George Houck, of Eugene, the well known fancy stock raiser, has distinguished himself at Newport on account of helping to rescue Rev. F. H. Adams, of McMinnville, from drowning last Friday. Rev. Adams while bathing in the surf was carried out beyond the breakers and was unable to reach the shore again. The people on the beach saw his trouble and endeavored to save himself and Mr. Houck and Sam Dugger, a well known sport of Albany, swam out and rescued him from drowning. Those who witnessed the incident say that it was with the greatest difficulty that the rescuers reached the drowning man. The waves were quite strong against them and had it not been for great presence of mind they all might have been lost.—Guard.

The Chehalis Wreck.

An excursion train on the Northern Pacific, consisting of an engine and seven coaches, enroute to the Elks clubchuck at Olympia, was wrecked at 11 o'clock Saturday, two miles south of Chehalis. Two people were killed and about thirty injured.

The train left Portland at 7:30 crowded with prominent Elks, their friends and families. The train was running at a good rate of speed when the rails spread throwing the engine down an embankment forty feet. Three coaches piled on top of the engine, and to add to the horror of the scene, the boiler of the engine exploded throwing scalding water and steam for several yards around.

The fourth, fifth and sixth coaches left the track, but only the front end of the fourth car went over the bank. The seventh coach did not leave the rails.

Nearly every one in the first coach was injured, the most of them having fractured limbs. Those who escaped injury started in to assist the injured and pull them from the wreck. Several doctors were on the train and within a short time were at work on the sufferers.

A messenger was hurried to Chehalis with the news and a train of flat cars was sent to the scene of the wreck to bear the injured to the hospitals. Every doctor in Chehalis and Contra Costa hurried to the wreck and a special train was sent from Tacoma with doctors and nurses.

Most of the injured being from Portland were sent there on a special hospital train. Those killed were:

Chas. Farleman, 232 Yamhill street, Portland.

A tramp named Frank Gales.

Chas. Farleman, who was killed was in the first car, as were many of the most severely injured. All the wounded, except three were taken to Portland. Mrs. C. E. Brown had both arms broken and the left one was amputated. She is in a critical condition.

T. E. Daniels, son of Ex-Lieutenant Governor Daniels, of Washington and reporter on the Oregonian, had an arm broken, hand crushed and leg fractured but was able to telegraph the news of the accident to the paper.

Superintendent Albee, of the Northern Pacific reports so far as he can find out the accident was due to the burning of the firebox of the locomotive, followed by the dropping of the crown sheets, this probably caused dropping of the grate onto the track and derailing the engine, the latter dragging coaches after it.

The Wandering Shade.

"Egad!" thought I, as I wandered sorrowfully along the streets of this modern town amid whose teeming population I feel lonely as though I were in the most desolate and uninhabited desert. "Egad! but the men of this modern age know naught of the art of combat. My sword and shield, but if these paralytic modern knights could but have stood upon the fields of Agincourt and—"

Just then from within a huge building came the sounds of a multitude shouting in mighty frenzy as though they witnessed a fierce contest.

"By my halidom!" I gasped, "but this soundest good to me! Mayhap, now, there is something doing, after all!"

Whereupon I pressed swiftly to the entrance, but was stopped by a knight in blue armor.

"Whereof speakst thou?" says he.

"Godsakes!" quoth I, "but my knightly port and my good sword eye won my way in the good days of old!"

"You'll not get far on 'em here!" said he, and he shoved me far back upon the street.

My knightly blood boiled and I was like to spit the varlet upon my sword. But at that instant another knightly soul rose from within and I hastily faded and crept through a rat-hole and got up near the great platform upon which I beheld two naked gladiators contending with swords on their feet.

"Sook 'em!" howled my rabble.

"Hil' 'im in the slaps!"

"By my halidom, 'atiff!" I thundered, springing upon the stage and brandishing my rapier, "death and by jing!" and I made to lunge at the taller of the two contending knights, thinking to spit him with a tierce a la carie and a half fromage de brie.

At that moment I found myself assailed between the two. Each made a blow at the other and I was between their two fists when they met. My ghostly lineaments were smashed up as flat as my good sword, and I went down while the third knight, who danced around and yelled, "Break! Break!" began gesticulating over my prostrate form and yelling like a band.

"Eight! Nine! Ten—YOU'RE OUT!"

"I crave your pardon, fair sir!" I said as I rose weakly upon mine ancient and honorable shanks, "I am not out—but, God willing, I soon shall be!"

Whereupon I once more faded away into thin air and floated up through the roof to reorganize my nerves among the clouds.

Alack! The knights of this modern age fight not in the good old way.

More and more do I find it borne in upon me that I am a stranger in a strange land.

SLEEPING APART.

A GREAT MISTAKE MADE BY MARRIED PEOPLE.

—Albany Herald.

Married people sustaining the monogamous relation, especially make a great mistake in allowing themselves to sleep together. This practice, in a measure, leads to uncongeniality. From five to eight hours' bodily contact every 24 with one person not only causes an equalization of those magnetic elements which, when diverse in quantity and quality, produce the physical attraction and passionate love, but it promotes permanent uncongeniality by making the married pair grow alike physically. The interchange of individual electricities and the absorption of each others' exhalations lead directly to temperamental inadaptation, and to this cause may doubtless be ascribed one of the chief reasons why a husband and wife manifest such a tendency to grow alike after many years of companionship. There is nothing that will so derange the nervous system of a person who is eliminative in nervous force to lie in bed all night with another person who is absorbent in nervous force. The world is overrun with afflicted people from the effects of nervous exhaustion and physical decay. To such Dr. Darrin invites them to try his electric treatment, so successfully applied to thousands of our citizens who have languished in the throes of disease and now enjoy the blessings of health and happiness.

AN OPEN LETTER.

The Following Letter Speaks Volumes for Dr. Darrin's Mode of Treatment.

Dr. Darrin—Dear Sir: It is with great pleasure and a thankful heart that I wish to inform you that I am cured of salt rheum, which I have suffered with for 25 years, at times so bad that my hands would crack to the bone, and my body was also affected. I have no words that can express my thankfulness to you. Mrs. E. Sherrett, of Vancouver, Wash., has known my condition, and can be referred to. Before any one to me at 375 Huly St., Oakland, Cal. formerly lived at Gardiner, Or. Very Respectfully Yours,

MRS. MARYA DAILY.

Another Open Letter.

To the Editor: For more than six years I have had established in its most aggravating form, causing headache and sickness at the stomach. Through Dr. Darrin's treatment the pain has left, the stomach cured and the stomach about well and reside five miles from Albany, Or., which is my address and will gladly talk with any one on the subject.

H. J. DOWNSING.

Deafness Cured in Ten Minutes.

Mr. Editor: I wish to state through your columns that Dr. Darrin cured me of deafness in 10 minutes. Before any one to me at 423 Clay street, Portland.

HENRY M. WILLIAMS.

Dr. Darrin's Place of Business.

Dr. Darrin can be consulted free from 10 to 5 o'clock daily; evening 7 to 8, Sunday 10 to 3, at Bellevue Hotel until December 1st. The poor free and those able to pay at the rate of $5 a week or in that proportion of time the case may require. All curable chronic diseases of men and women a specialty.

F. H. Rohn, 257 Commercial street Salem, catarrh, cured.

J. W. Pate, Jefferson, Or., rheumatism and diabetes cured.

Reuben Lee and wife, Turner, Ore., sciatic rheumatism and cough, restored.

Mrs. C. Pfend, Salem, varicose ulcers on both limbs, cured.

B. Baxter, Ferry street, Salem, tumor cured.

Miss Irene Ashford, Albany, Ore., discharging ear, cured.

J. S. Heston, Salem, liver complaint and dyspepsia, cured.

The doctor makes a specialty of all the diseases of the eye, ear, nose and throat, catarrh, deafness, bronchitis, laryngitis, heart, liver, bladder and kidney diseases, or those who suffer from apathy or indifference to the genital-urinary and skin diseases in either sex, such as blood taints, seminal weakness and lost vigor, varicocele and stricture.

All curable chronic diseases treated at $5 a week, or in that proportion of time as the case may require. No case published except by permission of the patient. All business relations with Dr. Darrin strictly confidential. Electrical appliances furnished. One visit desirable, though many cases can be treated by home treatment by writing symptoms.

A NEW CURE FOR DISEASES OF MEN.

Scientific investigation, supplemented by experience has shown that urinary diseases are more prevalent and destructive to life, health and happiness than any other class known to the medical fraternity. They are not confined to the low and degraded portions of humanity, as many suppose, but are to be found among the pure of heart, the innocent, the truly pious and the wealthy.

Many of them are transmitted from parents to children, from generation to generation. Thousands of people suffer untold agonies from their ravaging effects, and meet an early and untimely death, often ignorant of the cause. Though transmitted innocently, the effects of these diseases are not the less terrible. It is a sad truth that the innocent are often greater sufferers than the guilty.

Of all the organs of the body few are more important than those engaged in the urinary functions. In perfect health—that great blessing which so few enjoy—one will scarcely direct a moment's thought to these important organs, and at the first unpleasant symptom, good advice, such as may easily be obtained, should be immediately solicited.

Among the chief and most common diseases is seminal weakness and nervous debility, or loss of nerve-power. Thousands of young and middle-aged men suffer with nervous diseases for years, and may be ignorant of the causes when a little timely advice would make life's pathway full of cheer and happiness. When the first symptoms of seminal weakness manifest themselves the sufferer is notified to become dull and morose, and is troubled with indigestion though the appetite may remain good. But the strength vanishes and the patient grows thin. He becomes indolent and debilitated, and loss of memory and all vigor of the sexual organs may follow. In time he may fall into a complete state of impotency—total loss of sexual power. Among his terrible effects may be mentioned weakness of the memory, confusion of ideas, nervous despondency and general weakness. The pale face, the sunken eye, the downcast countenance, the stooping gait—all serve to announce the victim's troubles. It seldom kills of itself, but it opens the gate to other diseases, such as consumption and diseases of the heart. The unfortunate sufferer cannot sleep in that immediate state, between life and death, intended for the recuperation of the mind and body, he can know no rest, for his dreams are dark and forboding, and the constant drain upon his system robs it of its vital fluid.

This affliction may be the result of self-abuse or the result of excesses in mature years. As "man is but a bundle of habits," how essential that he should start right in life, that his mind should be full of sublime thoughts and pure conceptions. All of you who suffer from this disease should lose no time in consulting Dr. Darrin, for the time may come when you will be beyond the aid of all medical skill.

No matter what you have taken or who has failed to cure you, call and see the doctor, as he can permanently, safely and privately cure you in one half the time and at one half the expenses required by others.

Dr. Darrin's Place of Business.

Dr. Darrin is located at the Bellevue Hotel until Dec. 1st, and will give free examination to all from 10 to 5 or 7 to 8 daily. The poor free except medicine, 10 to 11 daily, and those able to pay at the rate of $5 a week or in that proportion of time the case may require. All curable chronic diseases of men and women a specialty. Eyes tested and glasses fitted at reasonable prices.

Popular Sunday Excursions.

In order to meet the wants of the traveling public, and give practical, daily service to the beach during the summer season, the Corvallis & Eastern Railroad will run an excursion train from Albany, Corvallis and all points west to Newport every Sunday, commencing Sunday, July 12th, leaving Albany at 7:30 a. m. and Corvallis at 7:30 a. m. Returning leave Newport at 5:30 p. m. arriving in Albany at 10:30 p. m.

Three day or one season tickets will be good going and returning on these trains. This should prove popular with the traveling public and a liberal patronage will be the best appreciation.
