TWO SOWINGS.

The seed that you sow
In the sowing time,
Comes back to your hand again,
A hundred fold,
From the earth and grime,
Unsullied and shining grain;
For the sun was warm and the earth was true,
And Nature blessed when the sky was blue,
And working a mystery brought to you
The soul of the sun and rain.

But the days you waste
When the world is new;
The days when your path is gay,
And life itself,
And its blessings, too,
Are carelessly flung away;
The fleeting breath where the breeze flies on,
The song of the lark in the early dawn,
The days of the years of your youth, once gone,
Will never come back to you.

—Lewis Otis Brice.

The News goes out to its readers this week as an all home print paper. We have decided to try the publishing of an all home paper and if the patronage will permit we shall make the improvement permanent. There are many features which we shall add from time to time which will tend to make this one of the best local papers in the valley, and we trust that our readers will appreciate our efforts to such an extent that we may be able to maintain it as such. Our subscription list has increased from the very start, and we are making an effort to double it within the next few months, and by so doing will more than double the value of the paper to our advertisers. If you are not receiving The News at the present time or have a neighbor who is not a subscriber try and induce him to place his name on our list and thereby assist us in keeping the wheel rolling. If you are indebted to us all the way from one to three years kindly call and settle the amount and this also will assist in paying our obligations and making improvements in the paper which will make it more desirable for all.

The News is an independent paper and takes no part in party politics, but our readers will pardon us if we state a plain fact, that J. R. Whitney, editor of the Albany Daily and Weekly Herald, candidate for State Printer on the republican ticket, should receive a hearty support from every section of Linn county, irrespective of party politics, particularly so because he is a home candidate. Mr. Whitney has conducted the paper in Albany for seventeen years and throughout his newspaper career he has labored for the upbuilding of the entire county. Personally above reproach, genial, pleasant and affable, he has conducted a clean, straight-forward newspaper, free from malice or petty spite. He is a thorough printer and will manage the affairs of the state printing office to the best interests of the tax payers. The office is non-political and a printers politics are never questioned when employed by the state printer. Mr. Whitney was born in Marion county and is therefore a native son. Linn county people can vote for Mr. Whitney with good grace.

In another column of this paper will be found the politicalcard of Mr. Joseph Hume, republican nominee for the office of the sheriff of this Co. Mr. Hume is no stranger in Linn Co. He has made his home on a farm near Brownsville during the past twenty five years, and during that time has succeeded in making many warm friends in that as well every section of the county. He has never been an aspirant for public office but his name was presented to the republican voters of the couny by his friends, and the nomination for the office of sheriff was thrust upon him unsolicited. He has the undivided confidence of the members of both political parties where he is best known, and numbers his friends by his acquaintances. Should he be successful at the polls next June there is not the least doubt that he will not serve the people well and honorably and fill the office of sheriff with honor and credit to himself and the people who elected him.

It is likely that three new states will be admitted to the union at no distant day. The bill for the admission of Oklahoma has already been introduced while New Mexico and Arizona are preparing to make application. Although Oklahoma is the youngest of the territories it has a population of about 400,000 which will give it two delegates in congress. New Mexico has about 200,000 population which is near the average to give them one congressman, but Arizona only has about 130,000 population which is less than the average for a congressman, but she is one of the oldest organized of the territories and there are some sentimental reasons for making her a state although lacking the population usually required.

This week our political column the announcement of J. K. P. Tate, democratic nominee for county assessor. Mr. Tate resides on a farm near Crabtree, where he has resided since coming to Oregon, sixteen years ago. He is a very able man in business matters, and is one who has the esteem and confidence of his neighbors as well as his entire list of acquaintances. He has never been a candidate for public favors before, and has been a life-long democrat. The office of assessor is one of the most important in the county, and voters should look well to the qualifications and ability of the aspirants before casting their votes. Mr. Tates friends are losing no opportunity to make known his qualifications and fitness for the office, and therefore he will poll a very large vote next June.

An Oregon school ma'am, who teaches the "young idea how to shoot" in one of the valley districts, and who is known widely as a choice piece of feminine beauty and sweetness, tried a unique experiment to prevent tardiness of her pupils with good results. She made the proposal to her scholars one evening just before the closing hour that the first one to school the next morning would receive a kiss from her ruby lips. The next morning on entering the school grounds she was surprised not only to see the entire school with the big boys in front awaiting her, but also the board of directors, who hung about bashfully.

When a new arrival comes to town—any town in the county—take it upon yourself to show him the value of the location, tell him about the resources of our county, and make it as pleasant for him as possible. If your time is too valuable to spend much time in his company, send him to some one who will get him interested in the locality and surrounding country. If there is a reliable real estate firm in your town send him there. The more people there is in a community the more valuable your property will become.—St. Helens Mist.

Hon. M. A. Miller, of Lebanon, has been nominated for state senator by the democrats of Linn. Mr. Miller has made several splendid campaign speeches in southern Oregon during the campaigns of 1898 and 1900. He is a very earnest, forceful and able speaker and made a most favorable impression. He is thoroughly honest, able and energetic, and Linn county will no doubt place him in the senate. We certainly wish him success.—Roseburg Review, April 14th.

The Philippine Islands will not be abandoned by the United States, but the policy of "civilization" pursued by some of our army officers must be abandoned if we shall ever expect the white-winged angel of peace to settle down upon these untutored people. "Butcher" Weyler in the palmiest days of his wanton barbarity, might well have become a student of the American army as represented by these officers we are now reading about.

Don't forget to register. You had better attend to it at once and know that you are in a position to vote when the day of election rolls around.

An Author Speaks.

The late Charles Dudley Warner—author, editor and traveler—while bathing in Great Salt Lake remarked to a friend that in all his travels he never before saw such a glorious combination of salt sea bathing, blue sunlit skies, pure mountain air and pretty women and happy children. The only transcontinental line passing directly through Salt Lake City is the Rio Grande System. It is also the "Scenic Line of the World." No European trip of equal length can compare with it in grandeur of scenery or wealth of novel interest. All agents sell through tickets to the east by way of the Rio Grande lines. Send for pamphlets to Geo. W. Heintz, Asst. General Passenger Agent, Salt Lake City.

Lebanon Notes.

Dr. Prill and F. J. Irvine, of Scio, were in Lebanon Thursday last.

Miss Hattie Cox has been visiting friends in Salem during the past week.

E. E. Taylor went to Scio again Friday of last week in the interests of the A. O. U. W.

The barn of W. E. Chandler burned early Thursday morning, between 2 and 3 o'clock. The fire was doubtless the work of an incendiary, and was under good headway when discovered. His buggy, cart, harness, etc., were burned. The loss is about $350, with insurance as follows: Barn, $50; vehicles and harness, $50; feed, $50.—E. A.

STOPS PAIN

Athens, Tenn., Jan. 27, 1901.
Ever since the first appearance of my menses they were very irregular and I suffered with great pain in my hips, back, stomach and legs, with terrible bearing down pains in the abdomen. During the past month I have been taking Wine of Cardui and Thedford's Black-Draught, and I passed the monthly period without pain for the first time in years. NANNIE DAVIS.

What is life worth to a woman suffering like Nannie Davis suffered? Yet there are women in thousands of homes to-day who are bearing those terrible menstrual pains in silence. If you are one of these we want to say that this same will bring you permanent relief. Console yourself with the knowledge that 1,000,000 women have been completely cured by Wine of Cardui. These women suffered from leucorrhoea, irregular menses, headache, backache, and bearing down pains. Wine of Cardui will stop all these aches and pains for you. Purchase a $1.00 bottle of Wine of Cardui to-day and take it in the privacy of your home.

The Torrens law is a direct benefit to the property owner or purchaser and give a clear, concise and absolutely accurate description of the title, including all liens or incumbrances outstanding. A business man would be considered very shallow if his only account book was his day book, and every time a customer desired to settle up he would be compelled to examine the day books. The business man obviates all this by keeping a ledger and he can tell at a glance just how an account stands. The Torrens land law is simply a land ledger. When the title is first registered a page is assigned and any man who can read can go to the court house, and without any aid from a lawyer or abtractor tell just how the title is. It does away with tedious and annoying searches through old musty records and eliminates all chances of oversight or neglect. Your title when once perfected under the Torrens system is sound and not subject to old claims.

Some Property Sales.

R. Shelton sold last week to Adolph Greulick, of Chestnut, Montana, the south west corner of the Harvey Shelton farm, six miles south-east of Scio for 15 per acre.

Mr. Shelton also sold, this week the balance of the farm, being about 480 acres, to Rudolf Boroviska, of Tracy, Minn., for $6000.

Tuesday he also sold 240 acres of the A. R. McDonald farm, situated two and one-half miles east of Scio, to Matej Coufal, of Tracy, Minn., for $5200. These are good farms for grain and stock raising and they have all sold at bargain prices.

Several other people have been here during the past two weeks from Nebraska looking at land with Mr. Shelton, and they intend to sell their eastern homes and locate in this section, as they were well pleased with the county.

OUTGREW HIS COFFIN.

Singular Features of the Funeral of a Man Who Had Made His Own Burial Casket.

At Benton graveyard, near Port Washington, where no interment has been made for 20 years, a funeral was held on a recent Sunday that for strange and peculiar features had no parallel in that vicinity, says the Columbus (O.) Press. It was the funeral of Philip Haas, an eccentric German resident of Buckhorn, and in compliance with his request his body was kept five days before burial. The coffin in which he was buried was one he had made five years ago. It was constructed of planks and covered with black velvet. He made it when he was small of girth, and they had to squeeze him in, as he remarked lately they would have to do. The coffin was placed in a rough box he made. In going to the graveyard the rough box was placed in a spring wagon and the coffin in it and two men sat on it, as per his wish. On the lid of the box was a card 20x24 inches, on which was the inscription he had printed, as follows:

"I am a stranger here,
Heaven is my home."

He told his friends if they did not carry out his wishes regarding the funeral he would come back, and, being superstitious, they did so. The ceremonies at the grave were marked for their simplicity. Each Sunday he attended church he put in the collection basket as many cents as he was years old. He was industrious and frugal and owned several farms.

Campaigning in Samar.

With the exception of a small part of the island of Samar the ground is entirely covered with a dense jungle, which it is next to impossible to penetrate, says a Manila newspaper. The trails lead off fairly and after a few miles end in a blank wall of jungle, which is so matted that it takes hours for the soldiers to cut a trail wide enough for the passage of a single man at a time. What the natives call trails in the mountains are simply paths almost entirely covered with jungle grass, rattan and bamboo, through which the hardy mountaineers force their way with ease, while the more encumbered and less accustomed white soldier cannot get through at all.

Shot in His left Leg.

For all kinds of sores, burns, bruises, or other wounds, DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is a sure cure. Skin diseases yield to it at once. Never fails in cases of piles. Cooling and healing. None genuine but DeWitt's. Beware of counterfeits. "I suffered for many years from a gunshot wound in my left leg," says A S Fuller, English, Ind. It would not heal and gave me much trouble. I used all kinds of remedies to no purpose until I tried DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. A few boxes completely cured me. Peery & Peery.
