S. E. YOUNG & SON, ALBANY, OREGON

PURELY PERSONAL

Dr. A. G. Prill was an Albany visitor Saturday evening of last week

Clyde L. Hill and Miss Lulu Morrow were Albany visitors Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ray were over at Stayton the first of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Johnson visited with relatives at Salem over Sunday.

Jos. Warwick and Frank Beard left Wednesday for an outing in the Alsea country.

S. W. Duggar went over to Albany last week, for a short visit with numerous friends.

Moffitt, the house mover, was called to Salem Tuesday evening, returning Wednesday.

J. C. Simpson was at Spicer a couple of days this week, looking after the grain in that section.

Mrs. Ira A. Phelps and two sons returned Tuesday from a two weeks' visit with relatives in Jackson County.

Mrs. O. B. Cyrus, and her sister, Miss Ollie Morris, are at Portland this week, having made the trip on their wheels Monday.

Dr. and Mrs. L. M. Jones were in the city over Sunday, visiting at the home of Mrs. Jones' parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Morris.

"Bez" Cooper, of Robert's bridge, was in the city the latter part of last week, shaking hands with his many friends in this section.

G. M. Bilyeu was a county seat visitor this week. He took over a load of hogs, for which he received 4¼ cents per pound on foot.

Robert Carey returned Friday last from Belknap springs. He reports that the others were having a pretty good time but were not finding much game.

Albert Cole and George Stimson came up from Silverton last Saturday evening, the former for a visit with his family, and the latter to help to make the car run.

Fred Jones left Sunday for Eugene, where he will ride in several races there this week. Fred is right at home on the deck of a race horse, and if he has any show will come out in the lead.

R. W. Gill was out at Oakland the first of the week buying a band of sheep. He finds sheep more plentiful in Douglas county than here, and had no trouble in picking up a carload of good ones there.

George W. Johnson, accompanied by his daughter, Mr. Frank Baker, of Salem, was in Scio Friday of last week, shaking hands with former neighbors and friends, and attending to business matters.

Mel Young, who was visiting relatives here last week, returned to Portland the first of the week, to resume his work in the railroad office at that city, he being billing clerk for the Southern Pacific.

Charlie Crabtree, who has been visiting with friends and relatives in these parts for several weeks past, returned to Berry the first of the week, to again resume his work with the Spaulding logging company.

John Dickens came down from Dufer Monday, and went to Albany the same evening to probate the will of his mother. C. V. Johnson accompanied him, he having been one of the witnesses at the time the will was signed.

Andy Jennings and Will Richardson are at Eugene this week, attending the races. They have the famour Pat Murphy up there, and hope to get him over the line just a little ahead of any of the others, and in this they will succeed if he is in the going mood.

Thos. Smail moved his family back to Scio the latter part of last week, and the first of this week left for Independence, where he will join the crew of men who have charge of the big Spaulding log drive. He has just completed a contract of cutting 1000 cords of wood for the S. P. railroad, over near Turner.

Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Calavan and the children returned Saturday last from their month's visit at the Belknap hot springs. Mr. Calavan's health was not much improved by the outing, though at one time while absent he was much better, but grew worse again. His many friends are pleased to see him home again, and trust that he may soon fully recover.

D. L. Curl Dead

D. L. Curl, ex-county commissioner and a substantial citizen of Linn county, died at his home seven miles east of Albany Wednesday morning, of paralysis, at the age of 66 years. Mr. Curl had been ill but a short time but his death had been expected for several days.

Marcus De Lafayette Curl was one of Linn county's best known citizens, and an old pioneer, coming to this county from Missouri in 1847. Mr. Curl resided for many in the Forks of the Santiam, but a few years ago he moved to his country home near Albany. He served as county commissioner for four years and was an efficient officer.

Deceased leaves four children, Mrs. Joe Tryon of Tangent, Mrs. E. M. Burkhart of Albany, Mrs. Wallace Glover of Hwaco, and George Curl, who is now at home.

The funeral took place at the residence at 10 o'clock Thursday morning, and was conducted by Rev. Sperry. The interment took place at 2 o'clock in the afternoon at the Masonic cemetery, under the auspices of St. John's Lodge, A. F. & A. M., of which Mr. Curl was an old member.

Another Pioneer Gone.

Grandma Brenner died at her home three miles northeast of Scio Tuesday, August 28, 1900, and was buried at the Miller cemetery Wednesday. Mrs. Brenner was about 90 years of age, and was well known in this section, where she had lived for many years. Her husband died a little over a year ago, and for the past year Mrs. Brenner's health has been very poor, so much so that she has been unable to care for herself in the least.

She leaves three sons and three daughters, and a host of friends to mourn her demise.

Farm Residence Burned

The large farm residence belonging to Andy De Vaney, about five miles southeast of this city, burned to the ground Tuesday night, and the house and its entire contents were a total loss. Mrs. De Vaney and her two children and a sister were the only occupants of the house, and they were awakened by the flames just in time to escape without saving anything, not even their clothing. They had no sooner gotten out of the house than the roof fell in. The origin of the fire is unknown. The loss will be about $1000, with $300 insurance.

Prevented a Tragedy.

Timely information given Mrs. George Long, of New Straitsville, Ohio, saved two lives. A frightful cough had long kept her awake every night. She had tried many remedies and doctors but steadily grew worse until urged to try Dr. King's New Discovery. One bottle wholly cured her; and she writes, this marvelous medicine also cured Mr. Long of a severe attack of pneumonia. Such cures are positive proof of its power to cure all throat, chest and lung troubles. Only 50c and $1.00. Guaranteed. Trial bottles free at Peery & Peery's drug store.

Last Excursion.

The C. & E. will give their last excursion for the season Sunday, September 2. This will be a good opportunity for those who enjoy salmon trolling for a good day's sport. Salmon are running nicely and large catches are made daily.

It Helped to Win Battles.

Twenty-nine officers and men wrote from the Front to say that for Scratches, Bruises, Cuts, Wounds, Sore Feet and Stiff Joints, Bucklen's Arnica Salve is the best in the world. Same for Burns, Skin Eruptions and Piles. 25 cents a box. Cure guaranteed. Sold by Peery & Peery, druggists.

DENTIST LOCATED IN SCIO.

I am here to stay, not one week or one month, but to make Scio my home. I have a license to practice dentistry in the State of Oregon, as provided by the laws of this state.

It rained a pretty good shower Saturday last, and laid the dust in good shape. The shower was welcomed too, for it cleared the atmosphere, and made life more comfortable.

About 15 of Scio's bicycle riders went up to Frost's sulphur springs Sunday last, on a sort of a bike picnic. A very enjoyable time was reported, and no accidents occurred to mar the day's pleasures.

Craft Brothers sold 22 head of as fine beef cattle the first of the week as we have ever seen. They were three- and four-year old steers, and in fine condition. They went to Oregon City by Monday's train.

Mrs. Smith, accompanied by two daughters of Dr. O. M. Curl, of Weiser, Idaho, arrived in this city via Thursday evening's local and are now guests at the Arnold farm home on the Scio home.—Jefferson Review.

Dr. A. G. Prill has brought suit against Mrs. Matilda Crume-Garland for the collection of a doctor bill of several years standing. The case will be tried in the circuit court at Albany during the fall term, and will be hotly contested.

A very pleasant social dance was given at Houston's hall, in this city last Saturday evening, which was fairly well attended. The dance was given by the Big 4 orchestra, which has gained a reputation for giving very popular parties.

Damon, the little son of Mrs. W. E. Savage had the misfortune to be kicked on the elbow by a colt one day last week, which resulted in one of the bones being slightly cracked. The accident, however, was slight, and he is now as good as ever.

The sing of the wood saw fills the air these days, and reminds one that the winter season is fast coming, and that it is high time that we should stock up a good supply of fuel for winter use. Henry Myer has purchased the interest of Frank Morris in the saw, and is doing a good bit of whittling at the numerous wood piles in the city.

Chas. Carey has reported for duty again after a lay off of about a year, and will doubtless be given a station on the S. P. shortly. Charlie is an old employe of the railroad, and his absence from duty being enforced by illness he does not lose his rights, and hence comes in for a pretty good station as soon as a vacancy presents itself.

Frank Irvine met with a little misfortune Tuesday morning, which resulted in a badly smashed up hack. He drove out to Munkers station to meet the C. & E. train, and about the time the train stopped the team broke the anchor chain and capsized the rig. It was pretty badly broken. Frank telephoned to town for another rig with which to deliver his passengers and the mail.

If you have a baby in the house you will wish to know the best way to check any unusual looseness of the bowels or, diarrhoea so common to small children. O. P. M. Holliday, of Deming, Ind., who has an eleven months' old child says: "Through the months of June and July our baby was teething and took a running off at the bowels and sickness of the stomach. His bowels would move from five to eight times a day. I had a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy in the house and gave him four drops in a teaspoonful of water and he got better at once." For sale by Peery & Peery, druggists.

Dr. Clyde L. Hill is pretty busy these days with dental work, and he has a good deal of work ahead. His work is giving the best of satisfaction, and the fact that he has located here permanently makes it more of a pleasure to employ him. We trust that those who have dental work to be done will give him a call, and thus encourage him to remain among us, as no one can live without patronage.

The work of threshing flax is about completed, and already two carloads of flax seed has been shipped to Portland by the fiber company. They have an immense stack of straw to work on the coming winter and will be working at it as soon as the buildings can be made ready and the proper machinery installed. The company has scattered a good deal of money among our people during the past few weeks, and owing to the failure of other crops the money has come pretty handy.

Misfortunes seem to overtake a man just at the wrong time, and in some instances they find one wholly unprepared for them. Such is the case with W. H. Stam, who lost one of his horses one day last week. The animal took slightly ill, and within a day or so just laid down and quit, thus leaving Mr. Stam without a team, a fact that will be of great inconvenience to him this winter, and one cannot do much farm work without a good team, and the present harvest does not permit of a man laying out much money in horses.

Those who have anything which would be suitable to add to the Linn county exhibit should ship it immediately to G. L. Rees at Albany, who has taken it upon himself to provide the exhibit. Samples of fruits and grain of all kinds are wanted, and everything will be plainly marked showing by whom and where it was grown, so that each locality will receive credit for everything contributed. There is but a few days to spare, and all should work as one man and by this action Linn county can have a prize exhibit.

Just as Contractor Moffitt had got the old school building under way last week one of his big 60-foot timbers which he was using for false sills broke, necessitating nearly a week's delay in order to replace it. He was not able to get one at any of the neighboring saw mills, so T. J. Claxton sharpened up his "battle ax" and proceeded to the woods, where a tree was fell and a timber of the proper dimensions hewn out, and is in just as good a shape as though it had been through a couple of saw mills. After it was put in place the old house was once more started on its journey.

There are some who have become convinced that the old school building, now being moved to the flax company's grounds, is the abiding place for a colony of "spooks," and the frequent strange sounds which have issued from the old building from time to time seem to prove the correctness of the rumor. If it should prove true that there are really ghosts in the house there will doubtless be an effort made to locate the critters, and determine the "nature of the brutes." It is said that one of the men who are engaged in moving the building actually heard them having a sort of a war dance one evening last week, which fact accounts for the numerous grey hairs which have made their appearance on the top of his head of late.

The city council has caused to be constructed four good, substantial hitching racks in the city, off from the main street, for the convenience of those who come to town to trade, and an effort is going to be made to prevent hitching teams to the electric light and telephone poles along the street. On Saturday last a team was hitched to a light pole, and they just simply got nervous and broke down the pole. Had it not been for the fact that it was one of the main line poles and the wires held it up a serious accident might have resulted. Those who have teams to tie up while in the city should take them to the hitching racks, where they will be out of danger, and will not be liable to break down property and cause unnecessary expense. Quite often saddle horses are tied to light poles on the street corners and they ofttimes occupy both crossings, making it difficult for women and children to pass, and in such cases the horse could just as well be tied to a rack, where they would be out of the way.

The Linn County Exhibit.

George L. Rees and J. R. Douglas, committee to arrange the exhibit of Linn county products at the state fair, very much desire that producers bring in samples as early as possible. They have secured rooms in the old postoffice building on Second street, Albany. They urge that producers bring plenty of products so that the very best may be selected for exhibit. The samples will be classified and each grower will receive credit for his exhibits. The committee is prepared to receive and display every kind of agricultural, horticultural, dairying, lumber and manufacturing product. Linn county has heretofore carried away the first honors at the state fair and can do so again, if active interest is taken in getting samples ready for this display.—Herald.

Ready Sale For Sheep.

Wm. Percival, of Independence, has just returned from a trip to the east side of the mountains, where he went for a band of sheep. He secured 700 fine stock sheep, which he drove to the valley disposing of them along the way. When he reached Corvallis, his sheep were all gone. He expects to go back in a few days for another lot. He says that the price paid for the average sheep beats that of previous years, it not being uncommon to get $3.50 for a ewe.

A colored man from Portland was arrested in Salem on a charge of vagrancy. When taken before the recorder he was given "$40, 20 days or 30 minutes." He accepted the 30 minutes in which to get out of town.

Several weeks ago Walter M. Shelley, night clerk at the Hoffman House, Eugene, claimed to have been held up and robbed of $90 belonging to a guest of the hotel. On Tuesday Shelley was arrested charged with the theft himself.

Judge Bellinger recently rendered a decision in the United States court at Portland in a suit of the United States against the Oregon Central Military Road company, restoring about 100 sections of land in Lake and Klamath counties.

There is a carpenter at Logan, Iowa, whose name is Groves. He has peculiar family relations in that his son-in-law is a cousin of President McKinley, and his wife, Mrs. Groves, is a cousin of the democratic nominee, William Jennings Bryan.

The population of Greater New York, according to this year's census is 3,437,202. This is a gain of 37.9 per cent over 1890. While Chicago is forging ahead, it is not yet up to New York's mark, but it is younger, and may give astonishing figures in 1910.

It is the law of Maine that the bounty for bears shall be paid when the animal's nose is shown; in New Hampshire the ears must be exhibited. Some enterprising sportsmen living near the borders of the two states get a double bounty by collecting on the noses in one state and on the ears in the other.

Caleb Powers, charged with being one of Governor Goebel's slayers, was found guilty and sentenced to life imprisonment. The three anti-Goebel democrats and one republican made up their minds in the short time of 45 minutes. They were locked up in a room with eight Goebel men, and it was in Kentucky.

Mrs. Maud Geary, wife of the late Captain Geary, has sued the Provident Saving Life Insurance company for $5,000 the amount of the insurance carried by Captain Geary in that company, which refuses to pay it. The defense is on a clause in the policy, which reads, "that I will not personally engage in military or naval service in time of war without first obtaining in each and every case a written consent of the society." The plaintiff alleges that she notified the defendant upon her husband going to both Cuba and the Philippines.

The Portland Telegram hits the nail on the head in the following squib concerning W. R. Struble, a one-time Corvallisite: "Mr. or rather Reverend W. R. Stuble, formerly of Portland, but now of Chicago, after 'lifting his eyes to heaven,' decided that it was the Lord's will for him to support Bryan. This may be offset, however, by the discovery of another Reverend, who has published a pamphlet showing that McKinley's election is certain because it was prophesied in the Bible. A political campaign does develop some very absurd cranks."

Governor J. R. Fletcher, who went from Salem to Nome, writes a communication to the Statesman that is rather torrid, coming from such a cold country. He gives it as his candid and honest opinion that "it is a fraud from top to bottom—from alpha to omega. The boom, born in sin and shaped in iniquity, and natured by the basest means known to the ingenuity of man, was and is the work of the transportation companies, and should call down on these institutions the vengeance of an outraged people. That there is gold there is a fact, but the conditions for securing it are so extraordinary, and the exaggerations as to its extent and richness so preposterous that the whole thing may be set down as a gigantic fraud and a systematic swindle." Mr. Fletcher says: "We hazard the assertion, and time will confirm the prediction, that there never will be enough gold taken from Nome to pay for the millions of dollars' worth of machinery that was brought into the country this summer. The number of once wealthy people who have already lost their all in Nome is almost beyond belief.—Salem Statesman.

"One Hundred Years in the White House," opening the September Ladies' Home Journal, gives some highly interesting glimpses of the social life of the century, and of the home life of our presidents since the time the Adamses moved into the Executive Mansion as its first occupants, in November, 1800. The "Romances of Some Southern Homes," in the same issue, pictures the most notable historic mansions of the South, and recalls the incidents which made them famous—their brave men and beautiful women. Some new anecdotes attract further interest to the beloved Phillips Brooks, as a man and as a preacher. They are characteristic, and exceedingly well told. Anticipating the rather radical change that fashion has decreed in woman's attire, ten special articles are devoted to the fall and winter modes. The pictorial features of the September Journal include a page drawing of "Loiterers at the Railroad Station," as A. B. Frost sees them; "The Wonders of California Gardens," and the beauties of Yellowstone Park. There are numerous practical articles and much else that is helpful in the departments. By The Curtis Publishing company, Philadelphia. One dollar a year; ten cents a copy.

New Variety of Eggs.

Wednesday of this week Landlord Morrow, of the Scio hotel, went to one of our grocery stores to purchase some eggs for breakfast, and among them were three or four little gourds which resembled eggs so closely that they were put into the sack with the eggs, either as a joke or by mistake. When they were taken to the kitchen to be prepared for breakfast the mistake was soon discovered, but nothing was said about it until the following morning, when they were placed before Henry Bickner, nicely boiled. Now he declares that he has been flim-flammed by some honest farmer. The joke was a good one, and he will hereafter test every egg he buys, and be sure that he does not get gourds at 20 cents per dozen.
