BURIED BESIDE MERRILL.

Remains of Harry Tracy Interred at the Salem Penitentiary.

Salem, Ore., Aug. 11.—The remains of Harry Tracy were received in Salem Saturday morning, and were quietly buried in the prison cemetery by the side of David Merrill, the confederate whom the outlaw had cowardly murdered. A few people were allowed to see the corpse, and at the depot many backed momentously from the cheap coffin. The burial was unattended by ceremony. Before the coffin was lowered chemicals were placed in it for the purpose of destroying the corpse, but the grave will be watched in order to prevent any person from stealing the body. As the body was positively identified by the prison officials, there is no question of the payment of the reward, but just who is entitled to it is a problem for the claimants and the state to solve. His famous rifle was given to the officials.

Merrill's rifle was found in the brush within 200 yards of the spot where his body was found.

URGE MANY CHANGES.

Wyoming Democrats Adopt a Platform and Make Nominations.

Rawlins, Wyo., Aug. 9.—The Democratic state convention nominated the following ticket:

Governor, George T. Beck, Big Horn county; state treasurer, Colin Hunter, Laramie county; secretary of state, D. N. Stickey, Albany county; state auditor, W. B. Hays, Big Horn county; superintendent of public instruction, Mrs. Delario, Albany county; congress, Charles F. Clemons, Carbon county.

The platform adopted declares allegiance to the national platform of the past. It demands the election of the United States senators by the direct vote of the people, the compulsory arbitration of labor disputes, the divorcement of state institutions from partisan control, municipal ownership of public utilities, and a return to the original Australian ballot. The establishment of state institutions for the Shoshone Indian reserve is urged.

CHILDREN BURNED.

Coal Oil and Matches Cause Frightful Accident at Klamath.

Ashland, Ore., Aug. 9.—A most shocking accident occurred at Klamath on last evening, resulting in the death of two children, Lester and Emory Davis, aged 6 and 3 years. They were the children of Mrs. Laura Moon Davis, who conducts a millinery store there. It is reported that the two children were playing in the yard in the rear of the house, and had been playing with a tin can that had been filled with kerosene. In some way the can overturned, and the kerosene was poured over the children, and the burning clothing was taken from the little ones, but the flames had already done their work, and after lingering in great agony, both died at 7:30 o'clock.

WASHINGTON'S STATEHOUSE.

Now in Progress for Some Days is Patched Up and Work Will Proceed.

Olympia, Wash., Aug. 8.—The capitol commission has succeeded in again smoothing over the difficulties between the architect and contractor. Contractor Geer was instructed to take out the stone that had been condemned and he agreed to abide by the instructions. To avoid further difficulties Messrs. Pearson and Atkinson of the commission were instructed to look over all the stone on hand in company with the superintendent and determine whether any more should be thrown out.

WHITE RESIGNS.

American Ambassador at Berlin Wishes to Quit His Job.

Berlin, Aug. 9.—Ambassador White mailed his resignation to the United States several days ago. It is to take effect early in November.

Mr. White's resignation may now be in the hands of the president. The date set by the ambassador to take effect was Nov. 7. He is now at Hamburg, where he is taking the waters.

Pope Bana Consanguineous Royal Marriages.

London, Aug. 9.—A dispatch from the Dalzell news agency from Rome says the pope has notified the reigning houses of Europe that no more dispensations for consanguineous marriages will be granted. It is the wish of the pope, says the dispatch, that royal persons contract marriages outside of royal families, in order to stop degeneration.

Sold Union Cigar Labels.

Chicago, Aug. 11.—Jacob Goldsmith, once a prominent cigar manufacturer of this city, is under arrest here under what is said to be a systematic plan for forging Union cigar labels. He was taken into custody at a downtown hotel after he had delivered 3,000 of the bogus labels to some union men who had set a trap for him.

General Lucas Mayer Dies Suddenly.

Brussels, Aug. 11.—The Petit Bleu fighting Tracy took to his heels and made all possible haste down the valley leading south from the barn.

The man hunters were off in pursuit, firing as rapidly as possible at their fleeing quarry.

Coming to an immense rock, the outlaws saw a chance to get rid of his pursuers, and accordingly dodged behind it and began a fusillade which he probably imagined would end the struggle.

TRACY DEAD

NOTED OUTLAW SUICIDES TO ESCAPE CAPTURE.

Closely Pursued and Twice Wounded, He Put an End to His Existence—Body Found in a Wheat Field Near the Eddy Ranch, Where He Spent the Last Few Days of His Life. Fatal Wound Made by 45 Caliber Revolver.

Spokane, Aug. 6.—Harry Tracy is dead. The notorious criminal, convict, outlaw, desperado and multi-murderer committed suicide last evening after being shot twice by his pursuers. His body was found at an early hour this morning, cold and dead, lying face upward, and the hands still grasping the famous 30-30 rifle and 45-caliber Colt's revolver. The resting place was in a wheat field near the Eddy home, where Tracy spent the last few days, and whither he had been tracked by his hunters.

The body was taken to Davenport, under care of Sheriff Gardner of Lincoln county. Its disposition will be decided later by the officials in charge.

After delaying for nearly two months all law, setting at naught all efforts of the authorities of two states to capture or kill him, baffling the best man hunters of the Pacific Coast, and traveling across two states with impunity, demanding and receiving entertainment all along the line, this criminal wonder has at last been sent to his final resting place.

A party from Creston, Wash., had the honor of running to earth the outlaw, and are due to receive the rewards of $5,000 offered by the governors of Washington and Oregon and by private individuals. The party was made up of the following persons, citizens of Creston: C. A. Strath, deputy sheriff; Dr. E. C. Lanter, Maurice Smith, attorney, and J. J. Morrison, a railroad section foreman. These four men, armed to the teeth and bent on achieving success where others had failed, set out from Creston yesterday afternoon about two o'clock. They were working on the information of the Goldfinch youth, who had been forcibly made the companion of the Oregon convict for over 24 hours at the Eddy ranch, and proved said information to be well founded and worthy of belief.

Proceeding in a southeasterly direction for about 11 miles, the pursuing party made all possible haste in getting near the Eddy ranch, which is situated on Lake Creek, about three miles directly south of Fellows, on the Washington Central railway, where the outlaw was said to be located. The party is what is called "swab," and when near the ranch the party took all precautions as to ambushes or surprise.

They approached the place in safety, and when within some 150 yards they came across Farmer Eddy mowing in a field. The party went to him, and while engaging him in conversation they saw a man issue from the barn, and he was plainly seen from where they stood on top of the ground. "Is that Tracy?" asked one of the party. "It surely is," laconically replied Eddy. With this information at hand, and in a man so close to the hunt, there was naturally a great deal of excitement. The party separated, and Lanter and Smith accompanied Eddy in the direction of the barn, while the other two men swung around to cut off any break for liberty in another direction.

Noting that structure, the two men stepped behind the barn on a slight eminence, from which they could watch everything that went on, and the farmer continued up to the barn door. When he arrived there Tracy came from the barn again and began helping the farmer unhitch the horses. He carried no rifle, although he had his revolver in place.

The fugitive saw the men carrying rifles, and turning sharply on Farmer Eddy, said: "Who are those men?" "I don't see any men," said the host. Whereupon Tracy pointed out the two men on the hill, waiting to be sure of their man before they began shooting. Eddy informed his companion who the men were, and at that time the officers, stepping a little closer, commanded: "Hold up your hands!"

At this juncture the outlaw jumped behind Eddy and placed both the man and his horse between himself and the hunters. In this position he commanded the farmer to lead his horse to the barn, and remaining under this cover he moved toward the shelter. When nearly to the stable he broke and dashed inside. He did not linger long, but in the twinkling of an eye reappeared, rifle in hand, and started on a dead run down the valley. Turning to the two men looking for him, he desperado fired two shots, but without his usual precision. Neither bullet took effect, and without waiting for further fighting Tracy took to his heels and made all possible haste down the valley leading south from the barn.

The man hunters were off in pursuit, firing as rapidly as possible at their fleeing quarry.

Coming to an immense rock, the outlaws saw a chance to get rid of his pursuers, and accordingly dodged behind it and began a fusillade which he probably imagined would end the struggle.

Eight shots in all were fired, and those eight will take some of the effluence off the reputation of the Oregon convict as a dead shot. Seeing he was not succeeding in his endeavor, he left his position behind the rock and made a dash for the wheat field not far distant. Just as he was entering the field he stumbled, and falling on his face crawled on into the field on his hands and knees.

This led the hunters to believe that they had at least wounded their man, but it was getting dusk, and they did not dare to investigate, but that shot was the last that Harry Tracy ever fired. He was to take a "pot shot." Therefore, after holding a consultation, they decided to surround the place and wait for daylight.

Shortly after Tracy's disappearance into the wheat field the watchers heard a shot which sounded as though it came from about the spot to which he had crawled. No investigation was made, however, until morning, but that shot is supposed to have been the fatal one and to have been responsible for having sent the noted desperado into the Great Beyond.

In the morning search was made and the body was found lying face upwards near the edge of the wheat field.

Upon examination of the body it was found that the wound which resulted in the outlaw's death, was inflicted by the 45-caliber revolver, held close to the head. The top of the head was badly mangled. Two bullet wounds on the left leg showed the cause of the man's despair and subsequent suicide.

HAVE A FAMILY NOW.

Farmer Shandrow and Wife Adopt a Whole Orphan Asylum.

South Haven, Mich., Aug. 7.—Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Shandrow, of South Haven, have adopted a whole orphan asylum, 22 children in all. The children are not all infants. Some of them are bright, rosy-cheeked youngsters already old enough to go to school. Mr. and Mrs. Shandrow have made more than a competence of their 200-acre fruit farm, and it has been their life long regret that children have never been born to them. To please his wife, Shandrow wrote to the Smith Foundation hospital at Minneapolis, asking them to send several children for a summer's outing, with the privilege of choosing from them in case he should want to adopt a boy. The Minneapolis institution is a small one, and the management promptly forwarded the visible supply of children over 3 years old, no less than 22 boys and girls. They have just decided to adopt all of them.

CORWOOD SHORTAGE.

Men Get Work in More Desirable Lines, and Choppers are Hard to Find.

Independence, Ore., Aug. 11.—A condition that demonstrates the improved commercial conditions in the valley in the scarcity of cordwood. While the shortage does not assume the character of a wood famine, yet the price is considerably advanced over that of last year, and the wood marketed is not as good. Wood dealers say the cause of all this is the inability to obtain men to cut wood, and they think next year will see a still greater advance. Men can obtain work at more desirable and profitable figures and so the demand for wood fuel is greater than the supply.

MBRIDE HOLDS OVER.

Supreme Court of Washington Decides the Government's Case.

Olympia, Wash., Aug. 11.—The state supreme court has handed down an important decision in the test case brought at the last term of the court as to the permanent increase of the membership of the supreme court, and as to whether there exists a vacancy in the offices of governor and lieutenant governor as a result of the death of Governor Rogers. The opinion of the court is unanimous that there is no governor to be elected this fall, but that McBride fills the vacancy to the end of his term. The judges are divided on the question of an increase from five to seven in the membership of the court.

FIFTEEN WERE KILLED.

Railroad Wreck in Iowa Worse Than at First Reported.

Marshalltown, Ia., Aug. 11.—It is now known that 15 persons were killed in the freight wreck on the Milwaukee road Wednesday afternoon. Of the injured two or three cannot recover. It is thought that more bodies may be found, as the wreckage has not yet been entirely cleared away.

KILLED BROTHER-IN-LAW.

Joseph Stockham Murders Frank T. Agers at Hoquiam, Washington.

Hoquiam, Wash., Aug. 8.—Joseph Stockham shot and killed his brother-in-law, Frank T. Agers. The shooting was the result of a quarrel, and occurred in the police court room, whither Agers had gone to pay a fine imposed upon him in the matter. Three shots were fired.

Thankful Schwab is Alive.

New York, Aug. 11.—On news of the recovery of President Charles M. Schwab, of the United States Steel Corporation, becoming known at Knigswater, where Mr. Schwab is a large property holder, thanksgiving mass was celebrated, says a dispatch to the Herald from Vienna. The service was attended by all the municipal dignitaries and a large number of visitors. The town was decked with American flags.

RECEIVED CROWNS

EDWARD AND ALEXANDRIA NOW KING AND QUEEN.

Scene in Westminster Abbey was Marvellous—Aged Archbishop of Canterbury Nearly Overcome, and it was with Difficulty That He Completed the Ceremony of the Coronation.

London, Aug. 9.—Edward VII, R. I., by the grace of God, of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland and the British Dominions Beyond the Seas, King, Defender of the Faith, Emperor of India, was today crowned without hitch or harm, and tonight London is joyfully celebrating the event for which the world has awaited, as perhaps, it never awaited any other coronation.
