A FEW FARM NOTES

It does not require an agricultural education for a young man to sow his wild oats.

"There goes another milk punch" said the old man when the cow kicked the pail of milk over.

W. A. Wilshire, of Lakeview, has bought 1,000 ewes and 400 lambs for which he paid the rounds sum of $4,000.

C. H. Horsman of Ukiah, Oregon, has been buying some farms in Sedgwick county, Cal., and proposes soon to remove there to engage in the breeding of fine stock.—Denver Field and Farm.

J. B. Stump reports the sale of four registered Shorthorn cows and one bull calf to Dr. Crowley, of Lane county, which will be used as the foundation of another Shorthorn herd in Oregon.

W. J. Machette, of Carrolton, Wash. purchased this week from J. B. Stump 25 head of goats and one pure bred ram from the Landrum flock. Mr. Stump is having a big demand for his goats this fall and it keeps him hustling to fill orders.

The war demand for mules has raised their price so that the best mules now sell at from $150 to $200. The United States government has purchased 16,000 at an average price of about $100 each. If the mules could vote it would not be for war.

The Oregon State Poultry Association has done much in the past to build up the poultry interest of the state, and can do much in the future toward improvements along intelligent lines in breeding, feeding and marketing poultry. The annual show will be held in Albany next year.

January, and every poultryman should make an effort to be there, and with birds.

I. C. Mosher has a fine crop of grain growing in the infield of the State Fair grounds and is plowing up the track which he will have in fine condition for early training. Mr. Mosher has about thirty head of horses of his own, from which he will select a training stable for next season.

Following up the custom of former years, the goat breeders will hold their annual show at Dallas, Oregon, in March. Mr. U. S. Grant, the goat breeder, has the matter in charge and will make it a success. Among the attractions will be a shearing contest, which will be worth seeing. As the goat business is having some thing of a boom, these shows should be well patronized.

Local stock buyers say that there has never before such a demand for thorough-bred bulls as there is at the present time, in Benton county. Nearly all farmers are apparently making arrangements to keep a larger supply of stock, and to turn their attention entirely to the better grade. In a few years scrub cattle and sheep will have disappeared from the county.—Corvallis Times.

The Albany Herald of Saturday says C. L. Shaw, who resides near Albany, milks 14 cows, taking the milk to the Albany Creamery. Yesterday he received a check for $104.40 for returns from the 14 cows for the past 30 days. This is an excellent showing and illustrates what a profit can be made from creameries and dairying when properly conducted. Mr. Shaw grows clover, grain and hay besides corn for silage. He feeds his cows plentifully and keeps a fine herd of well bred Jerseys.

Pumpkins are usually grown in the corn field, under the supposition that it is economical to grow them in that manner, but the land does not respond to two crops as favorably as to one. The proper way to grow pumpkins is to prepare a piece of ground for them and grow them as a special crop, apart from corn. They can then be better cultivated and will produce a greater weight than when grown in the corn field. As a food in winter in connection with grain pumpkins are excellent especially for cattle.

The case of Linn county vs. P. G. Morris and his bondsmen, which was tried at Albany this week, a special term of department No. 1, of the Circuit court being held for that purpose.

Dr. R. H. Curl wishes us to state that it will be impossible for him to be in the county for the next few days, at which time he will be on hand fully prepared to do all kinds of work in the dental line.

Judging from the way that Haggy the jeweler has been selling watches one would think that every one had money to burn, but after investigating we find that it is all on account of his exceedingly low prices.

The following are the newly elected officers of Deardorff lodge, I. O. O. F., of this city, who were elected last Saturday evening: Frank Morris, N. G.; Henry Myer, V. G.; P. H. McDonald, sec'y; T. S. Coffey, pres. sec'y; R. E. Hibler, treasurer.

Our local sportsmen are just now indulging in a little jacksnipe shooting. These birds are just beginning to show themselves, and in some localities there are large numbers of them. It is a very pretty good marksmanship to hit a snipe, and our hunters are dead medicine on them.

Turkeys are money this fall, and hard to find at that. The Portland market is equal to the supply, and at good prices, yet there are no turkeys in the country. R. E. Hibler has shipped a large lot of these toothsome birds and still has a demand for more. Our people here at home have been raising for turkeys this week, and many were unable to get hold of a bird.

The Lebanon Express Advance has this to say about one of our prominent Bohemian citizens: "Last week Craft Bros. sold to V. Cladek seventy head of cows (part of which are two-year-old heifers) and one Hereford bull, for which they received $1500. Mr. Cladek is a Bohemian who came out from Nebraska last fall. He lives near Larwood and is preparing to go into the dairy business on a large scale."

Albert Cole is going into the chicken business on quite an extensive scale, and last week received from Boston a large Pacific State incubator, which has a capacity of 800 eggs, and he has that number of eggs in the machine now. He has several chickens and a number of turkeys already hatched, and when the demand for spring chickens causes the price to elevate Mr. Cole expects to have quite a little "trove of fryers" on hand.

At the regular meeting of Scio camp, W. O. W., last Thursday evening, the following officers were elected for the coming term: E. J. Smith, C. C.; T. S. Coffey, A. L. S. P. Munkers, banker; G. F. Coffey, clerk; E. L. Jones, secut; A. D. Woodmansee, watchman; J. L. Hays, secretary; C. V. Johnson and Ira A. Phelps, managers. After the session had closed a lunch was served, and a couple of hours of good old fashioned social time was indulged in by the members present.

The county court has allowed $20 damages for the road turning from the county road near the railroad crossing below Shelburn across the Binner estate. Wm. Brenner, as administrator, asked for damages in the sum of $20, but the appraisers decided to allow damages in the sum of $20. The two Thyker brothers agreed to pay all damages allowed by the court provided the road was established, but it is not likely that the road will be authorized.

J. A. Blyeu was an Albany visitor Monday. He was transacting business before the probate court, for a couple of estates of which he is administrator.

P. A. McPherson, Supreme organizer of the Order of Pentecost in Scio this week working in the interest of that order. Mrs. McClain, of Salem, has been here for several days past on the same mission, and together they perfecting an organization Tuesday evening.

A. D. Reynolds, who has been in Scio for the past three months, left for his home in San Francisco Tuesday morning. Mr. Reynolds came here to superintend the running of the flax press, and when the Flax & Fiber company began work on their building he took charge of the work and put up the building.

He has made many friends in Scio, all of whom regret very much to see him go away, and hope to see him return again.

J. N. Jones, of Cottage Grove was in Scio over Sunday, visiting with his son, F. L. Jones, and while here he purchased the Blyeu property near the Commercial hotel, now occupied by Jennings Bros., and as soon as possession is given his two sons, Fred and Willie, will open up a saloon in the building. Jennings Bros. have leased the building and will have it fitted up and move their saloon into it about December 10th. Two saloons for a town the size of Scio is pretty thick but it is often said that opposition is the life of trade.

The extra bargains we can give you in underwear, caps and jackets, boots and shoes, as well as many other goods.

Men's full suit of best fleeced underwear, worth $1.25 for only 75 cents.

ROSS E. HIBLER

A new experiment in California is the culture of the Smyrna fig and Secretary of Agriculture Wilson is said to believe that this will be another industry for successful development in the South resulting, perhaps in millions of dollars annually. No doubt he is aware that figs have been cultivated on a small scale in Georgia for many years, and have been found to thrive in the open even as far north as the Shenandoah Valley in Virginia. Doubtless the Smyrna fig is superior to the vartletted fig, has already been grown in the south.

No one disputes the fact of Lord Methuen's late victory over the Boers of the suberb bravery by which it was achieved. But a problem suggests itself rather forcibly as to how many more such desperately won victories will have to be gained before Pretoria falls and what will be the awful cost in brave lives of so ending this especially deadly war.
