A VISIT TO DR. DARRIN'S OFFICE.

What He Saw and Heard of Dr. Darrin's Wonderful Cures By Electricity.

—Albany Democrat.

Albany seems to be full of wise people, judging from the steady stream of callers at the office of the celebrated Dr. Darrin at the Revere Hotel, Albany. He is making wonderful cures, and letters of gratitude are being daily received, showing satisfactory results of his skill in treating diseases. The following cards are selected from the many and most of them are well and favorably known to the reporter of this paper and we have conversed with them at different times. All give high praise to the doctor.

Dr. Darrin has reduced his professional fees so as to accommodate many of the afflicted who were unable to meet his terms in the past, and also for the benefit of those who have hesitated to apply to him. The worthy poor will be treated free except medicines.

An Albany Lady's Card.

To the Editor: For some time I have been troubled with rheumatism, dullness of hearing, inflammation of the bladder, biliousness, etc. Through Dr. Darrin's electrical and medical skill I have recovered, and cheerfully commend him to the public. I reside at 568 1st St. Albany.

Mrs. N. E. OLIN.

Mrs. Pet Crabtree Cured.

To the Editor: I am happy to state that Dr. Darrin's electrical and medical skill I have recovered, and cheerfully commend him to the public. I reside at 568 1st St. Albany.

Mrs. N. E. OLIN.

No More Pain For Her.

To the Editor: For a long time I have been afflicted with what physicians called a cancerous tumor of my breast which gave me great pain. I have been under Dr. Darrin's electrical treatment and my trouble has nearly disappeared. I am correspondingly happy over the result. Refer to me at Pratum, Marion county, Oregon.

Mrs. G. WILLS.

Dr. Darrin's Place of Business.

Dr. Darrin is located at the Revere Hotel until Oct. 1st, and will give free examination to all from 10 to 5 or 7 a. m. daily. The poor free except medicines. 10 to 11 daily, and those able to pay at the rate of $5 a week or in that proportion of time the case may require. ### Queen's Pet Parrot.

The late queen of the Belgians used to have a favorite parrot. When it first arrived at court, some two or three years ago, it horrified the courtiers by shrieking out such treasonable expressions as "Down with the pastboard king!" and "Vive la republique!" Poor Pili was sentenced to death by strangulation by the indignant lords in waiting, but the queen intervened and set herself to teach the parrot to cry "Vive le roi!" and other loyal phrases. Her lessons were soon successful, and the bird became an entirely loyalist as it had previously been republican.—Chicago Post.

Cheap Cabs for Women.

Russia is supposed to be a backward and half-civilized country. Yet women there have privileges which they do not enjoy in our enlightened land. Those who have property of their own have a voice in municipal affairs, and on all railroads there are carriages for ladies only. In St. Petersburg and other cities there are cabs set aside for women only, of which the fares are, by law, but half those demanded from men.—Chicago Tribune.

Potent Pili Pleasure.

The pills that are potent in their action and pleasant in effect are DeWitt's Little Early Risers. Dr. S. Philpot, of Albany, Ga., says "During a bilious attack I took one. Small as it was it did me more good than calomel, blue-mass or any other pills I ever took and at the same time it effected me pleasantly. Little Early Risers are certainly any ideal pill." Sold by E. C. Peery, drug-gist.

VENEZUELA'S COAST.

Natural and Artificial Characteristics About La Guayra.

A Point of World-Wide Interest Because of Recent International Troubles Surrounding Currency and Features.

The recent state of Venezuelan affairs in connection with the attempt on the part of England and Germany to force the immediate payment of certain financial obligations, and the fact that this country is more or less concerned in these events through the application of the Monroe doctrine to possible complications of the situation, has aroused general interest to such an extent that a description of the natural and artificial characteristics of that portion of the country near the scene of operations may be of interest, says the Chicago Tribune.

Near La Guayra, the port of entry to Caracas, the coast is high and rugged, the mountains rising nearly perpendicular, their bases washed by the blue waters of the Caribbean sea, their summits capped by huge masses of billowy clouds.

The town of La Guayra is on the eastern side of a small bay, the natural outline of which have been extended and improved by means of a stone breakwater and quay, which stretches due west from the eastern extremity of the bay.

The buildings of the town are mostly one-story in height, built of sun-dried brick, plastered outside and painted white or light color, and the roofs are of red, sun-baked tiles.

Back of the town, to the south and east, rise the steep mountain sides, on a spur of which stands the little town of Levisa, which is reached by a narrow path partly hewn out of the solid rock.

This fort is practically the sole defense of the town, and as a defense of little or no value, as its guns are old and its walls of such a nature that they would rapidly crumble under a well-directed fire of modern rifles. A landing, therefore, could be easily made even against a strong opposition when effected under cover of warships, which, on account of the great depth of water well in shore, can stand close in.

On the southern side of the bay the mountains recede from the shore, forming on the west a somewhat extensive and very fertile area of flat land.

East of La Guayra the mountain bases are nearer the shore, with here and there a small patch of land sufficiently level to admit of cultivation. A short and very primitive railroad runs along the shore close to the water, to the little watering place called Macuto, a distance of about four miles from La Guayra.

The distance from La Guayra to Caracas in an air line is seven miles, but owing to the elevation of the latter city (3,000 feet), the distance by rail is about 25 miles.

The railroad is the property of an English syndicate, and was opened for traffic in 1883. It is well constructed, and required great engineering skill to surmount the natural difficulties of the route.

From La Guayra the road runs west through the little suburb of Cardonal, and then, turning south and east, it ascends by means of a steel viaduct, to its artificial ledge on the side of the mountains, and thereafter following the twists and turns of their precipitous sides, passing through three or four short viaducts and over 15 steel bridges, ascending 3,000 feet in a distance of 22 miles and then descending 200 feet into the valley of the Guayra river, in which Caracas is situated.

The nature of the country along this route is such that a comparatively small number of men could successfully oppose a vastly superior invading force.

Liability to Death.

A French surgeon says that men are more subject to aerial diseases than women and that out of every seven middle-aged persons there are two who do not hear as well with one ear as with the other. In every thousand children under 15 years of age four show symptoms of some ear disease and six a marked deficiency in hearing power. The liability to disease increases from birth to the age of 40 and then begins gradually to decrease as old age advances. Out of the total number of cases subjected to surgical treatment, it is estimated that about 53 per cent are cured and 30 per cent permanently relieved.—Chicago Chronicle.

Two physicians had a long and stubborn fight with an ailment on my right lung" writes J. F. Hughes of DuPont, Ga. "and gave me up. Everybody thought my time had come. As a last resort I tried Dr. King's New Discovery and lo! it was striking and I was on my feet in a few days. Now I've entirely regained my health." It conquers all Coughs, Colds and Throat and Lung troubles. Guaranteed by E. C. Peery's drug store. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial bottles free.
