BY THE EDITOR

The argument as to the date of the close of the 19th century is still going on. Those who think 99 years make a century, all say that the century ends with the year 1900, but officially it will be recorded that the century ends with the year 1900. It is a very plain proposition. It takes 100 years to make a century, and 1900 years to make 19 centuries, and 1900 years or 19 centuries are not completed until the end of the year 1900. By no process of mathematics can it be computed otherwise.

Now that an exchange has given the whole thing away, there can be no harm in publishing the following secret work of the fraternal press association. The outer sign consists of three kicks on the sanctum door, which will be given with force and deliberation. You will then remove your hat and advance to the center of the room. Place your right hand inside your pants pocket and your left hand on the door handle. The editor will say, "Send your paper to me." The editor in response will murmur "thank you," after which you will be seated and told him all the news of your lodge. If it should happen that you are without a silver dollar, try a paper.

The encouraging feature about the cow's education is that it is the kind that any farmer can give his cow at home on the farm. Unlike the young man and woman at the college the cow does not get her training directly from books, but she does get it by her own having a sufficient knowledge of books to apply scientific principles to practical feeding, and the man that ignores books, bulletins and papers as a potent factor in increasing the contents of his pocket book is ignorant of one of the prime elements of success. There is no doubt but that experience is the best teacher, but the experience of two men is better than one, and likewise the experience of a large number of the most successful men in any industry is worth a thousand fold more than one self-conceited man who thinks he knows it all. First educate the man; then it will be possible to educate the cow.

The following from The Oregon Mist is just a little on the political order but is pretty good, hence we give it: "A disgruntled old codger turned up in town the other day with a song he had not heard for over two years. He said he would have had a big and valuable fur crop had it not been for the backward spring and the cold in the leg and the dogs feet were sore from running through the grass. His cows had eaten tar weed and the butter was good for nothing but axle grease; a polecat had hatched out a litter of young ones under the barn and the children were down with the whooping cough and he was not feeling well 'hisself.' He attributed all this misfortune to the republican administration, and finished his wall by saying that McKinley was violating the constitution by trying to keep the Philippines, and that the country is going to the devil because we haven't got free silver."

At the conference of Mormon elders recently held in Salem two were assigned to duty in Albany. It is a lamentable state of affairs that this class of people is making such progress in disseminating its teaching among the too credulous of our nation. It behooves every true American citizen to put forth all the efforts possible to crush out the very traces of such an insidious monster.

DEFECTIVE GOVERNMENT

There is an Absence of Uniformity in Our State Laws.

Wide Differences and Conflicts Between the Codes of the Various States—Some Points on Which They Differ.

One of the most serious defects in our mode of government is the absence of a uniform system of laws. The laws of the United States are, of course, supreme in every state, but the subjects with which they deal are strictly limited by the federal constitution, and everything which lies outside is within the jurisdiction of the several states.

Each of the forty-four states has its own code of laws, to which at every session of its legislature large additions are made. There are wide differences and conflicts among the laws. Business practices which are permissible in some states are forbidden in others. Offenses which are visited with heavy penalties in one state are not punished at all in another state adjoining, and sometimes a house which happens to be crossed by a state line is in request, because certain acts which would be illegal at one end of it are legal at the other.

Marriage and divorce laws vary widely. Marriage relations forbidden in one state may be entered into under the more lax laws of another, and the parties to them may resume their residence in the state from which they came. A husband may desert his wife, and after living a short time in another state procure a divorce, and sometimes it is possible to conceal knowledge of the proceedings from her until the decree of divorce has been granted.

There are no means of reconciling these conflicting and contradictory provisions of law except by agreement among the states. An attempt has been made in this direction through the appointment by the several states of commissioners who meet in annual conference to consider measures for promoting uniform laws. New York took the initiative in 1895, and other states have since followed her example. Probably thirty states will be represented at the conference in Saratoga this month.

The conference has no powers beyond discussion and recommendation. It recommends no law until it has been agreed upon with absolute unanimity at two meetings. Business forms were first considered. A uniform law for the acknowledgment and execution of deeds was adopted; then one prescribing the form of a seal, then statutes as to wills, and finally the uniform probate act. Legislation as to the weights of the bushel or barrel was next considered. There are now variations which promote confusion and fraud; for example, a bushel of oats is thirty pounds in New Jersey and thirty-five pounds in New York. The conference has recommended the abolition of days of grace proposed a code concerning bills, notes and checks, and considered other questions of business law.

All the states appointing commissioners expressly directed them to deal with marriage and divorce. Touching the first, the conference has recommended that some ceremony, or formality, or written evidence, signed by both witnesses, be required in all marriages; and that stringent provision be made for their immediate record, however solemnized or entered into.

Regarding divorce, it was hopeless to seek agreement concerning causes and methods, but the conference recommended that no divorce be granted unless the defendant is domiciled or has been domiciled within the state where the action is brought, or has been personally served with process within the state. This would put an end to the stealthy procuring of divorces in other states than that in which the parties reside.

Few as have been the recommendations of the conference, those that have been adopted by state legislatures have been fewer. The work of securing uniformity in state laws must be slow and difficult, and partial at the best, but as the reasonableness of it comes to be understood, the commissions will be reinforced by a strong public sentiment.

It appears that the West has not fared as well in the selection of house committees by Speaker Henderson as when a man from New England occupied the chair. The Pacific coast states, especially, got the fall end of it all the way through. But, after all, we cannot blame the speaker for he simply carried out the old, time-honored custom of giving state members all the important places and leaving the new members to take what was left. The Western states are not strictly onto their job, for, as a rule, the best man in congress would be elected to a position where he can begin to accomplish something for his state, and then they pull him down and send on some more raw material. The voters of the Eastern states have learned by experience that when they get a good man into congress, the best thing they can do is to keep him there.

E. G. Briggs, of Sodaville, is organizing a stock company for the purpose of constructing a telephone line between Lebanon and Sodaville. The estimated cost of the line is $120 and stock is placed at $5 per share. Quite a number of shares have already been taken. A telephone line would be a great convenience to the people of the two towns and should be built by all means.—E. A.

OREGON'S SCHOOL.

Annual Report of State Department of Education.

Professor J. H. Ackerman, state superintendent of education, has completed the first part of his annual report to the legislature covering the year 1899.

The total number of persons between the ages of 4 and 20 years in the state this year is 132,408, of whom 66,529 are males. The total number enrolled in the schools is 85,230,43 male and 42,042 female. The number enrolled under 9 years of age is 18,244; number attending school outside of their districts, 3157. The average daily attendance last year was: Males, 30,563; females, 30,731; total 61,294.

The number of organized districts was 2093, and only 16 to report. There were 22 private schools in Columbia, 14 in Multnomah, 10 in Marion and 10 in Willamette. The total in the state was 132. The total number of schoolhouses built in the year was 66. Log houses were built in Klamath, Lane, and Malheur counties, four frames in Multnomah, two frames in Yamhill, and one brick in Wasco. There are now standing 79 log houses, 1950 frames, 15 brick and one stone, a total of 2060.

Twenty of the log houses are in Lane and 15 in Willamette. Five of the buildings are in Union and 141 of the frames are in Lane, 126 in Marion, 92 in Multnomah, 97 in Washington, 97 in Multnomah, 127 in Clatsop, 127 in Douglas, 124 in Linn and 87 in Yamhill. The stone house is in Multnomah.

The total number of graded schools is 262; teachers employed, 1942; pupils attending, 33,718; universities, colleges and academies, 21; teachers employed in same, 184; pupils attending, 6412; districts furnished with record books, 1279; with bookkeeping dictionaries, 1541; legal voters, 68,282; schools visited by county superintendents, 1448; miles traveled by superintendents in performance of official duties, 33,709. The receipts of school districts amounted to $1,327,781.89.

Some time ago Henry Gallett, a salmon keeper, placed in a deposit vault of the Ainsworth National Bank, Portland, a package which he claimed contained $2500 in silver dollars. When he opened the package he found it contained only silver dollars. Gallett has now brought suit against the bank to recover $2574. He will probably recover silver dollars.

Pomeroy, Wash., has a curfew law that bids fair to be effective. Instead of jailing lads found out after night, the authorities fine the parents. One of the worthy citizens of that place has just paid a fine of $20 for allowing his boy to be out after 7:30 p. m.
