

PLAID SKIRTS...

Another lot just put on sale. Two numbers, one at $8 and another at $5 are especially neat and good value...

New Kid Gloves

Over 700 pairs of kid gloves for ladies just added to our stock, making it the most complete in the city. Our $1, $1.25 and $1.50 lines are very strong. We have also a fine assortment of new gloves at $1.75 and black at $2.

Note—Our $1.50 Centimeter, Foster and Lallome gloves are being closed out at $1.00.

S. E. YOUNG & SON, ALBANY, OREGON

T. J. WILSON,
Attorney at Law and Notary Public
SCIO, OREGON.

DR. J. W. VOGEL,
SPECIALIST FOR REFRACTION
AND DEFECTS OF THE EYE
PORTLAND, OREGON

Will make regular trips to Scio. Watch local column for date of visits

The City Election

The election of city officers occurred Monday, and everything passed off as quietly as the nature of the case would permit. There were three tickets in the field, but there was hardly any opposition to any of the candidates, the only rivalry being in the office of marshal, and even this was not of sufficient interest to bring out the full vote of the city. The new officers elected are as follows:

- Mayor—M. M. Peery
- Recorder—R. Shelton
- Treasurer—W. E. Gill
- Marshal—N. Young
- Councilmen—C. V. Johnson, Ross E. Hibler, L. L. Calavan, J. F. Sins, T. S. Coffey, S. P. Munkers and Ira A. Phelps.

A Happy Thanksgiving

Thanksgiving day was at the pleasant farm home of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Gaines, near Larwood, was spent in a manner long to be remembered by those so fortunate as to be among the large number of invited guests. Mr. and Mrs. Gaines have long had the name of being leaders among the hospitable of our citizens, and on this occasion they left nothing undone which would tend to more pleasantly entertain those present. When the noon hour arrived and all were seated around the table heavily laden with the best of the land affords, and of which delicious roast turkey formed no small part, it was found that the number present was an even forty-five, and all had the regular Thanksgiving appetites, and what more could one expect or wish for. The table reeked with its load of good things, and all was merriment and joy for a couple of hours, and when the hungry throng had all indulged to their full capacity there yet remained an abundance. The forty-five present were mostly relatives—children, grand-children and others, and none there were who were present who will not long remember the day.

Among those present were, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Gaines, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Davenport and five children, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Gaines, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Gaines and two children, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gaines and three children, Prof. and Mrs. Ed Morgan and two children, Mr. and Mrs. Mouser, two daughters and a son, A. W. Gaines, George and Wm. Leever, Mrs. Klotz, Miss Lottie and Master Otto Klotz, Maud, Paul and Arthur Mouser, Orval Sexton, Prof. Harder, Misses Sarah and Ina Gaines, Wm. Husk, (of Albany) and Jan Gaines.

Hon. T. J. Black Dead.

Hon. T. J. Black died quite suddenly at his apartments at the Imperial hotel in Portland Wednesday of last week. Death was due to asthma and heart trouble. Deceased was a prominent merchant and grain buyer at Halsey for many years and took an active part in the business and politics of the country. He was elected to the legislature from this county a number of years ago and was appointed collector of customs at Portland by President Cleveland in 1893 and held the office over five years. He has large grain warehouses at Halsey and was engaged in buying wheat during the past two years. He had many friends throughout the state who will be shocked to hear of his sudden death.

Come and See

The extra bargains we can give you in underwear, capes and jackets, boots and shoes, as well as many other goods.

S. M. DANIEL

OF LOCAL INTEREST

A. G. Prill, Physician and Surgeon Scio Or.

Commercial men were pretty thick in Scio this week.

Tasteless Castor oil that is tasteless, at Peery & Peery's.

For Christmas presents call on French, the Jeweler, Albany.

If you want a good hair brush at reduced rates go to Dawson, Albany.

The finest lot of walnuts you ever saw, received this week by Peery & Peery.

Hair brushes and combs at 10 per cent discount for 30 days at Dawson's Pill shop, Albany.

Christmas presents for old and young in great variety at French's jewelry store, Albany.

Prof. Dawson of Albany will sell for 30 days hair brushes and combs at 10 per cent discount.

If you want the best meal for the money (20c) served in the valley, go to the Albany lunch counter.

Manhattan horse remedies are positively guaranteed. They are the best on the market. Ross E. Hibler.

Mrs. A. J. Johnson and Mrs. Mac Gill are among those who are coming to their home by illness this week.

F. I. Jones is this week coughing and papering the J. A. Bilyeu residence preparatory to moving his family into it.

Quick Relief cough cure is guaranteed. Your money back if you are not satisfied. Made and sold by Peery & Peery.

J. R. Gill has purchased the interest of J. L. Ray in the blacksmith shop of Gill & Ray, and will hereafter conduct the business.

Dr. Todd has been somewhat under the weather, but is much improved at this date, and is able to attend to the practice of his profession.

Mrs. A. D. Woodmanson, who was ill last week has so fully recovered as to be able to again be at post of duty, as agent for the S. P. Co., at Westscio.

The chairs for seating the assembly hall at the new building have been ordered. They will be made at the Stayton chair factory, and will be here about the first of the year.

Gold watches for ladies and gents, solid gold rings, gold spectacles and eyeglasses, all of the highest quality, at French's jewelry store, Albany.

J. L. Ray has disposed of his business interests in this city, and expects to leave here in the spring and go to eastern Oregon, where he has probably engaged in the blacksmith business.

Dr. R. H. Carl wishes us to state that it will be impossible for him to be in Scio before the middle of January, at which time he will be on a single hanging in front of the drug store with "Mark's" the lawyer," engraved thereon with huge gold letters.

Mrs. Amelia Millard Fisher died at the residence of her son-in-law, James Elkins, near Albany, Wednesday evening, November 23, 1893, at 7 o'clock, after a long illness of 97 years, four months and 13 days. Mrs. Fisher came across the plains in 1851. She taught school near Jefferson during her first year in the territory, and was married to Rev. Ezra Fisher, a Baptist minister June 27, 1854. She was conscious to the very last, only a short time before her death inquiring about the war news, being a patriot and a loyal supporter of the Union. The members of the family to keep Thanksgiving but said that she could not be with them. Her life was spent in usefulness, both to herself and her neighbors and her good works will live as a testimonial of her goodness.

David Montgomery, an aged resident of Albany, died on Sunday last, met with an accident Sunday last, which came near resulting fatally. He was sawing a log in too and when the job was about completed the log rolled down the hill, and he fell on such a manner that the log rolled over him and threw him into the creek, where he lay until assistance arrived, and was unconscious when found, in which condition he remained for several hours. Dr. Prill was called early Monday morning and went up and attended him and he is now getting along all right. When he went out to work he was accompanied by a small boy, who when the accident happened, ran for help, and had he not been with the old gentleman, death would surely have been his fate, as he would have drowned long before anyone would have found him had not an alarm been given.

The outlook for Scio's future was never brighter than at the present time. New enterprises are constantly establishing themselves and our city is becoming well known in the commercial world as a city with flattering prospect. Within a few years time Scio will be something of a manufacturing town, and our population will be somewhat increased from what it is at the present time. There are already several propositions on foot which will tend to greatly improve the condition of things, and if our people will lend each and every proposed industry a helping hand others will come, and with them increased population and increased property values. Let each one do his part, and all work together for the common good of the town and its people, and the result is bound to be beneficial to one and all. In all probability before this time next year Scio will be the terminus of one or more large lumber flumes, and should they come here they will be the means of bringing with them a good many dollars, and likewise an increased population. With the thorough establishment of lumber flumes will surely come mills of more or less magnitude, not only in the timber, but in the city, or at least near the outlet of the flume. Should our commercial interest warrant it the railroad company will be only too glad to extend its line to this city, and this like all other improvements will tend to improve our city and her people and business men.

Ed Jones has disposed of his business property in this city to A. J. Miller, of Albany, at a consideration of $500. The property is located on Main street. It is not yet presented in every respect, but Miller proposes to do with the property, but will doubtless rent it. Part of the building is now occupied by the millinery store of Cole & Wyllie.

A. J. Johnson has tendered his resignation as a member of the State Board of Agriculture and the same has been accepted by Governor Hoar and G. L. Reese, of Albany, has been appointed to fill the vacancy. Mr. Johnson's time was so completely occupied that it was impossible for him to devote proper time to the work of the board, and in justice to the other members he thought it proper for him to resign. The place is, however, filled by a Linn county man, and a good one at that, and who is thoroughly acquainted with the work to come before the board, and who will materially assist in making the next state fair a success.

The case of S. M. Daniel vs. J. N. Morris, mention of which was made in these columns last week, was tried before Justice Rice and a jury at Lewiston Saturday last, and resulted in a verdict for the defendant. Counsel for the defendant was ably assisted by the fluent oratory of M. M. Peery, of this city, and it is said that he convinced the jury to his full satisfaction that there was no need for law in this peck of 'n' the woods, and also that a merchant had no business to keep a set of books, no law you need not be surprised to see a single hanging in front of the drug store with "Mark's" the lawyer," engraved thereon with huge gold letters.

Mrs. Amelia Millard Fisher died at the residence of her son-in-law, James Elkins, near Albany, Wednesday evening, November 23, 1893, at 7 o'clock, after a long illness of 97 years, four months and 13 days. Mrs. Fisher came across the plains in 1851. She taught school near Jefferson during her first year in the territory, and was married to Rev. Ezra Fisher, a Baptist minister June 27, 1854. She was conscious to the very last, only a short time before her death inquiring about the war news, being a patriot and a loyal supporter of the Union. The members of the family to keep Thanksgiving but said that she could not be with them. Her life was spent in usefulness, both to herself and her neighbors and her good works will live as a testimonial of her goodness.

David Montgomery, an aged resident of Albany, died on Sunday last, met with an accident Sunday last, which came near resulting fatally. He was sawing a log in too and when the job was about completed the log rolled down the hill, and he fell on such a manner that the log rolled over him and threw him into the creek, where he lay until assistance arrived, and was unconscious when found, in which condition he remained for several hours. Dr. Prill was called early Monday morning and went up and attended him and he is now getting along all right. When he went out to work he was accompanied by a small boy, who when the accident happened, ran for help, and had he not been with the old gentleman, death would surely have been his fate, as he would have drowned long before anyone would have found him had not an alarm been given.

The outlook for Scio's future was never brighter than at the present time. New enterprises are constantly establishing themselves and our city is becoming well known in the commercial world as a city with flattering prospect. Within a few years time Scio will be something of a manufacturing town, and our population will be somewhat increased from what it is at the present time. There are already several propositions on foot which will tend to greatly improve the condition of things, and if our people will lend each and every proposed industry a helping hand others will come, and with them increased population and increased property values. Let each one do his part, and all work together for the common good of the town and its people, and the result is bound to be beneficial to one and all. In all probability before this time next year Scio will be the terminus of one or more large lumber flumes, and should they come here they will be the means of bringing with them a good many dollars, and likewise an increased population. With the thorough establishment of lumber flumes will surely come mills of more or less magnitude, not only in the timber, but in the city, or at least near the outlet of the flume. Should our commercial interest warrant it the railroad company will be only too glad to extend its line to this city, and this like all other improvements will tend to improve our city and her people and business men.

Ed Jones has disposed of his business property in this city to A. J. Miller, of Albany, at a consideration of $500. The property is located on Main street. It is not yet presented in every respect, but Miller proposes to do with the property, but will doubtless rent it. Part of the building is now occupied by the millinery store of Cole & Wyllie.

A. J. Johnson has tendered his resignation as a member of the State Board of Agriculture and the same has been accepted by Governor Hoar and G. L. Reese, of Albany, has been appointed to fill the vacancy. Mr. Johnson's time was so completely occupied that it was impossible for him to devote proper time to the work of the board, and in justice to the other members he thought it proper for him to resign. The place is, however, filled by a Linn county man, and a good one at that, and who is thoroughly acquainted with the work to come before the board, and who will materially assist in making the next state fair a success.

The chairs for seating the assembly hall at the new building have been ordered. They will be made at the Stayton chair factory, and will be here about the first of the year.

Gold watches for ladies and gents, solid gold rings, gold spectacles and eyeglasses, all of the highest quality, at French's jewelry store, Albany.

J. L. Ray has disposed of his business interests in this city, and expects to leave here in the spring and go to eastern Oregon, where he has probably engaged in the blacksmith business.

Dr. R. H. Carl wishes us to state that it will be impossible for him to be in Scio before the middle of January, at which time he will be on a single hanging in front of the drug store with "Mark's" the lawyer," engraved thereon with huge gold letters.

Mrs. Amelia Millard Fisher died at the residence of her son-in-law, James Elkins, near Albany, Wednesday evening, November 23, 1893, at 7 o'clock, after a long illness of 97 years, four months and 13 days. Mrs. Fisher came across the plains in 1851. She taught school near Jefferson during her first year in the territory, and was married to Rev. Ezra Fisher, a Baptist minister June 27, 1854. She was conscious to the very last, only a short time before her death inquiring about the war news, being a patriot and a loyal supporter of the Union. The members of the family to keep Thanksgiving but said that she could not be with them. Her life was spent in usefulness, both to herself and her neighbors and her good works will live as a testimonial of her goodness.

David Montgomery, an aged resident of Albany, died on Sunday last, met with an accident Sunday last, which came near resulting fatally. He was sawing a log in too and when the job was about completed the log rolled down the hill, and he fell on such a manner that the log rolled over him and threw him into the creek, where he lay until assistance arrived, and was unconscious when found, in which condition he remained for several hours. Dr. Prill was called early Monday morning and went up and attended him and he is now getting along all right. When he went out to work he was accompanied by a small boy, who when the accident happened, ran for help, and had he not been with the old gentleman, death would surely have been his fate, as he would have drowned long before anyone would have found him had not an alarm been given.

The outlook for Scio's future was never brighter than at the present time. New enterprises are constantly establishing themselves and our city is becoming well known in the commercial world as a city with flattering prospect. Within a few years time Scio will be something of a manufacturing town, and our population will be somewhat increased from what it is at the present time. There are already several propositions on foot which will tend to greatly improve the condition of things, and if our people will lend each and every proposed industry a helping hand others will come, and with them increased population and increased property values. Let each one do his part, and all work together for the common good of the town and its people, and the result is bound to be beneficial to one and all. In all probability before this time next year Scio will be the terminus of one or more large lumber flumes, and should they come here they will be the means of bringing with them a good many dollars, and likewise an increased population. With the thorough establishment of lumber flumes will surely come mills of more or less magnitude, not only in the timber, but in the city, or at least near the outlet of the flume. Should our commercial interest warrant it the railroad company will be only too glad to extend its line to this city, and this like all other improvements will tend to improve our city and her people and business men.

Ed Jones has disposed of his business property in this city to A. J. Miller, of Albany, at a consideration of $500. The property is located on Main street. It is not yet presented in every respect, but Miller proposes to do with the property, but will doubtless rent it. Part of the building is now occupied by the millinery store of Cole & Wyllie.

A. J. Johnson has tendered his resignation as a member of the State Board of Agriculture and the same has been accepted by Governor Hoar and G. L. Reese, of Albany, has been appointed to fill the vacancy. Mr. Johnson's time was so completely occupied that it was impossible for him to devote proper time to the work of the board, and in justice to the other members he thought it proper for him to resign. The place is, however, filled by a Linn county man, and a good one at that, and who is thoroughly acquainted with the work to come before the board, and who will materially assist in making the next state fair a success.

The chairs for seating the assembly hall at the new building have been ordered. They will be made at the Stayton chair factory, and will be here about the first of the year.

Gold watches for ladies and gents, solid gold rings, gold spectacles and eyeglasses, all of the highest quality, at French's jewelry store, Albany.

J. L. Ray has disposed of his business interests in this city, and expects to leave here in the spring and go to eastern Oregon, where he has probably engaged in the blacksmith business.

Dr. R. H. Carl wishes us to state that it will be impossible for him to be in Scio before the middle of January, at which time he will be on a single hanging in front of the drug store with "Mark's" the lawyer," engraved thereon with huge gold letters.

Mrs. Amelia Millard Fisher died at the residence of her son-in-law, James Elkins, near Albany, Wednesday evening, November 23, 1893, at 7 o'clock, after a long illness of 97 years, four months and 13 days. Mrs. Fisher came across the plains in 1851. She taught school near Jefferson during her first year in the territory, and was married to Rev. Ezra Fisher, a Baptist minister June 27, 1854. She was conscious to the very last, only a short time before her death inquiring about the war news, being a patriot and a loyal supporter of the Union. The members of the family to keep Thanksgiving but said that she could not be with them. Her life was spent in usefulness, both to herself and her neighbors and her good works will live as a testimonial of her goodness.

David Montgomery, an aged resident of Albany, died on Sunday last, met with an accident Sunday last, which came near resulting fatally. He was sawing a log in too and when the job was about completed the log rolled down the hill, and he fell on such a manner that the log rolled over him and threw him into the creek, where he lay until assistance arrived, and was unconscious when found, in which condition he remained for several hours. Dr. Prill was called early Monday morning and went up and attended him and he is now getting along all right. When he went out to work he was accompanied by a small boy, who when the accident happened, ran for help, and had he not been with the old gentleman, death would surely have been his fate, as he would have drowned long before anyone would have found him had not an alarm been given.

The outlook for Scio's future was never brighter than at the present time. New enterprises are constantly establishing themselves and our city is becoming well known in the commercial world as a city with flattering prospect. Within a few years time Scio will be something of a manufacturing town, and our population will be somewhat increased from what it is at the present time. There are already several propositions on foot which will tend to greatly improve the condition of things, and if our people will lend each and every proposed industry a helping hand others will come, and with them increased population and increased property values. Let each one do his part, and all work together for the common good of the town and its people, and the result is bound to be beneficial to one and all. In all probability before this time next year Scio will be the terminus of one or more large lumber flumes, and should they come here they will be the means of bringing with them a good many dollars, and likewise an increased population. With the thorough establishment of lumber flumes will surely come mills of more or less magnitude, not only in the timber, but in the city, or at least near the outlet of the flume. Should our commercial interest warrant it the railroad company will be only too glad to extend its line to this city, and this like all other improvements will tend to improve our city and her people and business men.

Ed Jones has disposed of his business property in this city to A. J. Miller, of Albany, at a consideration of $500. The property is located on Main street. It is not yet presented in every respect, but Miller proposes to do with the property, but will doubtless rent it. Part of the building is now occupied by the millinery store of Cole & Wyllie.

A. J. Johnson has tendered his resignation as a member of the State Board of Agriculture and the same has been accepted by Governor Hoar and G. L. Reese, of Albany, has been appointed to fill the vacancy. Mr. Johnson's time was so completely occupied that it was impossible for him to devote proper time to the work of the board, and in justice to the other members he thought it proper for him to resign. The place is, however, filled by a Linn county man, and a good one at that, and who is thoroughly acquainted with the work to come before the board, and who will materially assist in making the next state fair a success.

The chairs for seating the assembly hall at the new building have been ordered. They will be made at the Stayton chair factory, and will be here about the first of the year.

Gold watches for ladies and gents, solid gold rings, gold spectacles and eyeglasses, all of the highest quality, at French's jewelry store, Albany.

J. L. Ray has disposed of his business interests in this city, and expects to leave here in the spring and go to eastern Oregon, where he has probably engaged in the blacksmith business.

Dr. R. H. Carl wishes us to state that it will be impossible for him to be in Scio before the middle of January, at which time he will be on a single hanging in front of the drug store with "Mark's" the lawyer," engraved thereon with huge gold letters.

Mrs. Amelia Millard Fisher died at the residence of her son-in-law, James Elkins, near Albany, Wednesday evening, November 23, 1893, at 7 o'clock, after a long illness of 97 years, four months and 13 days. Mrs. Fisher came across the plains in 1851. She taught school near Jefferson during her first year in the territory, and was married to Rev. Ezra Fisher, a Baptist minister June 27, 1854. She was conscious to the very last, only a short time before her death inquiring about the war news, being a patriot and a loyal supporter of the Union. The members of the family to keep Thanksgiving but said that she could not be with them. Her life was spent in usefulness, both to herself and her neighbors and her good works will live as a testimonial of her goodness.

David Montgomery, an aged resident of Albany, died on Sunday last, met with an accident Sunday last, which came near resulting fatally. He was sawing a log in too and when the job was about completed the log rolled down the hill, and he fell on such a manner that the log rolled over him and threw him into the creek, where he lay until assistance arrived, and was unconscious when found, in which condition he remained for several hours. Dr. Prill was called early Monday morning and went up and attended him and he is now getting along all right. When he went out to work he was accompanied by a small boy, who when the accident happened, ran for help, and had he not been with the old gentleman, death would surely have been his fate, as he would have drowned long before anyone would have found him had not an alarm been given.

The outlook for Scio's future was never brighter than at the present time. New enterprises are constantly establishing themselves and our city is becoming well known in the commercial world as a city with flattering prospect. Within a few years time Scio will be something of a manufacturing town, and our population will be somewhat increased from what it is at the present time. There are already several propositions on foot which will tend to greatly improve the condition of things, and if our people will lend each and every proposed industry a helping hand others will come, and with them increased population and increased property values. Let each one do his part, and all work together for the common good of the town and its people, and the result is bound to be beneficial to one and all. In all probability before this time next year Scio will be the terminus of one or more large lumber flumes, and should they come here they will be the means of bringing with them a good many dollars, and likewise an increased population. With the thorough establishment of lumber flumes will surely come mills of more or less magnitude, not only in the timber, but in the city, or at least near the outlet of the flume. Should our commercial interest warrant it the railroad company will be only too glad to extend its line to this city, and this like all other improvements will tend to improve our city and her people and business men.

Ed Jones has disposed of his business property in this city to A. J. Miller, of Albany, at a consideration of $500. The property is located on Main street. It is not yet presented in every respect, but Miller proposes to do with the property, but will doubtless rent it. Part of the building is now occupied by the millinery store of Cole & Wyllie.

A. J. Johnson has tendered his resignation as a member of the State Board of Agriculture and the same has been accepted by Governor Hoar and G. L. Reese, of Albany, has been appointed to fill the vacancy. Mr. Johnson's time was so completely occupied that it was impossible for him to devote proper time to the work of the board, and in justice to the other members he thought it proper for him to resign. The place is, however, filled by a Linn county man, and a good one at that, and who is thoroughly acquainted with the work to come before the board, and who will materially assist in making the next state fair a success.

The chairs for seating the assembly hall at the new building have been ordered. They will be made at the Stayton chair factory, and will be here about the first of the year.

Gold watches for ladies and gents, solid gold rings, gold spectacles and eyeglasses, all of the highest quality, at French's jewelry store, Albany.

J. L. Ray has disposed of his business interests in this city, and expects to leave here in the spring and go to eastern Oregon, where he has probably engaged in the blacksmith business.

Dr. R. H. Carl wishes us to state that it will be impossible for him to be in Scio before the middle of January, at which time he will be on a single hanging in front of the drug store with "Mark's" the lawyer," engraved thereon with huge gold letters.

Mrs. Amelia Millard Fisher died at the residence of her son-in-law, James Elkins, near Albany, Wednesday evening, November 23, 1893, at 7 o'clock, after a long illness of 97 years, four months and 13 days. Mrs. Fisher came across the plains in 1851. She taught school near Jefferson during her first year in the territory, and was married to Rev. Ezra Fisher, a Baptist minister June 27, 1854. She was conscious to the very last, only a short time before her death inquiring about the war news, being a patriot and a loyal supporter of the Union. The members of the family to keep Thanksgiving but said that she could not be with them. Her life was spent in usefulness, both to herself and her neighbors and her good works will live as a testimonial of her goodness.

David Montgomery, an aged resident of Albany, died on Sunday last, met with an accident Sunday last, which came near resulting fatally. He was sawing a log in too and when the job was about completed the log rolled down the hill, and he fell on such a manner that the log rolled over him and threw him into the creek, where he lay until assistance arrived, and was unconscious when found, in which condition he remained for several hours. Dr. Prill was called early Monday morning and went up and attended him and he is now getting along all right. When he went out to work he was accompanied by a small boy, who when the accident happened, ran for help, and had he not been with the old gentleman, death would surely have been his fate, as he would have drowned long before anyone would have found him had not an alarm been given.

The outlook for Scio's future was never brighter than at the present time. New enterprises are constantly establishing themselves and our city is becoming well known in the commercial world as a city with flattering prospect. Within a few years time Scio will be something of a manufacturing town, and our population will be somewhat increased from what it is at the present time. There are already several propositions on foot which will tend to greatly improve the condition of things, and if our people will lend each and every proposed industry a helping hand others will come, and with them increased population and increased property values. Let each one do his part, and all work together for the common good of the town and its people, and the result is bound to be beneficial to one and all. In all probability before this time next year Scio will be the terminus of one or more large lumber flumes, and should they come here they will be the means of bringing with them a good many dollars, and likewise an increased population. With the thorough establishment of lumber flumes will surely come mills of more or less magnitude, not only in the timber, but in the city, or at least near the outlet of the flume. Should our commercial interest warrant it the railroad company will be only too glad to extend its line to this city, and this like all other improvements will tend to improve our city and her people and business men.

Ed Jones has disposed of his business property in this city to A. J. Miller, of Albany, at a consideration of $500. The property is located on Main street. It is not yet presented in every respect, but Miller proposes to do with the property, but will doubtless rent it. Part of the building is now occupied by the millinery store of Cole & Wyllie.

A. J. Johnson has tendered his resignation as a member of the State Board of Agriculture and the same has been accepted by Governor Hoar and G. L. Reese, of Albany, has been appointed to fill the vacancy. Mr. Johnson's time was so completely occupied that it was impossible for him to devote proper time to the work of the board, and in justice to the other members he thought it proper for him to resign. The place is, however, filled by a Linn county man, and a good one at that, and who is thoroughly acquainted with the work to come before the board, and who will materially assist in making the next state fair a success.

PURELY PERSONAL

Attorney Queener, of Stayton, was in Scio over Sunday.

Merchant S. M. Daniel was up from Monmouth this week.

Johnnie Gill and James Daley visited a friend each in Stayton Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Morrow were Jefferson visitors Thursday of last week.

H. E. Burmister, of Jordan, was on the streets of our city the first of the week.

J. H. Golins, of Albany, was in Scio Sunday, visiting with numerous friends.

Henry Myer, Jake Bilyeu, and Luke Jennings were Albany visitors Saturday of last week.

Miss Lulu Parker, of Salem, is visiting in Scio this week, the guest of Mrs. C. V. Johnson.

Mrs. A. Cole, of Olympia, Wash., is in Scio this week, visiting with her sister, Mrs. J. W. Compton.

D. E. Berdan, of Jefferson, was in Scio the first of the week, shaking hands with his numerous friends.

Mrs. Ross West attended the Thanksgiving ball in this city returning to Albany Friday evening.

Wm. Jones arrived from Cottage Grove Tuesday morning, and will make his home here in the future.

C. O. Mayer, one of The New's Jordan friends and subscribers, was in Scio a day or so the first of the week.

Ed Myers, who is attending the Albany college, spent Thanksgiving at home, returning to school the first of the week.

Fred Pihlin, who has been stopping in Scio for some weeks past, returned to his home in Corvallis, the first of the week.

Miss Mae Jones, who very efficiently fills the position as instructor in the school at Munkers, spent her Thanksgiving vacation with her parents at Jefferson.

L. W. Brown, of The Dalles, was in the city the first of the week. He is looking after the estate of his mother, Mrs. Mary Leigh, whose death occurred at Monmouth a few weeks ago.

Miss Leasia Daley, who is attending school at Salem, was home on Thursday last for the purpose of disposing of her portion of the Thanksgiving turkey. She returned to her studies Sunday.

Malcolm Miller, who was up at Oakdale during the harvest season, returned home Wednesday of last week. He has just recovered from a month's illness with typhoid fever and shows the effects of it to such an extent that his friends hardly know him.

Elmer Thompson, who has been engaged with J. L. Ray in the blacksmith shop, left last week for eastern Oregon where he will work the coming winter and return here in the spring. He purchased a half interest in the mill & livery shop and since the last closing the firm will be Gill & Thompson.

J. L. Davenport, one of Larwood's substantial farmers, was in Scio Friday last, and paid this office a financial visit. He in terms said that there is a lumber flume built from a point on upper Roaring river to this city at some future and not very distant date, and ample credit has been provided to complete the proposition, and as soon as milling interests in that section will justify the flume will be built.

Planes and Organs.

E. U. Will Albany Or., agent for the Chickering, Kimball, Webber and others. We have bargains in organs, little used from $30 up; good order and guaranteed.

NOTICE.

From this time on I will sell sugar for CASH and PRODUCE only. And in future I will sell sugar at very little profit, but not on CREDIT.

I have to pay cash down for every sack I buy, and it is very hard for me to do this and credit out for six months to a year or two.

Ross E. Hibler.

Chamberlain's Cough, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy can always be depended upon and is pleasant and safe to take. Sold by Peery