who is a widow, and without a word of warning pecked up a chair and proceeded to beat her members of the household. It then became apparent that he would have to be taken to the asylum, and deputy sheriff G. W. Morrow and A. T. Powell took him to Albany, where he was confined up in the rooming house at Charles hotel, but this was not just to his liking, so with his pocket knife he removed the lock and escaped. He came back to the home of his sister, Mrs. L. Probst, who is a widow, and without a word of warning pecked up a chair and proceeded to beat her members of the household. It then became apparent that he would have to be taken to the asylum, and deputy sheriff G. W. Morrow and A. T. Powell took him to Albany, where he was confined up in the rooming house at Charles hotel, but this was not just to his liking, so with his pocket knife he removed the lock and escaped. He came back to the home of his sister, Mrs. L. Probst, who is a widow, and without a word of warning pecked up a chair and proceeded to beat her members of the household. It then became apparent that he would have to be taken to the asylum, and deputy sheriff G. W. Morrow and A. T. Powell took him to Albany, where he was confined up in the rooming house at Charles hotel, but this was not just to his liking, so with his pocket knife he removed the lock and escaped. He came back to the home of his sister, Mrs. L. Probst, who is a widow, and without a word of warning pecked up a chair and proceeded to beat her members of the household. It then became apparent that he would have to be taken to the asylum, and deputy sheriff G. W. Morrow and A. T. Powell took him to Albany, where he was confined up in the rooming house at Charles hotel, but this was not just to his liking, so with his pocket knife he removed the lock and escaped. He came back to the home of his sister, Mrs. L. Probst, who is a widow, and without a word of warning pecked up a chair and proceeded to beat her members of the household. It then became apparent that he would have to be taken to the asylum, and deputy sheriff G. W. Morrow and A. T. Powell took him to Albany, where he was confined up in the rooming house at Charles hotel, but this was not just to his liking, so with his pocket knife he removed the lock and escaped. He came back to the home of his sister, Mrs. L. Probst, who is a widow, and without a word of warning pecked up a chair and proceeded to beat her members of the household. It then became apparent that he would have to be taken to the asylum, and deputy sheriff G. W. Morrow and A. T. Powell took him to Albany, where he was confined up in the rooming house at Charles hotel, but this was not just to his liking, so with his pocket knife he removed the lock and escaped. He came back to the home of his sister, Mrs. L. Probst, who is a widow, and without a word of warning pecked up a chair and proceeded to beat her members of the household. It then became apparent that he would have to be taken to the asylum, and deputy sheriff G. W. Morrow and A. T. Powell took him to Albany, where he was confined up in the rooming house at Charles hotel, but this was not just to his liking, so with his pocket knife he removed the lock and escaped. He came back to the home of his sister, Mrs. L. Probst, who is a widow, and without a word of warning pecked up a chair and proceeded to beat her members of the household. It then became apparent that he would have to be taken to the asylum, and deputy sheriff G. W. Morrow and A. T. Powell took him to Albany, where he was confined up in the rooming house at Charles hotel, but this was not just to his liking, so with his pocket knife he removed the lock and escaped. He came back to the home of his sister, Mrs. L. Probst, who is a widow, and without a word of warning pecked up a chair and proceeded to beat her members of the household. It then became apparent that he would have to be taken to the asylum, and deputy sheriff G. W. Morrow and A. T. Powell took him to Albany, where he was confined up in the rooming house at Charles hotel, but this was not just to his liking, so with his pocket knife he removed the lock and escaped. He came back to the home of his sister, Mrs. L. Probst, who is a widow, and without a word of warning pecked up a chair and proceeded to beat her members of the household. It then became apparent that he would have to be taken to the asylum, and deputy sheriff G. W. Morrow and A. T. Powell took him to Albany, where he was confined up in the rooming house at Charles hotel, but this was not just to his liking, so with his pocket knife he removed the lock and escaped. He came back to the home of his sister, Mrs. L. Probst, who is a widow, and without a word of warning pecked up a chair and proceeded to beat her members of the household. It then became apparent that he would have to be taken to the asylum, and deputy sheriff G. W. Morrow and A. T. Powell took him to Albany, where he was confined up in the rooming house at Charles hotel, but this was not just to his liking, so with his pocket knife he removed the lock and escaped. He came back to the home of his sister, Mrs. L. Probst, who is a widow, and without a word of warning pecked up a chair and proceeded to beat her members of the household. It then became apparent that he would have to be taken to the asylum, and deputy sheriff G. W. Morrow and A. T. Powell took him to Albany, where he was confined up in the rooming house at Charles hotel, but this was not just to his liking, so with his pocket knife he removed the lock and escaped. He came back to the home of his sister, Mrs. L. Probst, who is a widow, and without a word of warning pecked up a chair and proceeded to beat her members of the household. It then became apparent that he would have to be taken to the asylum, and deputy sheriff G. W. Morrow and A. T. Powell took him to Albany, where he was confined up in the rooming house at Charles hotel, but this was not just to his liking, so with his pocket knife he removed the lock and escaped. He came back to the home of his sister, Mrs. L. Probst, who is a widow, and without a word of warning pecked up a chair and proceeded to beat her members of the household. It then became apparent that he would have to be taken to the asylum, and deputy sheriff G. W. Morrow and A. T. Powell took him to Albany, where he was confined up in the rooming house at Charles hotel, but this was not just to his liking, so with his pocket knife he removed the lock and escaped. He came back to the home of his sister, Mrs. L. Probst, who is a widow, and without a word of warning pecked up a chair and proceeded to beat her members of the household. It then became apparent that he would have to be taken to the asylum, and deputy sheriff G. W. Morrow and A. T. Powell took him to Albany, where he was confined up in the rooming house at Charles hotel, but this was not just to his liking, so with his pocket knife he removed the lock and escaped. He came back to the home of his sister, Mrs. L. Probst, who is a widow, and without a word of warning pecked up a chair and proceeded to beat her members of the household. It then became apparent that he would have to be taken to the asylum, and deputy sheriff G. W. Morrow and A. T. Powell took him to Albany, where he was confined up in the rooming house at Charles hotel, but this was not just to his liking, so with his pocket knife he removed the lock and escaped. He came back to the home of his sister, Mrs. L. Probst, who is a widow, and without a word of warning pecked up a chair and proceeded to beat her members of the household. It then became apparent that he would have to be taken to the asylum, and deputy sheriff G. W. Morrow and A. T. Powell took him to Albany, where he was confined up in the rooming house at Charles hotel, but this was not just to his liking, so with his pocket knife he removed the lock and escaped. He came back to the home of his sister, Mrs. L. Probst, who is a widow, and without a word of warning pecked up a chair and proceeded to beat her members of the household. It then became apparent that he would have to be taken to the asylum, and deputy sheriff G. W. Morrow and A. T. Powell took him to Albany, where he was confined up in the rooming house at Charles hotel, but this was not just to his liking, so with his pocket knife he removed the lock and escaped. He came back to the home of his sister, Mrs. L. Probst, who is a widow, and without a word of warning pecked up a chair and proceeded to beat her members of the household. It then became apparent that he would have to be taken to the asylum, and deputy sheriff G. W. Morrow and A. T. Powell took him to Albany, where he was confined up in the rooming house at Charles hotel, but this was not just to his liking, so with his pocket knife he removed the lock and escaped. He came back to the home of his sister, Mrs. L. Probst, who is a widow, and without a word of warning pecked up a chair and proceeded to beat her members of the household. It then became apparent that he would have to be taken to the asylum, and deputy sheriff G. W. Morrow and A. T. Powell took him to Albany, where he was confined up in the rooming house at Charles hotel, but this was not just to his liking, so with his pocket knife he removed the lock and escaped. He came back to the home of his sister, Mrs. L. Probst, who is a widow, and without a word of warning pecked up a chair and proceeded to beat her members of the household. It then became apparent that he would have to be taken to the asylum, and deputy sheriff G. W. Morrow and A. T. Powell took him to Albany, where he was confined up in the rooming house at Charles hotel, but this was not just to his liking, so with his pocket knife he removed the lock and escaped. He came back to the home of his sister, Mrs. L. Probst, who is a widow, and without a word of warning pecked up a chair and proceeded to beat her members of the household. It then became apparent that he would have to be taken to the asylum, and deputy sheriff G. W. Morrow and A. T. Powell took him to Albany, where he was confined up in the rooming house at Charles hotel, but this was not just to his liking, so with his pocket knife he removed the lock and escaped. He came back to the home of his sister, Mrs. L. Probst, who is a widow, and without a word of warning pecked up a chair and proceeded to beat her members of the household. It then became apparent that he would have to be taken to the asylum, and deputy sheriff G. W. Morrow and A. T. Powell took him to Albany, where he was confined up in the rooming house at Charles hotel, but this was not just to his liking, so with his pocket knife he removed the lock and escaped. He came back to the home of his sister, Mrs. L. Probst, who is a widow, and without a word of warning pecked up a chair and proceeded to beat her members of the household. It then became apparent that he would have to be taken to the asylum, and deputy sheriff G. W. Morrow and A. T. Powell took him to Albany, where he was confined up in the rooming house at Charles hotel, but this was not just to his liking, so with his pocket knife he removed the lock and escaped. He came back to the home of his sister, Mrs. L. Probst, who is a widow, and without a word of warning pecked up a chair and proceeded to beat her members of the household. It then became apparent that he would have to be taken to the asylum, and deputy sheriff G. W. Morrow and A. T. Powell took him to Albany, where he was confined up in the rooming house at Charles hotel, but this was not just to his liking, so with his pocket knife he removed the lock and escaped. He came back to the home of his sister, Mrs. L. Probst, who is a widow, and without a word of warning pecked up a chair and proceeded to beat her members of the household. It then became apparent that he would have to be taken to the asylum, and deputy sheriff G. W. Morrow and A. T. Powell took him to Albany, where he was confined up in the rooming house at Charles hotel, but this was not just to his liking, so with his pocket knife he removed the lock and escaped. He came back to the home of his sister, Mrs. L. Probst, who is a widow, and without a word of warning pecked up a chair and proceeded to beat her members of the household. It then became apparent that he would have to be taken to the asylum, and deputy sheriff G. W. Morrow and A. T. Powell took him to Albany, where he was confined up in the rooming house at Charles hotel, but this was not just to his liking, so with his pocket knife he removed the lock and escaped. He came back to the home of his sister, Mrs. L. Probst, who is a widow, and without a word of warning pecked up a chair and proceeded to beat her members of the household. It then became apparent that he would have to be taken to the asylum, and deputy sheriff G. W. Morrow and A. T. Powell took him to Albany, where he was confined up in the rooming house at Charles hotel, but this was not just to his liking, so with his pocket knife he removed the lock and escaped. He came back to the home of his sister, Mrs. L. Probst, who is a widow, and without a word of warning pecked up a chair and proceeded to beat her members of the household. It then became apparent that he would have to be taken to the asylum, and deputy sheriff G. W. Morrow and A. T. Powell took him to Albany, where he was confined up in the rooming house at Charles hotel, but this was not just to his liking, so with his pocket knife he removed the lock and escaped. He came back to the home of his sister, Mrs. L. Probst, who is a widow, and without a word of warning pecked up a chair and proceeded to beat her members of the household. It then became apparent that he would have to be taken to the asylum, and deputy sheriff G. W. Morrow and A. T. Powell took him to Albany, where he was confined up in the rooming house at Charles hotel, but this was not just to his liking, so with his pocket knife he removed the lock and escaped. He came back to the home of his sister, Mrs. L. Probst, who is a widow, and without a word of warning pecked up a chair and proceeded to beat her members of the household. It then became apparent that he would have to be taken to the asylum, and deputy sheriff G. W. Morrow and A. T. Powell took him to Albany, where he was confined up in the rooming house at Charles hotel, but this was not just to his liking, so with his pocket knife he removed the lock and escaped. He came back to the home of his sister, Mrs. L. Probst, who is a widow, and without a word of warning pecked up a chair and proceeded to beat her members of the household. It then became apparent that he would have to be taken to the asylum, and deputy sheriff G. W. Morrow and A. T. Powell took him to Albany, where he was confined up in the rooming house at Charles hotel, but this was not just to his liking, so with his pocket knife he removed the lock and escaped. He came back to the home of his sister, Mrs. L. Probst, who is a widow, and without a word of warning pecked up a chair and proceeded to beat her members of the household. It then became apparent that he would have to be taken to the asylum, and deputy sheriff G. W. Morrow and A. T. Powell took him to Albany, where he was confined up in the rooming house at Charles hotel, but this was not just to his liking, so with his pocket knife he removed the lock and escaped. He came back to the home of his sister, Mrs. L. Probst, who is a widow, and without a word of warning pecked up a chair and proceeded to beat her members of the household. It then became apparent that he would have to be taken to the asylum, and deputy sheriff G. W. Morrow and A. T. Powell took him to Albany, where he was confined up in the rooming house at Charles hotel, but this was not just to his liking, so with his pocket knife he removed the lock and escaped. He came back to the home of his sister, Mrs. L. Probst, who is a widow, and without a word of warning pecked up a chair and proceeded to beat her members of the household. It then became apparent that he would have to be taken to the asylum, and deputy sheriff G. W. Morrow and A. T. Powell took him to Albany, where he was confined up in the rooming house at Charles hotel, but this was not just to his liking, so with his pocket knife he removed the lock and escaped. He came back to the home of his sister, Mrs. L. Probst, who is a widow, and without a word of warning pecked up a chair and proceeded to beat her members of the household. It then became apparent that he would have to be taken to the asylum, and deputy sheriff G. W. Morrow and A. T. Powell took him to Albany, where he was confined up in the rooming house at Charles hotel, but this was not just to his liking, so with his pocket knife he removed the lock and escaped. He came back to the home of his sister, Mrs. L. Probst, who is a widow, and without a word of warning pecked up a chair and proceeded