Ben R. Holt Dead.

Benjamin R. Holt died at his home in Harrisburg, June 29, 1900, and will be buried in the family burying ground in the Lewis cemetery, about 10 miles east of Harrisburg, this Sunday afternoon. Mr. Holt was one of the early pioneers of Lin county and was one of her substantial citizens. He came here and took up a donation claim which he owned at the time of his death, as well as considerable other property. He was a man who took a deep interest in public affairs and was a material aid in building up Lin county. He leaves a wife and two sons. Carson Holt who is a druggist at Harrisburg and C. R. Holt, who is a successful dentist at Noma, besides all the old pioneers who know him as friends. In his death Lin county loses one of her substantial and successful pioneer citizens.

The editor of "The Last Creek Lyre" thus describes a little incident of everyday editorial life in its lively camp: "When he lit inside our sanctum. We most courteously thanked him for the honor he had paid us by the call and his hand shot like a rocket. To his arsenal hip pocket. As he passed a remark about our gill. He had come prepared to fight us. On his mortuary fence to hang our hide. But our nerve was working steady. And our cutting gun was ready. And he prematurely crossed the great divide.

An Arizona politician has been arrested for train robbery. This thing of carrying political methods into one's private business is almost sure to result in trouble.

Lord Robert is "up against it" again. There isn't enough of the Transvaal war left to make the British public anxious—there's just enough to furnish ground for "kicks."

Seymour's gallant attempt to reach Peking resulted in failure but his brave little army left such a trail behind through the outlaw hordes as is likely to live in Boxer memories for many and many a year.

Five monster steamers are in process of construction, having a carrying capacity of 20,000 tons of freight each, to ply between Pacific coast terminals and Japan and China. A barrel of American flour is to be laid down in Yokohama and Canton for $125 freight charge.

Death of O. M. Denny.

Hon. O. M. Denny died suddenly Saturday evening at Long Beach. He had not been well for some time. His death takes from Oregon one of her most prominent men in upbuilding of the state.

Mr. Denny was born in Ohio in 1838 and came to Oregon in 1852 settling with his parents near Lebanon. He attended Willamette University and then studied law being admitted to the bar in 1862. In 1870 he located in Portland. He was elected police judge in 1871 and 1873. In 1875 he was appointed collector of internal revenue and in 1877 consul to Tientsin, in 1879 was promoted to Consul General to China and a few years later became advisor to the king of Korea. In these positions he built up a reputation for ability and worth. Mr. Denny has a monument in Oregon to his memory by the introduction here of the famous ring-necked Mongolian Pheasant often called the Denny pheasant. Besides other interests Mr. Denny owned several farms. He was a brother of John Denny and Mrs. William Goldstein, and a brother-in-law of Mr. William Ralston of this city.—Albany Democrat.

TAILOR MADE SUITS

2000 Samples to Choose From. You can get any style you want. You can have any price you want. You can have your choice from more different goods than you ever saw in your life before.

Of course you know that every body nowadays who dresses well buys TAILOR MADE SUITS. That is a natural consequence, who would spend good money on hand-me-down clothing—sweat shop product—when he can get perfect fitting tailor made suits for about the same price?

You may be sure that nobody does who has ever worn one of our tailor made suits, for, "once a customer always a customer." He never changes back to wearing the forlorn, antiquated ready-to-wear, clothes—which no kind of glaring head bombast talk will help to sell.

You see our tailor clothes look so extremely fine on a fellow that he feels satisfied with himself and all the world. But how different with the poor unfortunate who wears the shabby sweat shop suits. He feels a sad pity for himself, and nothing but scorn for the one who sold it to him.

The 4 different firms of whom I get tailor-made suits say that they will outfit $600 if a single ready-made suit can be found on their premises.

ROSS E. HIBLER.

A FEW FARM NOTES

A seat in the New York Stock Exchange brings as much money as 1,000 acres of good Western farmland. It will pay to take care of the little black pig this year, for he is likely to be worth about $14 by Christmas time.

If you could work for 24 hours every day and make twice the money you now do, you would be just as far from being content as you now are.

The butter maker who tries to produce good butter and cheese from poor milk has a harder task before him than reaching the north pole.

Seventeen carloads of horses and mules were shipped from Arlington to Eastern points last week. The animals came from Morrow and Gilliam counties.

Your business will improve, your bank account grow, your health improve, your meals better, you will sleep better, and you will live longer if you will be cheerful and quit grumbling.

Seventy carloads of sheep have been shipped from Shaniko since the railroad was built to that city in May. They have gone to various Eastern markets, but principally Chicago.

One hundred head of horses were driven from Grant county ranges to Heppner for shipment to Minnesota last week. The price was $7 to $9 per head, and 1000 will be secured for the same market if possible.

The advance in prices of farm implements has been about $10 on wagons, $3 on cultivators, $4 on corn planters, $6 on sulky plows, $2 on hayrakes, $10 on harvesters, and $3 on mowers over the prices of a year ago.

Never forget that one of the best milk producing rations which can be raised on the farm is corn fodder well cured. It does not make very much difference whether it is fed as silage, dry stalks, shredded fodder or cut into chaff. It is a milkmaker, however you feed it.

Scientific agriculture is a fascinating pursuit, and a taste acquired for it in life will develop into a passion in after years. The country needs more scientific farmers, and the little red school house is the place where they should lay the foundation of their agriculture.

W. P. Wood, a horse-buyer from Indiana, is in Baker county to purchase 2000 range horses. Wood says that representatives of the English government have recently purchased in the state of Illinois and Ohio 35,000 head of horses for use principally in South Africa, paying per head from $125 to $150.

The Lake County Examiner says: "Buyer Lawrence purchased 500 mutton last week from Eugene S. Ede, the woolgrower, for which he paid $2.50 and $3 per head. The mutton goes to Sacramento J. H. Turpin, mutton buyer for Swanson, of Sacramento, has already purchased 1250 head of Lake county mutton."

The republican national platform declaration on the Philippines is as follows: "In accepting by the treaty of Paris the just responsibility of our victories in the Spanish war, the president and the senate won the unqualified approval of the American people. No other course was possible than to destroy Spain's sovereignty throughout the West Indies and in the Philippine Islands. That course created our responsibility before the world, and with the unorganized population whom our intervention freed from Spanish rule to provide for the maintenance of law and order, and for the establishment of good government and for the performance of international obligations. Our authority could not be less than our responsibility, and wherever sovereign right were extended it became the high duty of the government to maintain its authority, to put down anarchy, insurrection and to confer the blessings of liberty and civilization upon all the rescued peoples. The largest measure of self government consistent with their welfare and our duties shall be secured to them by law.

Ninety loads of cattle have been shipped from Ontario Oregon, during the last week, and 40 carloads of horses. The stock will be taken to Eastern markets. Ontario has also 40 cars of wool in its warehouses.

A. J. Shepard, who is teaching school in this city, received the news of the death of his sister, wife of Hon. E. M. Burch, this week which occurred at their home in New York.

A steam merry-go-round pitched a tent on the vacant lot opposite Jones Bros, saloon the first of the week, and was a source of great amusement to the little ones, and a good many "big" ones as well.

A couple of portrait people were in the city over Sunday, and we are told that they did quite a business. This is getting to be quite an extensive business, and solicitors are about as numerous as book agents used to be.

J. S. Morris has embarked in the produce business in this city, and is now prepared to pay the highest cash prices for all kinds of farm produce. He will make a specialty of poultry, eggs and butter, and if you have any of this sort of merchandise to dispose of you can get the cash for it by calling on Mr. Morris.

Ted Cary had the misfortune to break his right arm just below the elbow on Friday of last week, and is now carrying his arm in bandages. We are not informed as to just how the accident happened, but we understand that he fell off a pile of brush. Dr. Prill was called and reduced the fracture, and he is doing nicely.

C. N. Young finished the work of taking the census in the two Scio precincts in the allotted time, and although his work has not been made public the population of the city is not going to be as extensive as some of us had figured on. We are of the opinion, however, that Mr. Young has done his work well, and that none have been overlooked.

The paper mill company received this week five carloads of machinery, a paper mill plant which they purchased in California. The machinery will be placed in the mill at this place, and the output of the mill will thus be greatly increased. We believe that the new machinery will be used to manufacture newspaper out of wood pulp.—Lebanon E. A.

The Staton Mail raised a good sized kick last week at the number of people found by the census enumerator within the corporate limits of the little village. It states that the majority of the business men of the city do not reside within the limits of the city, hence they do not show up in the population of the town. They should have figured on this a little and had their lines spread out a little further into the country.

One would hardly realize what a change a little work and some scheming will make in the appearance of an old building until they gaze around the lively stable since the carpenters have completed their work there. New stalls have been put in the main barn, and a large number of new ones put in the shed on the north side. The new arrangement makes a good deal of work to do about the barn.

As Mr. and Mrs. Chas Beard were leaving town Wednesday evening in a single buggy and leading a saddle horse they met with a slight accident in the street near the bank. The saddle horse became frightened at a sky rocket and in some way got its halter in the wheel of the vehicle and upset it, throwing both occupants out in the street. No one was hurt, however, and both horses were caught before they became badly frightened, and were taken on home.

J. S. Morris cut his field of clover the first of the week, and those who have seen it will be glad to hear that he has about four tons to the acre, and perhaps more. Mr. Morris used a good bit of land plaster on the ground, and that it paid him well for so doing. Land plaster is unquestionably the proper thing for clover, and the difference between clover grown on land without the plaster and that on plastered land will certainly convince anyone of the benefits to be gained by the use of plaster.

There came near being a good sized fire at Johnston & Co's mill on Friday of last week. When just about ready to leave the mill for dinner N. E. Higgins noticed smoke coming from the roof of the engine room, and taking a second look he saw a small blaze in the shingles. He started up the engine and soon had a stream of water directed in vicinity, and before any damage was done the flames had been extinguished. Had he gone to his dinner without noticing the smoke the entire mill would have burned to the ground.

The little child of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Ritten met with quite a serious accident on the evening of the fourth, and one that came near proving fatal. As Walter was crossing the street with the baby in his arms a horse ran into him, knocking him down and throwing the baby about fifteen feet, and it struck on the sidewalk with sufficient force to crack its skull about the top of its forehead. Dr. Prill was called and did all he could to relieve its suffering, and thinks that no serious result will follow, and as the skull is not depressed it will probably recover.

Staton is following the example set by this city last year, and is improving the streets in a substantial manner. The work done by our sister city, however, is more thorough than that done in this place and is laying the foundation for permanent streets which will always be in good condition. The streets were all laid out anew and the grades established by an engineer, and what work that is now being done will be permanent. It plays havoc with a good many of the buildings, as well as many shade trees, but the people all sanction the improvement, and are doing the work willingly and with a spirit of enterprise which is indeed encouraging.

Dr. A. G. Prill has just received a complete case of eyeglasses for use in testing eyes that require glasses.

The case comprises a large variety of glasses—almost every kind known to science, and is accompanied by a full set of instruments for testing the eyes, and getting glasses to fit each eye. Heretofore our people have had to depend on sending away for glasses, or get them of traveling fakirs, and if they did not fit there was no show of ever getting the money out of them. Dr. Prill is now prepared to test the eyes and get glasses that will fit, and if not satisfactory the first time they can be exchanged, and he guarantees satisfaction in all cases. Call and see him when you need anything in this line.

"Abel" Powell has a new fangled zopher gun. He also has a mighty one hand whose is an illustration of the deadly qualities of the afore said zopher gun. On Sunday morning last Mr. Powell went into the garden to set his cannon for the festive gobblers, and in some manner he touched a trigger which was set for the sole purpose of using touch by the gobber, and about twenty or thirty shot were transferred from the gun to Mr. Powell's hand in less time than it takes to tell the story. Several of his fingers were pretty badly torn to pieces, and the palm of his hand badly lacerated. He was brought to this city, and Dr. Hill was telephoned for, and soon as he arrived he and Dr. Prill of this city, dressed the injured member, and Mr. Powell is now doing as well as could be expected. A large number of the shot were taken out, and several were left in the hand, it being thought best not to take them all out at this time, and if they become troublesome they can be taken out at some future date. Mr. Powell's friends, of whom he has a host in this section, are extending to him every sympathy because of the untucky occurrence, and hoping to see him fully recovered in a short time.

Another new milking machine is announced as the invention of Barton Bechtolsheim, who was the inventor of the "Altha" disc, now used in the Delaval separator. A critic says that the machine ought to fill the bill if providence will only decree that all cows should have the same size udder, of the same shape, with teats at equal distances and pointing at the same angle. This is certainly not asking a great deal of providence, and yet it seems to seal the fate of Barton's machine.

Dr. Parson, the eccentric millionaire of Chicago, who recently distributed $200,000 among the smaller colleges of the country, has explained his judgment by saying that in his judgment small colleges are more beneficial than large ones that the students are less crowded, contact with the professors, fewer amusements, are fewer from villages and the exactions of athletic sports, and it is probable the old philanthropist is right. At any rate, whoever helps to build up a small college is as much of a benefactor as one who helps to build up a big one.

THE GLOUIOUS FOURTH

A Day of Much Pain and Disappointment to the People of Scio

The fourth of July has come and gone, and those who anticipated a pleasant evening were sorely disappointed. Tuesday was a lovely day, and when the sun sank below the horizon all were confident that the fourth would be a day suitable for the magnificent celebration which had been planned by our people, but "Oh, what a difference in the morning!" Five o'clock found most of our citizens up and preparing for a good time, but the sky was cloudy, and the wind was in the wrong direction, and soon the rain began to fall, and it kept up a steady down-pour until almost noon, completely drenching everything and everybody. The program as arranged was all declared off, but the Jefferson band arrived at nine o'clock, and furnished music by the wholesale, and it was good music too, not the ordinary brass band music, but music of high order, and which was highly appreciated by everyone in hearing. Soon after noon the liberty car was hauled into the square near the Scio hotel, and the orator of the day, Hon Geo. W. Swope delivered a very interesting oration, after which there was a small sized parade with the liberty car and a number of other floats.

There were a number of foot races a couple of horse races, and a parade of decorated bicycles, in which Katie Paul received the prize for the best decorated wheel.

There were several hundred people here, and the crowd was a very quiet and orderly one. There were no serious accidents, and although everyone seemed to enjoy themselves pretty well, making the best of the matter as well as they could.

Another new milking machine is announced as the invention of Barton Bechtolsheim, who was the inventor of the "Altha" disc, now used in the Delaval separator. A critic says that the machine ought to fill the bill if providence will only decree that all cows should have the same size udder, of the same shape, with teats at equal distances and pointing at the same angle. This is certainly not asking a great deal of providence, and yet it seems to seal the fate of Barton's machine.
