HUMAN NATURE.

Man hasn't any business
In his world 'yar below,
Ter go an' foolish get hisself
All tangled up in woe.
Kase dsh yer world 'an mighty ap'
To feel emignant, an'
Make dat ar' vilian wish he'd been
A mo' successful man.
Yes, sah! Des let 'im fall, an' we
All roas' 'im crisp an' brown;
We cheer him, long as he am up—
We kick him w'en he's down!

A Umatilla Indian, just previous to his death which occurred a few days ago, confessed that he was the murderer of Agnes Tossant, which occurred in April, 1889, and for which crime Pleyou, a Tom Cayuse Indian was hanged for. He said he was in the act of robbing the house when the old lady awoke, and to screen himself he killed her with a club. For a while the murder was shrouded in mystery but finally the officers found circumstantial evidence connecting Pleyou with the crime and for which he was duly hanged.

The condemned man to the last, both to his attorneys and friends protested his innocence. Victor Williams, the Indian who made the deathbed confession, said, during all those long 13 years the secret had weighed heavily upon him and that he had suffered the agonies of the damned, as he thought of the weak old woman he had murdered, and of the fall of Pleyou, who was a personal friend of his, and whom he had let suffer the penalty of the law, which he alone should have suffered, without saying a word to step the execution of an innocent man.

The half vanquished, yet largely victorious, Boer Generals who are visiting England, greeted King Edward cordially; they understand that he has stood their friend, though in a sense an enemy; but they would not speak to Chamberlain. Him they hate, and like the sturdy, honest men they are, they make no disguise of their hatred. They will shed an honest tear over Queen Victoria's grave, and over Gladstone's, but they will "tear their shoes" upon Cecil Rhodes and Jameson's, and Chamberlain's, when he shall find a resting place in the dark house of human dust. Him they never will forgive, because they believe, and not without reason, that he and Rhodes plotted against their liberty. There is a good deal of honorable, admirable manhood in these Boers.—Telegram.

It is a fact that the water cure was used in the Philippines. Nobody denies it. The purpose of its application was to induce the natives to tell what they knew. In a great majority of cases, they told; that is to say, the cure cured. They went their ways with spirit subdued, but morally uplifted and, physically no worse. There has never been any proper reason for all the fuss that has been made over the matter. The natives might have been chucked into a dungeon and, in many instances, they could in all propriety have been hacked against a wall and shot, but neither of these courses would have been satisfactory. Their pain in the United States would have raised the same ado they are now raising.

A drummer wearing a shirt waist attracted some attention at the depot Wednesday. It is all right. Of course men should wear shirt waists. The women have been appropriating men's wear for years. They wear our hats, our vests, our neckties. Sometimes they wear our neckties in odd places, but that is but a freak of the contrariness of the female.

It is said she is wearing off suspenders, but we do not know what she suspends with them, and it may be true. Shirt waists are cool and enticing. The most enticing things we ever seen were shirt waists. Of course they are occupied at the time, but that only adds to the delightful and dainty impression—Jefferson Review.

When the Hindu editor wishes to rest for a time from his labors he calmly and confidently announces the fact in these or similar words: "As we are beginning to feel the physical and mental effects of a year's unremitting devotion to the interests of our readers, we feel it due to them that we should take the rest which our labors in their behalf demand and deserve; and as a natural consequence beg to notify that this paper will cease to appear for the space of four weeks."

The Empire Construction Company, organized for the construction of the Salt Lake-Cook Bay railroad, is now in the hands of what may be called the Big Four, with a capitalization of $1,000,000. The Big Four consists of Nelson Bennett and William H. Remington of Tacoma, David Eckles of Ogden, and C. W. Nibley of Baker City.

John Sparks of Reno, Nev., will not show at the California State Fair this year, preferring to show at the Oregon State Fair instead. He has one of the finest herds of Hereford cattle in the United States and will exhibit 20 head at the state fair this fall.

WISE OR OTHERWISE

A. G. Prill, Physician and Surgeon Scio Or.

We, as usual, pay the highest price for all kinds of produce. Bickner Brothers.

We wish to call the attention of our readers to the change of adv. of T. S. Coffey.

Row E. Hibler is selling lots of shoes nowadays. When a person can buy a good pair for $1.00 he is sure to kick in the steps.

For sale—A Buffalo Pitts (Cresher), 32x48, in good condition, with rubber belting complete. Inquire of J. T. Brock, Scio, Oregon.

Say! If you wear shoes and your family does likewise, you will buy from one to a dozen pairs more like E. Hibler, for he sells them so cheap that it is like finding them.

H. W. Scott and H. L. Pittcock were released from a $200,000 mortgage on the Oregonian last week, by the Portland Trust Company. That shows prosperity. If good times prevail the other $350,000 can be raised in a few years.—Mercury.

The body of James Moore, of Corvallis, who was drowned three miles below Colaraz while working with a logging crew, of which he was foreman, on Saturday, August 16, was found last Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock, four miles below where he was drowned, after a week's continual search.

the place to sell your produce. Chickens are high, and so are eggs and butter—very high. I always pay the top of the market for produce. You know you will get the highest price when you bring stuff to us, and besides I have one of the biggest stocks of goods in the county to choose from, and the prices will compare with all others. H. W. E. H. 33333.

Localities Waterfalls for Power.
J. B. Rinehart, formerly of Eugene, but now a resident of San Francisco, has filed papers with the county clerks of Linn and Lane counties, in which documents he sets forth that he has located the Horse Creek and the McKenzie River falls for the purpose of retaining the same as personal property to be utilized for furnishing power. The latter falls are in Linn county, and are about 40 feet high and capable of developing great power.

Quickest and Best Route East.
The Oregon Railroad & Navigation Co. in connection with the Oregon Short Line and Union Pacific is the only line running through sleeping cars (first class and tourist) between Portland and Chicago, besides our time is over twelve hours quicker than any other route. All through tickets good via Salt Lake and Denver. The prices, breakfasts and other fruits are a delight in themselves. The crossing of the great mountain barrier between Oregon and California reveals the grandest mountain scenery in the United States. The wonderful array of towering mountains, and gorges into which we gaze from dizzy heights, forest clad mountain slopes stretching up to the line of perpetual snow, and the fanning mountain trails, all these things, together with the expanse, now and then stopping for a short rest in a fine quiet spot. After a days enjoyment of old Mt. Shasta, the finest peak on the continent, we drop rapidly down the canon of the Sacramento to the broad plains of the Sacramento Valley in California, and thence through vineyards and orchards to San Francisco. Why Go East over the sun-burned, sage brush and alkali plains when you may just as well take a delightful, cool and comfortable ride through the heart of the Rocky Mountains in view of the grandest scenery on the American continent?
This you can do by traveling on the Rio Grande System, the famous "Scenic Line of the World," the only transcontinental line passing through Salt Lake City, Glenwood Springs, Leadville, Colorado Springs and Denver enroute to eastern points.
Three daily express trains make close connections with all train east and west and afford a choice of five distinct routes of travel. The equipment of these trains is the best, including free reclining chair cars, comfort and finest sleepers, a perfect dining car service, and also personally conducted excursion cars, each in charge of a competent guide whose business it is to look after the comfort of his guests. No more pleasant and inexpensive means of crossing the continent can be found than is afforded by these excursions. For additional details address,

The Shasta Route.
In going over the famous "Shasta Route" the Southern Pacific Co., the traveler ever finds something new to excite his admiration and interest. Starting at Portland one travels over the longest "cat length" of the Willamette Valley, the gems of the Northwest, Mt. Hood, Mt. Jefferson, and the Three Sisters and other snow-capped peaks are kept in sight for hours. The prairies, meadows, apples and other fruits are a delight in themselves. The crossing of the great mountain barrier between Oregon and California reveals the grandest mountain scenery in the United States. The wonderful array of towering mountains, and gorges into which we gaze from dizzy heights, forest clad mountain slopes stretching up to the line of perpetual snow, and the fanning mountain trails, all these things, together with the expanse, now and then stopping for a short rest in a fine quiet spot. MOTHERHOOD

The greatest ambition of American men and women is to have homes blessed with children. The woman afflicted with female disease is constantly menaced with becoming a childless wife. No medicine can restore dead organs, but Wine of Cardui does regulate derangements that prevent procreation; does prevent miscarriages; does restore weak functions and shattered nerves and does bring babies to homes barren and desolate for years. Wine of Cardui gives women the health and strength to bear healthy children. You can get a dollar bottle of Wine of Cardui from your dealer.
