SERVANTS WITH FORTUNES.

A Head-Waiter Who Was Indignant at an Exaggerated Report of His Income.

Not long ago a morning newspaper discussed the earnings of the headwaiters in the fashionable up-town hotels and restaurants. It said that one headwaiter who raises milk, eggs, vegetables and poultry and sells them all to his employer had made $100,000 out of his farm and the year's tips, says the N. Y. Mail and Express. It declared that another headwaiter four blocks lower on Fifth avenue cleared $25,000 last year from tips and pointers on the stock market. People read that as they read so much else in the newspapers, and most of them let the subject pass out of their minds. Not so did a friend of mine. He went to the smaller hotel that night and when the headwaiter came to greet him he said:

"I see the Morning Jaundice says you made $25,000 last year."

"It's a lie," the headwaiter replied. "I only made a little more than $12,000."

Only a little more than $12,000—the earnings of a headwaiter. That would have satisfied the proprietor of a first-class hotel not so very long ago.

HE RIDES IN HIS CARRIAGE.

The Young Man Who Saw a Chance to Get Ahead in the World.

A few years ago circumstances opened up a lucky chance to a young man who was eking out a poor and unpleasant existence on a scrubby farm in the Piscataquis backwoods. Even this poor bit of earth was not all his own, says the Lewiston (Me.) Journal. He was remote from neighbors, and so far from a sawmill that the buildings were left to tumble down for want of lumber to repair them. In this state of things the Canadian Pacific railway was located around the side of the mountain just above his valley, and hundreds of Italians and other laborers were put to work. It required two years to build this part of the road, working winters as well as in warm weather. The humble farmer saw his chance. He went to the settlements and secured a supply of clothing and knick-knacks to sell on commission, and soon rose to the dignity of having goods of his own. He does not live in the backwoods any more, for as soon as the road was built and the laborers departed he folded his tent also and went forth, bought one of the best farms in Piscataquis, paying cash down, and now lives in comfort, rides in his carriage, sends his children to the best schools and all that. His case is one of those which show the advantage of promptly catching hold of Fortune, even if she is found in an unexpected place.

Consumption

The only kind of consumption to fear is "neglected consumption."

People are learning that consumption is a curable disease. It is neglected consumption that is so often incurable.

At the faintest suspicion of consumption get a bottle of Scott's Emulsion and begin regular doses.

The use of Scott's Emulsion at once, has, in thousands of cases, turned the balance in favor of health.

Neglected consumption does not exist where Scott's Emulsion is.

Prompt use of Scott's Emulsion checks the disease while it can be checked.
