Misses Dora and Flo Myers are attending camp meeting at Turner this week.

Geo. Bilyeu was over to the county seat the first of the week with a load of fat hogs.

Dr. Browne made a short visit to his old home in Falls City, Polk county, last week.

Mrs. M. M. Peery and her sister, Miss Olive Morris, were visiting at Albany Wednesday.

M. C. Gill's family are at Turner this week attending camp meeting which is in progress there.

Mr. C. V. Johnson, who spent last week with relative in Salem, returned home Sunday evening.

W. W. Heplurn, of Salem, and Mr. Rodgers, an eastern lumber man, were in the city Wednesday.

Miss Alice Cary returned from McMinnville Wednesday, where she had been visiting for the past week.

Attorney J. R. Wyatt, of Albany, was in Scio the latter part of last week, attending court before Justice Shilton.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Cole and the children went to Albany Wednesday for a short visit with relatives and friends.

Miss Mary Westbrook, of Albany, and Miss DeVine, of Shelburn, were visiting in this city Wednesday, the guest of Mrs. H. Green.

Bert Bilyeu, of Halvay, was in this city over Sunday, called here by the illness of his father, who is, however, much improved.

Mrs. G. N. Coffey, of Kalama, Wash., was in Scio over Sunday, visiting at the home of her brother, Walter Bilyeu. She was called here by the illness of her father, H. M. Bilyeu, who was quite ill with heart trouble last week.

Judge Barton, of Albany, was over this week the first of the week, looking after the bridges in this section. While here he instructed the supervisors to have new decking laid down on the approaches of the bridge in this city. This is an improvement which has long been needed, and will make quite a difference in crossing the bridge, as in its present condition and with the large number of patches on the approaches it is about all a common team can do to haul a load over it.

A FEW FARM NOTES

A cow which will make a pound of butter a day for 300 days in one year is a good cow and worth any man's $75.

A few pounds of bone dust or oil most down on your lawn will do wonders in reviving and stimulating the growth of the grass.

The machine for shearing sheep has not superseded the old hand method of shearing in Oregon. Most of the shearing is done in the old way.

Small, well cared for flocks will bring their owners the most money, just as a little farm, well tilled, is more profitable than one of many acres.

It is well to remember in the matter of conserving moisture in the soil that the formation of a crust on the soil prevents it and a fine dust much promotes it.

Early chickens are the most easily raised of the season's hatch, they are stronger, harder and come to laying maturity earlier in the fall and make good winter layers.

There is a brighter outlook for hog growers. It is generally admitted that the prices this fall are going to be remunerative. How remunerative will depend on conditions not yet determined.

Among the benefits to be derived from the present rain will be an increased price for work horses, as a bountiful harvest will greatly add to the demand and ability to purchase, says the Fossil Journal.

A few years ago countries in Eastern Oregon were paying bounties on rabbit skins in order to get rid of them; now we have a rabbit craze and are paying $25 to $50 apiece for them for breeding purposes.

The first one hundred pounds of fish is the easiest produced, and the last the dearest, and this business can be continued until the fish are producing the last will consume the profit in producing the first. Push to maturity.

To head a galled place on a horse's back or shoulder try the zinc remedy. Sulphate of zinc, six ounces; acetate of lead, one ounce, shaken in a quart of water. It will have a milky appearance and should be labeled "poison" and kept away from children.

Chickens, turkeys and ducks may be kept on the farm at the same time, without much trouble, but when more than one kind of chickens are kept there is sure to be bother at breeding time. There will always be better results from one variety.

It will be necessary to keep the pigs growing, and to do this it may be necessary to feed them in a side pen. In this way they will gradually learn self-dependence, and will not draw so heavily on the dam.

Good skim milk and wheat middlings will work wonders in a pig. Just because you are offered a good price never be tempted to sell a good cow who is worth as much to you as she is to the other man.

Most city people know what good butter is, and it is hard to make them take any other. Packaged butter is losing its hold upon the market. There is never any profit in anything which must be forced on the buyer.

In a bunch of beef cattle delivered in Arlington last week by Joseph Frizzell, there were three steers which weighed 6000 pounds. An Eastern buyer who saw them said he had never seen finer steers in the Chicago market. The steers were photographed in Arlington, and before an hour forty copies of the pictures were ordered. They were grade Herefords, of the Danbeman stock.

What is certainly a living wonder, and yet not a phenomenon, is a child born to the Rev. E. E. Ellison, of Walls Walls. It is a male child, born May 20, and weighs exactly 11 pounds, and has not gained in weight since the day it was born. It is just 15 inches in length and an ordinary finger ring can be slipped over its hand to its elbow. The child is in perfect health and finely featured.

Last Friday John Kotem purchased the John South farm of 200 acres near Lewwood, and has moved out there and taken possession. Mr. Kotem came here a few months ago from Nebraska, and is well pleased with our country. The price paid for the farm was $5000.

Notice the change in Chas. Wesely's ad in this issue. Mr. Wesely has about the complete line of furniture wall paper, floor coverings, etc., to be found in the valley. He has lately added a full line of undertaking goods, and is prepared to do work in this line on short notice.

Every county in the state of agricultural pretension should fit up a county exhibit for the state fair. There is no better place to show the resources of a county than at an annual gathering of this kind, besides there is a handsome premium offered for the best exhibit. Write Mr. E. Wisdom, secretary Portland, Or., for premium list.

E. J. Irvine has a force of men at work this week putting new stalls under the livery stable, and making numerous changes about the stables. Messrs. Irvine & Calavan have been enjoying a greatly increased patronage during the past few months, and it was necessary for them to provide more room, hence the improvements.

D. H. Johnston has purchased from Frank Butcher his fine residence property in the southern part of town, and will move to this city as soon as harvest is over. Mr. Butcher has not fully decided just what he will do, but it is not likely that he will move away from Scio. On the contrary he will likely purchase other property on this side of the creek, and continue to make his home among us.

The road up Roaring river is now completed to the new mill site, about four miles above the Pithers mill, and in a short time the Cameron mill will be moved from Crabtree to the new site, which is in the immediate vicinity of the Roaring river falls, near Mr. Cameron's timber land. It is the intention to build a dam from the mill to Larwood the present fall, and later to extend it either to this city or Crabtree station.

All vocalists of Scio, including all Sunday school children are requested to meet at the Baptist church in this city Saturday evening at 8 o'clock to practice for the Fourth of July. All those who have books containing any or all the national airs are kindly asked to take them with them to the church. It is the desire of the committee to arrange for a large chorus for this occasion, and we trust that all who can assist in singing on that day will meet for practice.

There was a small sized criminal case in Justice Salsbery's court on Thursday of last week, in which Mr. Butler had slain Platt and his son arrested, the former for assault, and the latter for carrying concealed weapons. Jas. Bilyeu acted in the capacity of prosecuting attorney, and J. R. Wyatt, of Albany, looked after the interests of Mr. Platt. After the usual taking of evidence of which there was a great scarcity, both cases were dismissed. The case proved to be simply a neighbor hood row, and one of those which should never get into court.

A man recently entered a newspaper office for the purpose of having inserted a card thanking the lodge, in which his wife
