Important Notice.

Telephone patrons have been caused considerable annoyance of late by people calling them up and asking them to call other people to the phone for them. This practice should be discontinued and the central office will promptly disconnect all such calls. If you wish an outsider to come to the phone, put in your call at the central office, as the subscribers do not want to be bothered running after people who have no telephone.

The Death Penalty.

A little thing sometimes results in death. Thus a mere scratch, insignificant cuts, or pony boils have paid the death penalty. It is wise to have Bucklen's Arnica Salve ever handy. But is not this announcement contrary to professional ethics?

The Oregon supreme court this week declared the state barber law constitutional, reversing a decision of Judge George of Multnomah county. The case was brought up when the state board of barbers and examiners attempted to prosecute a man who was running a barber's school in Portland. The board considered him incompetent and had refused to grant him a license.

The story has leaked out that while Riley Shelton and Jack Jones and party of Scio, were up at Park Lake, the former while beating about the brush, routed what they took to be a cougar or mountain lion, but being at a distance of about 500 paces, he failed to hit him and after firing several shots he decided to crawl up closer when the supposed cougar turned out to be a poor meesley two year old calf which had probably wandered away from some drove.—Advertiser.

The national Republican committee at Washington, D. C., is sending out ready prepared editorials on printed slips to the newspapers all over the country in great abundance. We receive enough every week to fill the whole paper. They are well written and no doubt come handy to the party organs, as the editors can take vacations all summer and improve their papers at the same time. But we prefer to stay at home and write our own, even if they are not so good as those furnished by either party. We like them better.—Eugene Journal.

An Indiana exchange says: Driven almost to desperation by the continued drought, hundreds of farmers throughout the Kankakee valley assembled in the churches in their neighborhood yesterday and fervently prayed for rain. The drought has been so protracted that fires are devastating the country, destroying immense quantities of grain and hay and entailing untold financial loss. Farmers fear the drought will become as severe as that of five years ago when hundreds of cattle and thousands of acres of land were laid in a barren waste.

A few days ago an individual appeared in this community, whose intentions were not known. As he doubtless came from the seat of the little misunderstanding now existing between Russia and Japan, his mission was supposed to be of a war like description. So a number of Scio's valiant citizens, arming themselves with implements of war, something similar to representations of the fall of His Satanic Majesty as reproduced in the popular pictures of the same, went forth to capture this belligerent individual. Well the editor saw them depart, that is Bill Brenner, Ben Neil and others, but of the return we not know. We believe the mission is still moving up on new fields to conquer, up Thomas creek.

Captains Lewis and Clark.

Captain Meriwether Lewis was born on August 18, 1774, near the town of Charlottesville, Virginia. He attended a Latin school until he was 18. At 20 he engaged as a volunteer in the body of militia which were called out to settle some difficulties in the western part of the States and was soon removed to the regular service as a lieutenant in the line. At 23 he was promoted to a captaincy and paymaster of his regiment. When President Jefferson proposed the exploration of the Oregon country, Captain Lewis who was then Secretary to the President requested that he might have charge of the party which was granted. He had undaunted courage and perseverance; was careful as a father of those committed to his charge, yet steady in the maintenance of order and discipline. To perfect himself in the technical language of natural science and readiness in astronomical observations he placed himself in the hands of distinguished professors. On his return he was appointed Governor of Louisiana. He died October 11, 1809.

William Clark was born in Virginia, August 1, 1770, and was a brother of Colonel George Rogers Clark, who conquered the Illinois country during the Revolution. When 14 years of age his parents moved to Louisville, Ky. He was appointed an ensign in the army in 1788, and a member of the Captain Lewis expedition in 1804. Later he was made Brigadier General for the Territory of Upper Louisiana; in 1813—21 was Governor of the Mississippi Territory; and in 1822—38 Superintendent of Indian Affairs in St. Louis. He died in St. Louis, Mo., September 1, 1838.—Condensed from Harper's Encyclopedia of United States History.

Repairing County Bridges.

The force of bridge carpenters that has been employed the past week in rebuilding the approach to the Lebanon bridge, across the South Fork of the Santiam river at that place, has completed the work there and was yesterday transferred to Green's bridge on the North Fork of the river, between Scio and Jefferson, where extensive repairs have to be made in order to keep the bridge in condition for use by the public. This bridge is owned jointly by Marion and Linn counties. The repairs to be made there consist in strengthening one of the piers which has become weak; the partial rebuilding of the two approaches of the bridge, 70 feet on the Marion county side and 170 feet on the Linn county side and a general overhauling of the covering of the bridge. The structure is one of the oldest in Linn county, and was built over thirty years ago. County Commissioner T. J. Butler assisted in its construction, and he is now in charge of the repairs being made.

On Deck Again.

Last week a stock company was formed in this city for the purpose of purchasing the flour mill property soon to be sold at guardian's sale. In the mean time Charles W. Warner has leased the property and is now operating the same. Repairs on the dam are necessary in order to furnish sufficient water power. Mr. N. Young with a force of men is now making the necessary repairs. Whether the new company becomes the new owner of the property or not we are assured that the mill will be operated and ready to do all custom work offered.

Taken with Cramps.

Wm. Kirmse, a member of the bridge gang working near Littleport was taken suddenly ill Thursday night with cramps and a kind of cholera. His case was so severe that he had to have the members of the crew wait upon him and Mr. Gifford was called and consulted. He told them he had a medicine in the form of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera, and Diarrhoea Remedy that he thought would help him out and accordingly several doses were administered with the result that the fellow was able to be around next day. The incident speaks quite highly of Mr. Gifford's medicine.—Elkader, Iowa, Argus.

Crop Bulletin.

The Crop Bulletin reports Williamette Valley points as follows:

Hubbard—The continued drought rapidly ripened spring grain, which is now nearly all cut, threshing progressing nicely; the yield for spring grain is very light; clover hulling also reveals light seed crop, about 1 bushel per acre; corn, potatoes and pastures would be benefited by rain; stock doing well; hops in good condition in some yards, others very poor.

Lafayette—Dry and hot; harvest fairly well along; potatoes short crop; apples dropping, gardens poor, pastures very poor on hills; grain yield good; prunes maturing rapidly.

Forest Grove—Still dry and very smoky; all grain cut and mostly threshed; spring grain very poor, late potatoes variable, some fields look well, while others are almost a failure; hops healthy but do not promise a large yield.

Aurora—Weather dry; grain all harvested and threshed with small yields; hops doing remarkably well considering the dry season; fruit fairly good; early planted potatoes light, but those planted late will make a good crop if they get rain soon.

Bellfountain, Benton county—Dry and hot; fall grain all threshed; spring grain about cut; gardens drying up, potatoes and corn will be light.

Lacomb—Dry, with heavy smoke; corn about the only crop that is green now, and that is suffering for rain; small grain nearly all harvested and threshing in progress; crop better than expected, potatoes very small; pears, plums and early apples ripening; cows drying up rapidly.

Goldson, Lane county—Smoky, dry, not and dusty; harvest nearly completed; stock doing well; pasture getting short; crops very short; hay scarce; fruit plentiful; rather small for the want of moisture and from trees being overloaded.
