Albany, continued.

My skin was almost yellow eyes sunken tongue coated pain continually in back and sides no appetite growing weaker day by day. Three physicians had given up. Then I was advised to use Electric Bitters to my great joy the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued there use for three weeks and am now a well man. I know they robbed the grave of another victim. No one should fail to try them, only 50 cents, guaranteed at E. C. Peery's drug store.

A Boy's Essay on An Editor.

An Eastern exchange publishes the following, which it claims is a boy's essay on an editor:

"An editor is a fellow that runs a newspaper and so's type and smokes cigarettes, and sometimes cusses. He is an odd site on pres day and when he's got ink on his hands and face and gets mad and a subscriber stops his paper and don't pay up. A editor has to be a offal good feller and rife all kinds of good laws about people who don't deserve it. Editors are always in a good humor, generally when they ain't on their year about something and they change their mind more times in a day than a mule can kick. They say some beautiful things about new married folks and wipe big tears of grief any time one is sick with cold or any old thing. My paw is a editor.

My paw says merchants is bigger liars than editors. Some times merchants see they feel good to wards you and will patronize you and then put a big ad in the other feller's paper and say dary doggon word to you. That makes paw mad. The funniest thing I ever saw was paw hugging the offal devil—the paw hugging and he turned instanter when I cam in and began to fummel around the forms and look real mean. He said he was justifying the forms and fixing to go to press or something. Sometimes I think I'd like to be an editor when I got growed up.

Carl Smith Off.

Carl Smith, who has been in the county recorder's office for several years, last Saturday suddenly resigned his position and left for Brownsville. Yesterday he acted very strangely at that place, and Constable F. M. Powell took charge of him, and this morning started for Albany with him. Carl had not lost his head after all, for at Tallman he refused to change cars, telling the constable that he had no warrant and he wouldn't go any farther with him. So he continued his journey. At Munkers the train stopped long enough for the conductor to telephone to Judge Palmer, who, of course had no orders to give and he continued his trip, how far is not known yet. Carl is a splendid heated fellow and a competent clerk, but he had gotten to drinking and gambling and had nothing to show for his work. Too bad.—Democrat.

A. B. Hammond in Town.

A. B. Hammond, president of the Corvallis & Eastern Railroad, and one of Oregon's leading railroad men, was in Albany yesterday. He spent the day in consultation with Manager Stone and the officials of the C. & E., presumably discussing railroad affairs. It was rumored that Mr. Hammond's visit to this city bridges the long looked for extension of the Corvallis & Eastern across the Cascade Mountains into Eastern Oregon, but local officials would say nothing in regard to the purpose of his visit when questioned last night.—Herald.

A Great Sensation.

There was a big sensation in Leesville, Ind. when W. H. Brown of that place, who was expected to die had his life saved by Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. He writes: I endured insufferable agonies from Asthma, but your New Discovery gave me immediate relief and soon thereafter effected a complete cure. Similar cures of Consumption pneumonia bronchitis and grippe are numerous. Its peerless remedy for all throat and lung troubles. Price 50c, and $1.00. Guaranteed by E. C. Peery Druggis Trial bottles free.

No Tariff Revision.

Washington, April 3.—The Boston speech of Secretary Root is regarded by politicians here as notice that the Administration desires no tariff revision at the first session of the 58th Congress. If the tariff must be revised then, says the Administration, let the change be made after the Presidential election.

EDITORIAL.

The Referendum.

A great deal of fault is being found by the leading men of Multnomah county, and by men who voted for the fair and other big gratis in the late legislature, with those who are seeking to invoke the referendum on these measures. There are two sides to this question. When the proposition of voting $500,000 of the people's money for the big fair was made there was quite a number of newspapers in the state which declared their intention of opposing it, for the reason that the amount was too large. But these papers, one by one, went back on their declarations and suddenly became enthusiastic supporters of the great scheme. Just what argument was used to bring about such a radical change can only be surmised, but anyone acquainted with the tactics of Portland wire pullers could make a very close guess. By this wholesale switching around the taxpayers were left without adequate means of signifying their objections known. It is also known that during the campaign last spring every candidate was dumb regarding the fair appropriation. It was hinted by a few that a half million dollars would be demanded, but the idea was scouted. Those seeking the suffrages of the people never sought to ascertain their views on this subject. If one of them had said at any public meeting that he would vote for $500,000 for the fair, $105,000 for the Columbia river railway and $100,000 for the Indian war veterans, he would have been run out of the house; consequently every speaker kept his mouth shut on these subjects. When the legislature met, what did our representatives do? Instead of calling meetings among their constituents to ascertain their wishes on these matters, they took it upon themselves not only to vote for the fair appropriation, but to openly advocate it on the floor of the house. The voting away of $705,000 of the people's hard earned money, without so much as saying "by your jaws," showed a contempt for the judgment of the voters that stands without a parallel in the history of legislatures.

What Did They Do?

Several of the newspapers published in this county have been boasting about the good the late legislature did for the people, but the boast is an idle one and not based on facts. What did it do outside of increasing salaries, voting appropriations and creating expensive boards? Our representatives promised many reforms, but where are they? They were to increase our revenue by taxing corporations. Did they do it? They were to inaugurate a system of carrying subjects to the asylum by which the present cost of the same would be greatly reduced. Did they do it? No; on the contrary they increase the salary of the present state sup't of schools; they appointed an ass't doorkeeper of the house, an official as much needed as two tails for a dog; they raised the salaries of several county officers although said officers had agreed to accept the salaries then existing. These are some of the beneficial acts which the late legislature gave the people. But things would have been much worse only for Chamberlain and his veto power.—Jefferson Review.

Lane County Plan For Delegates.

Lane County has adopted a unique plan of electing delegates to state and congressional convention and one which promises to give satisfaction, and yet elect them in the convention at large. The plan is for all persons who desire to go to either convention to file his name with the central committee the day before the county convention meets with the recommendations of two Republicans of the county. The central committee will then print the tickets with all the names of the candidates thus filed, leaving spaces for other names to be written in of those nominated in the convention. No other printed ticket shall be used and all the names shall be on one ticket. That method gives every

The Benefit of Change.

We are like house plants. We need a change of soil now and then—to be replanted. New scenes, new experiences, new surroundings—a change of climate, dry air instead of moisture, sunshine in place of cloud. This is sometimes essential to health. There are conditions near at hand that are better than any one can offer. Take a month or two in California. Plant yourself for a time where there are no irritations, where the hotel is beyond criticism, the landscape pleasing, and where warm sunny weather invites to walks and drives. Pure and dry air, and the increased electric influences of sunshine are vast ly helpful.

You can enjoy this trip at very little expense, and make a ride over the scenic Sierran and Shasta mountains, which at this time of the year with snow covered peaks, are unsurpassed for their grandeur.

SHUNDLES IN WASHINGTON.

They May Be Taken Into the Treasury Building, But May Not Be Taken Out.

Among all the departments in Washington the most strict is the treasury. Children may carry anything that he likes into the treasury building, but when he undertakes to carry anything bulky out of the building he is apt to get into trouble if he does not explain with readiness, says the New York Mail and Express.

A Boy Killed.

Eugene, April 3.—Little Mike Kelly, 7 year old, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Kelly, met a horrible death this afternoon. He attempted to mount a large hay wagon driven by Brans Vitus, and missing his hold fell in front of the rear wheel. The wheel passed over the boy's head, crushing it beyond recognition.

QUEBR CUSTOMS OF CHINESE.

In Their Country Liquids Are Sold by the Pound and Cloth by the Foot.

In China liquids are sold by weight and grain by measure. John buys soup by the pound and cloth by the foot. A Chinaman never puts his name outside of his shop, but prints inside a motto, or a list of his goods on his vertical signboard. Some reasuring-remark is frequently added, such as "One word half." A child two feet high would not be cheated," says Modes and Fabric.
