At a special meeting of the city council held last Thursday evening Walter Bilyeu selected marshals in place of N. Young, who resigned at the regular August meeting of the council.

J. A. and Jake Bilyeu, Andy Hagen and "Jack" Jones were up on Crabtree creek the first of the week on a "cow boys" fishing trip. They came home "loaded" with fish and had a very enjoyable time.

J. L. Ray moved his family to Lebanon the first of the week, and they will make their home in that city in the future. Their many friends wish them every success in all kinds of success and happiness.

Arrangements have been made for some interesting horse races at Albany on Saturday, August 18. There will be a mile race free for all a purse of $20, 10 per cent in enter, a mile pony race for $10 and other races.

Emil Hanset, the tax expert, who is working at the mill in this city, has gone east to inspect new machinery for working the fax, and will purchase a new machine provided he can find one that will do the work successfully.

Harry S. Johnson was down from Mehana the first of the week, looking after business matters. His people will move to this city in a couple of weeks, and will occupy the Frank Butcher property, which they recently purchased.

The city of Scio has received a good supply of crosswalk lumber, and before the rains come down again we will be prepared for wet weather. There are a number of crosswalks in a bad state of repair, and they will all receive the attention of the city council in a short time.

A number of bicyclists of this city enjoyed themselves hugely last Monday evening, by giving a bicycle party. They all went down the road towards Jefferson—about four miles—and camped and had lunch. The moon was shining bright and all had a very pleasant time.

The fruit crop—especially apples—is pretty good in this section this year, and this fact has caused J. S. Morris to put his driver in shape for a good run. He will be ready for work the beginning of next week, and states that his driver is of sufficient capacity to even make a hole in the apples in this section.

The supreme court in the case of Jennie Smith vs. the S. P. has returned a verdict in favor of the plaintiff and they will now have to pay the plaintiff $10,000, the amount awarded by the jury as damages on account of the loss of both of the plaintiff's legs in an accident at Cottage Grove a year or so ago.

"Bud" Bilyeu, of Jefferson, has accepted a position with Irvin & Calavan, in the livery stable, and has moved his family here. The place in the barn was made vacant by the resignation of F. Butcher, who has worked for these people for a long time, and decided to take a rest, and will enter some other employment.

Mayor M. M. Peery is this week putting down a new sidewalk on the north side of his residence property, and the fact adds greatly to the personal safety of pedestrians and helps the looks of the property as well. New walks have also been ordered constructed on the north side of the J. L. Ray and J. N. Morris property, all on the same street and which should be put in at once.

A. F. Board is going to make quite a change in the Commercial hotel, which will give him six sleeping rooms in addition to what he now has. The improvement will consist of building another story over the present dining room and kitchen, making the entire house two stories high. By the addition of the new rooms Mr. Board will have about as nice a hotel as there is in the valley, according to its size.

A FEW FARM NOTES

For three years the Minnesota Experiment station has found no case of tuberculosis among the dairy cattle, while in the last year of the year it is found every year.

It is stated that the crop of sugar beets in California, which are being harvested, is unusually small in many sections, owing to the ravages of what they call sugar beet borer.

Cumbers are not only invaluable as an adjunct to the diet, but they should be eaten plentifully by those who have high colored complexion. Cumbers, when well rubbed into the skin of the face, will keep it clear, fresh and soft.

Try a little of the "one-half cup" (regular) and one-half teaspoonful salt, stir it into a thin paste with a little cold water, stir it into one pint boiling water. Cook about twenty minutes, stirring often. Serve with sweetened cream.

The outlook for a variety choice hop this picking was never better than at the present time. The quantity will not be so large as in previous years, but the crop for the whole state has to be large and prime.—Payroll Independent.

Our trade in farm produce with Japan is gradually on the increase. A telegram from Chicago says Alex. Melara has an order from Japan for five cars of butter and cheese, which will go over via Jim Hill's road and steamers.—S. W. Farm and Home.

The threshed grain is putting out very well. From 10 acres Robert Cooley secured 14 1/2 bushels of wheat to the acre. H. D. May got 100 bushels of oats from four acres. E. W. Scott's grain is about average 10 bushels to the acre.—Woodburn Independent.

Don't try to raise a crop of grain, fruit or vegetables and a crop of weeds on the same tract at the same time. It makes the crop sore and gives the pocketbook a consumptive appearance. If you must raise both, raise them separately. It is better to have one acre well tilled than two half failed.

The Germans have struck another blow at American meat importations by prohibiting all sausages and canned meats being brought into the country. While this provision of Germany's meat inspection law is applicable to all countries with which she does business in meats, the American meat takers in Germany will feel it the most.

The hop crop is in excellent condition and in bloom, says the Yakima Republic. There will be from 14,000 to 16,000 bales this season. The hops never looked better and are entirely free from vermin. There are only 2,000 acres contracted thus far, and the uniform price is 10 cents. A good many buyers are on the ground, but growers are not very willing to contract, thus far.

It is now about settled that there will be a game of base ball between Albany and the city of Scio. The game will be played at the latter city, and the purse to be a good sized one. Our boys have every hope of winning, and with careful practice they will have before the game a chance of 50 to 50.

Scio has a number of ball players who are hard to beat, and as Albany claims to have the best team in the valley, the game will be an interesting one. Our boys are fittingly grounded at the bicycle track for a practice ground, and will soon be getting some good practice.

City Marshal Bilyeu requests us to state to those of our citizens who have a city license, that when they are turned out of the pasture to be driven home, they must be driven home immediately and not taken up to roam the streets for a couple of hours, or they will be taken up. The same rule will also apply in the morning. Some of the people arise at the ungodly hour of five and milk their cows and turn them into the pasture, where they are driven to pasture by the "cow boys," which operation usually takes place about 7 or 8 o'clock. Hereafter those cows which are turned out before the arrival of the herder will be placed in the city levee prison, where they will remain until the arrival of a tour-bist.

It is hoped that City Marshal Bilyeu will strictly enforce the curfew ordinance in the future. There is a law on the books, which is being enforced at all hours of the night, and the law is just as much in force when the ringing of the curfew bell is with it, and those who come within the limits of the ordinance are violating the law when they remain on the streets after the forbidden hour, and are subject to arrest and imprisonment. It will only take a couple of nights in jail to teach the lawbreaker that his place is at home and not on the streets at all times of the night. Parents are the ones who should receive the greater portion of the blame for unruly children and should make it their business to see that their children are not violating neither the laws of the land or the rules of society.

Miss Laura Myers met with an accident Wednesday evening while out with a party of young people on a "hay" rack excursion, which resulted in a broken wrist. The party had been out near the Crabtree church to meet a like party from Lebanon, and when returning the team was stopped near the Beaver creek bridge and most of the crowd slighted to walk over the bridge. Miss Myers and a few others decided to ride and she was in the act of changing her position when the team started up and she fell out at the rear of the wagon, and her left arm was caught in such a way as to break one bone at the wrist and dislocate the other at the wrist joint. She was brought to town and medical aid summoned, and the fracture reduced, and she is now doing nicely and will recover in a short time.

The petition signed by four thousand persons at Nome, Alaska, begging the government to send transports to carry them away before they starved as a pitiful but logical outcome of the reckless rush to that region in search of gold.

Captain Tuttle, of the revenue cutter Bear, recently reported that of the fifteen thousand or more persons at Nome ten thousand were destitute. As navigation in that northern region closes about October 1st their position is desperate, and if they are to be rescued prompt action is required.

The plight of these unfortunate calls attention to the obvious but too often ignored fact that gold may cost more than it is worth. There is a vague notion that every ounce of the metal produced must be a net addition to the wealth of the world.

A writer in the New York Herald illustrates the contrary truth in this way: "Assuming that each of the unsuccessful ten thousand at Nome has expended one thousand dollars for food and labor in the search for the metal, that is a loss of ten million dollars, to say nothing of their wasted labor. An ounce of gold is worth about twenty dollars, and if forty dollars, worth of food and labor is expended in the search for it the world is a loser, not a gainer, by the operation.—Ex.

Apothegm on Grass. Grass is the forgiveness of nature—her constant benediction. Feeds trampled with battle, saturated with blood torn with the ruts of cannon, grow green again with grass, and carnage is forgotten. Streets abandoned by traffic become grass grown like rural lanes and are obliterated. Forests decay, harvests perish, flowers vanish, but grass is immortal. Heleaguers by the sunless hosts of the first solicitation of spring. Sown by the winds, by wandering birds, propagated by the subtle horticulture of the elements, which are its ministers and servants, it softens the rude outline of the world. Its tenacious fibers hold the earth in its place and prevent its soluble components from washing into the waiting sea. It invades the soil of deserts, climbs the inaccessible slopes and forbidding pinnacles of mountains, modifies climates, and determines the history, character and destiny of nations. Unobtrusive and patient, it has immortal vigor and aggression. Banished from thoroughfare and field, it hides its time to return, and when vigilance is relaxed, or the dynasty has perished, it silently resumes the throne from which it has been expelled, but which it never abdicates. It bears no blazonry of bloom to charm the senses with fragrance or splendor, but its homely life is more enchanting than the lily or rose. It yields no fruit in earth or air, and yet should its harvest fall for a single year, famine would depopulate the world.—John J. Ingalls.
