A Sorosis Lesson

WHAT is a fit in an ordinary shoe is not a fit in Sorosis; They do not stretch. The shoe is built to fit its counterpart in the human foot. The lesson taught us by experience is that a woman once perfectly fitted in Sorosis never changes. She is more than satisfied; in fact has practically her own private last.

Fine Brooder Burned.
Merrin Probst, a progressive farmer of near the Santiam, recently purchased a fine incubator and brooder for raising chickens. He had just completed a good house for the purpose and laid in a supply of fine eggs for hatching purposes, and had them well under way of hatching, when on Tuesday night of last week, in some unknown manner, the incubator caught fire, and the incubator, brooder, house and all the eggs were burned up. The loss was considerable, not so much in the value of the property actually burned as in the destruction of all his plans for poultry raising.—Herald.

A NOVEL LOVE ROMANCE
Began with a Stupid Man Who Damaged a Woman's Nose.

Here's a curious story of love and courtship. About two years ago, says the Athens (Ga.) News, a young gentleman of this city, while in Savannah, got into a street car with a heavy umbrella under his arm. Like a great many other careless people, he held it at a dangerous angle, with the point sticking out behind him, and ere long the car gave a lurch and the lady just behind him emitted an ear-splitting scream. Everybody jumped and looked, and to his horror the young man found that the point of his umbrella had come in contact with the nose of the young lady seated just behind him. Of course, he apologized, or tried, but it was like apologizing for murder over the body of the victim. For the lady's nose was bleeding and she was almost in convulsions with pain.

The car was stopped at the next corner, where there happened to be a drug store, and the young man, aided and abetted by one or two elderly ladies, who at once took a lively interest in the case, helped the young lady off and into the store and posted off after a doctor. One was found, and the unlucky nose was soon put in working order, and the owner, attended by the married ladies, was sent home in a carriage.

The young man took her address and hunted up a mutual acquaintance, with whom he called the next day to see how the nose was getting along. The nose did well, so did the young man, for by the time the nose was mended he had got in the habit of holding, so that it became natural for him to step around in the evening. So in the course of time they were married, and she is the only lady in the United States whose courtship began by a punch in the nose from her future husband.

TO JUDGE AN OPAL.
Doubtless Qualities That Lead Value to the New Popular Unlucky Stone.

An expert on opal mining has recently explained how the opal is judged as to quality and desirability. First, he says, color is of the greatest importance. Red fire, or red in combination with yellow, blue and green, are the best. Blue by itself is quite valuable, and the green opal is not of great value unless the color is very vivid and the pattern very good. The color must be true, that is to say, it must not run in streaks or patches, alternating with a colorless or inferior quality. Pattern is described as being an important factor, the several varieties being known as "spine," when the grain is very small, "harlequin," when the color is all in small squares, the more regular the better, and the "shellfire," or "shellopal," when the color shows as a single flash, or in very large patterns. Harlequin is the most common, and is also popularly considered the most beautiful. When the squares of color are regular and show a distinct, minute check of red, yellow, blue and green, it is considered magnificent. Some stones show better on edge than on top.

Jesse Allen Griggs was born in Linn county, Oregon, Sept. 29, 1873. He was a member of Crabtree Camp M. W. A., in which he held a pecuniary of $1,000 in favor of his mother. His death was caused by measles settling on his lungs in the early part of last summer and which finally ended in consumption.

He was laid away to rest in the Providence cemetery under the ceremony of Crabtree Camp M. W. A.

Died.
HAMILTON—On Thursday, Feb. 12, 1903, at her home three miles south of Scio, Mrs. Delphina Hamilton, at the age of 82 years, 5 months and 18 days.

She was born near Holyoke, Mass., August 24, 1820. She was married to B. W. Hamilton in Jersey county Illinois, in 1838. Her husband dying July 12, 1891. Seven children were born to them, five girls and two boys. Four girls and one boy were born in Illinois, and one girl and one boy in Oregon. Together with her family she crossed the plains from Illinois to Oregon in 1851, arriving in Oregon in October of the same year, and settled near Crabtree, in Linn county, Oregon, and resided there for several years, moving from there to the place she resided at until her death. She taught school in Massachusetts, Illinois and Oregon. She has no brothers or sisters living all having died. Her children surviving her are Mrs. W. C. Miller, Mrs. H. H. Guitley, S. A. D. Hamilton, of Scio, C. M. Hamilton, of Eugene, Mrs. A. Montgomery, of Shields, and Mrs. Emma Grant, of Etna, California. She has 49 grand children and 46 great grand children. She united with the Methodist Church in Illinois in 1842, and moved her membership to Crabtree Chapel in 1853, where she held her membership at the time of her death. She lived a consistent christian life and always held family prayer with her children when they were at home. She was very patient during her sickness, and a few days before her death had the 13th chapter of St. John read, and had members of the family pray, and she offered up a fervent prayer.

Grandma always had a kind word for everybody and her hands were always busy.

The remains were laid to rest in the Franklin Butte cemetery on Feb. 11, followed by a large number of sorrowing relations and friends.

The funeral services were conducted by Rev. Hamilton, of Lebanon.

One by one our pioneer mothers are going to rest from their earthly cares.

Thomas Froman Arrested.
Mr. Thomas Froman, a pioneer of this county, was arrested yesterday on a warrant sworn out by his wife. This grows out of the charges made in her complaint for a divorce filed a few days ago. Mr. Froman's friends claim the divorce proceeding is a rank blackmailing scheme to get some of his property, and that the case will develop more than the plaintiff's side.—Herald.
