Kansas farmers are using wheat for hog food, to some extent, but many are hesitating, and some of them, we are told, have exchanged wheat for corn with the odds in the exchange against the wheat. Experiments made in 1904, and since, have demonstrated that pound for pound wheat is equal or slightly superior to corn when properly fed. A bushel of wheat when fed to thrifty hogs will produce twelve to fifteen pounds of pork. At the Kansas experiment station it was demonstrated that a bushel of wheat would show a gain in steers of 10.5 pounds.—Live Stock Indicator.

With the exception of Andrew Johnson, every president since 1856 has come from the short group of states which follow the southern shore of the Great Lakes from New York to Illinois, inclusive. These five states—New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois run in a line side by side. New York has furnished Arthur, Cleveland and Roosevelt; Pennsylvania, Buchanan; Ohio, Hayes, Garfield and McKinley; Indiana, Harrison, and Illinois, Lincoln and Grant. It may now be fairly balled the presidential belt, and it seems almost hopeless for any one who lives outside of it to become president of the United States.

When a man pays his taxes and what he gets in return is figured out in this manner by one of our exchanges. A man with $1,000 worth of property is likely to pay from $10 to $15 in taxes. For this he lives in town, he gets the service of the police, education for his children, officials to look after the streets and sidewalks, the courts at a nominal figure for the litigant. If he lives in the country he gets bridges and roads and many of the above advantages also. Sometimes the taxpayer finds it hard to spare the taxes but he would find it a great deal harder to get along without what his money brings in.—Olympia Chronicle.

Of all states, it is well that the anarchist assassin did his work in New York. The law of that state provides that no notice of the time of execution shall be publicly given except to the persons invited or permitted to be present, said persons consisting of not more than two ministers or priests named by the criminal and seven assistants or deputy sheriffs appointed by the warden. The law further provides that no account of the details, beyond the statement that the convict was on such a day duly executed, according to law, shall be published in any newspaper. By such laudable measure, the glory and incentive of anarchy is largely suppressed.

Like the sunshine, it is hard to estimate the value of a smile, for though it costs the giver nothing, it very likely means all the difference to the recipient between blank despair and cheerfulness and hope. A kind smile is beyond price to the erring, and cheers them to struggle back to the paths of right and duty, from which they have diverged in pursuit of pleasure and folly, while to the sorrowful, the desolate, and the forsaken, it has the happiest effect, only comparable with that of the sun in dissipating the thick clouds and fog which sometimes entirely obscure the fair landscape. A smile is a token of warmth with it; it shows the kind heart of the friend, the affectionate brother, the loving child, or the happy home.

Congress will make special provision for the payment of the physicians and surgeons who attended the late President McKinley at Buffalo and for the payment of his funeral expenses. This was the course pursued after the death of President Garfield. What these expenses will amount to in the case of President McKinley cannot be stated even approximately, as none of the bills has yet been sent in. In the case of President Garfield Congress appropriated in all $37,500. Of this amount $35,500 was for the payment of the physicians and $2,000 funeral expenses. The total expenses in the case of President McKinley will probably be fully as great, though the bills of the physicians will not be so large as they were in the case of President Garfield, who lingered for more than two months after he was shot. Expenses of the funeral are expected to be larger. The principal item, as in the case of the Garfield funeral, will be for railway transportation.

Stricken With Paralysis.
Henderson Grinnett, of this place, was stricken with partial paralysis and completely lost the use of one arm and side. After being treated by an eminent physician for quite a while without relief, my wife recommended Chamberlain's Pain Balm, and after using two bottles of it he almost entirely cured.—Geo. R. McDonald, Man, Logan county, W. Va. Several other very remarkable cases of partial paralysis have been effected by the use of this liniment. It is most widely known, however, as a cure for rheumatism, sprains and bruises. For sale by Peery & Peery druggists.

Brownsville Mills Sold at Auction.
Ralph W. Fisher, of this city, trustee of the bankrupt estate of the Eagle Woolen Mills Co., of Brownsville, sold at public auction at the Court House door in Albany Saturday the property of the company, consisting of the woolen mills, flaring mills and water ditch at Brownsville. The woolen mills were sold to Joseph Hume for $2000, and the flaring mills were bid in by C. H. Elliswick for $2000. Those who were the only bids offered. The price is certainly very low. The sale will be, of course, subject to the confirmation of the court.—Albany Herald.

We always keep it in the house for our children from Croup and Whooping Cough. It cured me of a chronic bronchial trouble that no other remedy would relieve." Do You Cough?
I guess I need to be like everybody else. When I caught cold, I just let it alone, thinking it would cure itself in a few days; but it didn't. I was coughing and spitting and my throat was sore. I tried Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. I got a bottle, and never saw the like of the way it acted. Before the bottle was gone I was well. My throat felt as strong and well as could be. Since then I have had no more trouble. I think Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is the best remedy for coughs and colds that I ever used. It is sold everywhere. (Signed) J. H. BAKER, 21 Gold St., Boston, N. Y.

How War Appears When Viewed from Certain Different Points.
A number of printers, all of whom were born since the last war, were sitting about the office of Secretary Marsh one day lately when an "extra" was brought in which indicated that war with Spain was near at hand. "If we have war it will afford our boys some good practice—just what it needs—and be better than a dozen sham battles," suggested one.

"And Spain will find it quite a change from bull fighting."

"I don't believe there will be any war," said a baseball crank. "Just wait a while, and you'll see a sign up: 'No game to-day. Wet grounds—too sloppy on the Atlantic.'"

"I think we'll have to make up a purse for Spain," said the pugilist of the party. "But if she don't stand up for four rounds she don't get any of the receipts."

"You boys are very cunning," said the veteran Marsh, wheeling about in his chair. "It's easy to see that none of you know what war means. I'm older than any of you, and I know. In 1864, when I was working on the old Tribune, eight men from that office enlisted in the Twenty-fourth Michigan. They were all fine fellows, the best of the lot. Six of them never returned. The other two got back so wasted and changed that it was hard work to recognize them, and they were carried from the depot to the hospital on litters. One of them, Witherspoon, a personal friend of mine, was shot through the right leg. Both died. I saw several regiments leave here, 1,500 to 1,800 strong, composed of the finest young men in the state. I saw them come back with only 300 to 400 maimed and broken men—men that had practically ended their lives. That is what war is. It is only funny to fools."—Chicago Evening News.

TESTING THE DOCTORS.
Chinese. Like other physicians, Roscoe the emperor of China has lately had so much trouble with his functionaries of every kind that he has grown distrustful of them all. He had noticed that while his statesmen seemed to be widely at variance, the court physicians agreed beautifully whenever they were called together. But a test that he might make of their skill and sincerity occurred to him.

Feeling somewhat indisposed, the emperor sent for one of his court doctors. These physicians are paid public functionaries and are learned professors. One of them came, listened to his majesty's account of his trouble, diagnosed it, prescribed and took his leave. Then the emperor sent for another court doctor and gave him exactly the same account of his difficulty. This doctor then made his own diagnosis, which was quite different from his brother physicians, prescribed a different remedy and went away.

A third and fourth physician were called and each found a different disease and each prescribed a different medicine. Then the emperor became angry and also sarcastic, and begged to know how he could have so many things to matter with him, and live, and whether he should continue to live if he took all the diverse sorts of medicine that had that day been prescribed for him.

The doctors could give him no satisfactory answer to these questions, but each insisted that he was right and all the others wrong. But the emperor declared that this could not be true, and condemned every one of the physicians to lose a month's salary.

Of course the moral of this story has no accidental application. Though the doctors of our western countries reserve the right to disagree, such a case of radical divergence probably could not occur under the practice of our perfected science.—Youth's Companion.

A Typical South African Store.
O. R. Larson, of Bay Vista, Sundays River, Cape Colony, conducts a store typical of South Africa, at the foot of the mountain range, near the terminus of the railway station, and about twenty-five miles from the nearest town. Mr. Larson says: "I am favored with the custom of farmers within a radius of thirty miles, to many of whom I have supplied Chamberlain's Remedies. All testify to their value in a household when a doctor's advice is almost out of the question. Within one mile of my store the population is perhaps fifty. Of these, within the past twelve months, no less than four have been absolutely cured by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. This must surely be a record." For sale by Peery & Peery druggists.

Pointers.
Always wash your feet in water-molasses, attracts flies. Don't put your ears in water. Clean your brain cells, says an exchange. Never spit on the floor—with a little practice you can hit a rug. Cats carry diphtheria—don't contract diphtheria if you have a cat. Advise all drafts—learn the stop of a bank cashier and jump through the window. Eat fruit and vegetables in the summer—they are too rich for the winter time. Never use face powder so it will show—fool the people and you may marry rich. Don't allow your necktie to mount over your collar—it creates a deadly germ. Don't work in winter—it brings on pneumonia, and in summer it debilitates by increasing the perspiration. Always breathe through either your mouth or nose—deafness may result from breathing through your ears.

A Finnish Attack.
An attack was lately made on C. F. Collier of Cherokee, Iowa, that nearly proved fatal. It came through his kidneys. His back got so lame he could not stoop without great pain, not sit in a chair except grouped by cushions. His stomach helped him until he tried Electric Bitters which effected such a wonderful change that he writes he feels like a new man. This marvelous medicine cures backache and kidney trouble, purifies the blood and builds up your health. Only 50c at Peery & Peery.

Some people imagine it doesn't pay to be upright because they don't realize a dividend of 20 per cent every quarter.

Keep your secret to yourself. When you confide it to a friend you make him unreliable because he wants to tell it; you make yourself miserable because you're afraid he will.

Don't waste time in useless argument. Go out in the yard and watch two men's fighting and then reflect that they are cutting about as wide a swath as you with your petty contentions.

People in France are protesting that the old-age pension law is abused in that it provides pensions only after the age of 65 years. If popular impressions in this country of the rapidity of life in France be correct, the pension should commence at the age of about 17 years.

Rev. Mr. Hazlett of Colorado has been commissioned by the Secretary of War, at the request of a number of ministers, to inquire into the moral condition of the soldiers at Manila. If Mr. Hazlett follows in the ways of a paymaster he may learn a few things. It is to be hoped that he will not be scandalized.

HER PICTURE.
Let us paint her picture! ••• Take a patch with cool shadows in 'em, an' you have her eyes.
Shadows where the sunbeams tangle—but the beauty and beamin'—gleamin', streamin' through.

Let us paint her picture! ••• Take a mid-night dream.
Deep an' black an' starlin', an' you have her hair!
Yet, there's light about it—something you can mark—
Like an April shower twinklin' through the dark!
When you slip the ribbon from the curls an' all.
Down, to my come, a-tumble like a waterfall.
That's the time they dabble—slay threads o' night.
Pallas! all around her—shakin' out the light!
Lips! they're like a sunrise to the night o' curls!
Rosy-red, that mingle with a gleam of pearls; or two shaggy dimples, completely absorbed in among the flowers bloomin' on her cheek!

Want to paint her picture! ••• Think o' all that's sweet—
All that hearts can beat for when love makes 'em beat.
Then give love the pencil, dipped in colors fair.
With your heart, an' let him paint her picture there!
