Age of Tree Maturity.

Authorities on forestry say that 75 years are required for the oak to reach maturity; or the ash, larch and elm, about the same length of time; for the spruce and fir, about 80 years. After this time their groth remains stationary for some years, and then decay begins. There are, however, some exceptions, for oaks are still living which are known to be 1,000 years old.

Contagious Blood Poison

There is no poison so highly contagious, so deceptive and so destructive. Don't be too sure you are cured because all external signs of the disease have disappeared, and the doctor says you are well. Many persons have been dosed with Mercury and Potash for months or years, and pronounced cured—to realize when too late that the disease was only covered up—driven from the surface to break out again, and to their sorrow and mortification find those nearest and dearest to them have been infected by this loathsome disease, for no other poison is so surely transmitted from parent to child as this. Often a bad case of Rheumatism, Catarrh, Scrofula or severe skin disease, an old sore or ulcer developing in middle life, can be traced to blood poison contracted in early life, for it remains smoldering in the system forever, unless properly treated and driven out in the beginning. S. S. S. is the only antidote for this peculiar virus, the only remedy known that can overcome it and drive it out of the blood, and it does this so thoroughly and effectually that there is never a return of the disease to embarrass or humiliate you afterwards.

Like Begets Like.

The Sin of the Parent.

SSS cures Contagious Blood Poison in any and all stages; contains no mineral to break down your constitution; it is purely vegetable and the only blood purifier known that cleanses the blood and at the same time builds up the general health.

Our little book on contagious blood poison is the most complete and instructive ever issued; it not only tells all about this disease, but also how to cure yourself at home. It is free and should be in the hands of everyone seeking a cure. Send for it.

IT'S ALL PURE GUESSWORK.

Talking with the People of Mars Is Subject to Many Difficulties.

There are many things to be taken for granted before we can believe that it is possible to communicate with Mars.

1. That the planet Mars is inhabited.

2. That it is inhabited by beings having a written or spoken language, or both.

3. That these people are as well up in astronomy as we are.

4. In order to base any hopes on the experiment with the kite man, we must believe that the people of Mars (or some other planet, the particular one not being material to the main question) have not only discovered wireless telegraphy, but have carried it much nearer to perfection than anybody on this planet has done.

All these things are pretty hard to determine. We may imagine, asseverate, debate about them at will, weigh possibilities and probabilities, but at last we may come back to the bold and uncomfortable fact that we know nothing about them. Whatever we say about them is pure guesswork. But if all of them were positively known with scientific accuracy, the difficulties in the way of communicating with Mars or any other planet would still be enormous. We have and can have not the slightest knowledge of what sort of language the people of Mars speak. It is safe to say that they are not in possession of the Morse alphabet or anything like it. If they sent us signals they would be wholly unintelligible. If they could write or print words in their language upon any substance attached to an instrument we could not read them. Mars has an average distance from the earth from the earth of nearly 50,000,000 miles, but it sometimes gets within 35,000,000. Wireless telegraphy will have to make great advances before it can cover a distance like that. If we are ever able to signal the planet Mars in any way and get a return signal it will be a very interesting event in the annals of the world, but we shall not be able to understand the people in the least.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

LAW AS INTERPRETED.

A gas company which negligently permits its supply of natural gas for light and fuel to flow with such pressure that a building is set on fire on account of it is held, in Barrickman vs. Marion Oil Company (W. Va.), 44 L. R. A. 92, to be liable for damages.

Personal assets of a national bank are held in people vs. National Bank of D. O. Mills & Co. (Cal.), 45 L. R. A. 747, to be beyond the authority of a State to tax, under U. S. Rev. Sta. section 5219, which permits and regulates the taxation of the shares of stock in such corporations. With these cases will be found an exhaustive note on State taxation of national banks.

Release by the Legislature of a claim of the State to a portion of a decedent's estate under an inheritance tax law, although the money has not yet been received, is held, in matter of Stanford (Cal.), 45 L. R. A. 788, to be in violation of a constitutional prohibition against gifts by the Legislature to any individual or corporation, and against any special law releasing any indebtedness to the State.

Correction of false entries in legislative journals is held, in State ex rel. Brickman vs. Wilson (Ala.), 45 L. R. A. 772, to be beyond the power of the court to compel by mandamus to the clerk of a legislative house after he has duly delivered the journal to the Secretary of State, or by mandamus to the Secretary of State, unless the duty of erasing such entries is imposed upon him by statute.

A pledgee's purchase of the pledged property at his own sale is held, in Gildden vs. Mechanics' National Bank (O.), 43 L. R. A. 737, to leave the pledge still in force, unless the pledgor elects to treat the transactions as a valid sale, in which event he can hold the pledgee accountable for the net proceeds, but cannot hold him liable for conversion so long as the pledgee has possession of the property and can restore it on payment of the debt for which it is pledged. The annotation to this case presents the prior decisions on the conversion of pledged property by the pledgee's invalid sale.

Cheerful Outlook.

A man wise in his day and generation says that one of the things which everybody really wishes is a candid opinion.

"I wish you'd come out to my house and see a Correggio that I bought in Italy last summer," said a collector of pictures and bric-a-brac, more noted for his zeal than his discernment, to a friend who was a connoisseur in the fine arts.

"It's a head, a perfect beauty—just a fragment of some great picture," he proceeded.

"I should like to see it," said the connoisseur, in his most cautious tone.

"I want your candid opinion of it, that's what I want," continued the collector; "I'd like to know exactly what you think of it. A man had the insolence to tell me the other day that he didn't believe it was an original! If another man says that, I'm afraid my temper will get the upper hand of me, and I shall knock him down where he stands. Now you come out just as soon as you can, and give me your perfectly unbiased opinion of it."

Unalloyed Bliss.

"Aren't you going to wear that necktie I gave you on Christmas?" inquired Mr. Meekton's wife.

"Of course I am, Henrietta. I was saving it up. I'm going to wear that red necktie, and my Nile-green smoking jacket, and my purple-and-yellow socks, and smoke one of those birthday cigars you gave me, all at once."—Washington Star.

A Non-Hydrophobic Dog.

HAD FAITH IN THE BANNER.

Small Boy Could Sleep Well Under the Folds of the Flag.

There is a 5-year old boy on Massachusetts avenue who is of the blood of patriots. His grandfather was in both the Mexican and civil wars, and his father was also a union soldier, consequently the little fellow has heard much "flag" talk in his short life and has exalted ideas of its "protective" qualities. He was the baby of the family till very recently and occupied a crib bed in his mother's room. When the new baby came Harold was put to sleep in a room adjoining his mother's, and as he had never slept alone before his small soul was filled with nameless fears, which he was too proud to tell in full.

"It's mighty lonesome in here, mamma!" he called the first night after he been tucked in his little white bed.

"Just remember the angels are near you and caring for you," replied mamma from the outer room.

"But, mamma," he objected. "I ain't acquainted with any angels and I'd be scared of them if they came rustling round same as I would of any other stranger."

"Now, Harold, you must go to sleep quietly; nothing will hurt you."

"Can't I have the gas lighted in here?"

"No, mamma doesn't think it necessary, and it is not healthy."

There was silence for some time, and then the small voice piped up again.

"Oh, mamma!"

"Yes, dear."

"May I have grandpa's flag?"

'Why, what for? I want you to go right to sleep."

"Please, mamma!" and a small night-gowned figure appeared at the door. "Just let me stick the flag up at the head of my bed, and then I'll go right to sleep. Indeed I will. You know the other night grandpa said at the meeting that 'Under the protecting folds of the flag the weakest would be safe,' and I feel mighty weak, mamma."

He got the flag, and when his mother looked in on him an hour later he was fast asleep with a little fat fist under his red cheek, holding fast the end of the "protecting" flag.—Washington Star.

APACHE TRIED SALT TEST.

Old Chief Victoria Selected Warriors by an Up-to-Date Method.

In the early days of Union Pacific railroading, Victoria, Nana, and the present Geronimo, the three chiefs of the Arizona Apaches, with 100 of their best bucks, came through to Green River, Wyoming.

They had heard of the "heap wagon and no hoss" and had come to stop the train. They made a lasso of rawhide, and fifty men on each side held on to the rope as the freight came down the Wasatch divide. The engineer saw when several miles away what the Indians were up to, so he whistled "off brakes," and, opening his throttle, let her loose. The cowcatcher struck the rope and hurled the Indians in all directions, literally tearing them to pieces, headless, armless, and legless. Three chiefs went south to their cactus plains, very crestfallen.

Before the selected these men the old Chief Victoria had them all eat a piece of rock salt about as big as a pecan, run swiftly about 100 yards, sit down on a log or rock, and cross their legs. Then he watched the vibration of the feet which were crossed. The feet which vibrated the longest or had the longest strokes he declined to accept for a severe duty or a dangerous trip, or for one that was at all hazardous. But he accepted the feet which vibrated short, distinct, and regular strokes.

Now, what did that old chief know about pulsation of the arterial system or of heart action, and, indeed, about salt in the system? I have lived near to Indian reservations and have had occasion often to survey over their lands for railraods and other objects, and since this salt controversy I have wondered where old Victoria got his ideas. Is not the child of the sage brush plains better posted than his pale face brother?

Only a Small Favor.

A quiet, middle-aged man who was in attendance at an operatic performance was much annoyed at the behavior of two young women in the row of seats behind him.

Calling one of the ushers, he put a coin in his hand and whispered something in his ear.

The usher went away, and presently came back and handed him a small package.

When the curtain went down at the close of the first act he turned in his seat and said with a smile to the young woman directly behind him:

"I beg your pardon, miss, but may I ask a slight favor of you?"

"What is it?" she said.

"Please use this stick of gum in place of the kind you are chewing. The odor of wintergreen is very offensive to me."

After that he was not disturbed.

One Coming.

"Could you tell me the meaning of the word 'cataclysm?'" he asked of the street car passenger who was folding up his newspaper.

"Are you going to ride two or three blocks father?" was queried in reply.

"Yes, sir."

"Then you'll see one. The conductor has carried that sharp-nosed woman two streets past where she wanted to get off already, and she'll wake up soon and start a cataclysm that'll probably jump the car right off the track!"—Washington Post.

HARD TO BEAR

Story of a Druggist Who Was Always Compounding Remedies for Others Yet Suffered Agonies Himself.

From the Republican, Eldorado, Ill.

Perhaps in no case where stomach trouble was the ailment has the efficiency of a popular remedy been so thoroughly demonstrated as in the case of W. E. Mathis, a prominent druggist of Eldorado, Ill. The story as told by Mr. Mathis is as follows:

"In the spring of 1894 I had a very serious case of indigestion. My stomach commenced to give me great trouble, and, while I knew the nature of the pain, I did not at first use the proper precaution. For some time I did not pay any attention, but it gradually grew worse, when I consulted a physician, who prescribed for me. I used his medicine according to instructions. I began to experience nervous spells, became subject to congestion of the stomach, and considered myself in a precarious condition. The physician's medicine and other remedies I tried failed to benefit me.

"One day a friend urged me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. I considered it a useless experiment, but as I had tried everything else, I agreed to take them. That was three and a half years ago. When I had used three boxes I could note very plainly the change for the better. When I had used the seventh box I was cured.

"The pills have not only cured the indigestion, but they have also cured my nervousness, my blood is in perfect condition, and they have brought my weight from 140 pounds at the commencement of the stomach trouble to 180 at present.

"If any one who reads this desires to know more of my experience I will gladly answer letters which enclose stamp for reply. Signed,

W. E. MATHIS.

MEDICAL EXAMINER

Of the U. S. Treasury Recommends Peruna.

Dr. Llewellyn Jordan.

Dr. Llewellyn Jordan, Medical Examiner of U. S. Treasury Department, graduate of Columbia College, and who served three years at West Point, has the following to say of Peruna:

"Allow me to express my gratitude to you for the benefit derived from your wonderful remedy. One short month has brought forth a vast change and I now consider myself a well-man after months of suffering. Fellow sufferers, Peruna will cure you."

Catarrh is a systemic disease curable only by systemic treatment. A remedy that cures catarrh must aim directly at the depressed nerve centers. This is what Peruna does. Peruna immediately invigorates the nerve-centers which give vitality to the mucous membranes. Then catarrh disappears. Then catarrh is permanently cured.

Peruna cures catarrh wherever located. Peruna is not a guess nor an experiment—it is an absolute scientific certainty. Peruna has no substitutes—no rivals. Insist upon having Peruna.

A free book written by Dr. Hartman, on the subject of catarrh in its different phases and stages, will be sent free to any address by The Preuna Medicine Co., Columbus, Ohio.
