LAID IN HIS TOMB.

A Large Audience Pays Tribute to Our Late Fellow Townsman

As was stated in last week's issue, the funeral of our late fellow townsman occurred at 2 p. m. last Friday at the Christian Church. The house was crowded with the relatives, friends and neighbors of the deceased, all desiring to pay the last sad tribute to their honored relative and fellow citizen. Rev. Henter conducted the church services after which the funeral train took up its march to Franklin Butte cemetery, where the interment occurred at the family plot and beside the remains of his loved wife, who had preceded him 22 years.

At the grave, D. P. Mason, of Albany, an old time neighbor and fellow townsman, took charge and conducted the service in accordance with the Masonic ritual. The service was a beautiful one and most impressive. Mr. Mason added much to the solemnity and impressiveness of the occasion by the admirable manner in which he conducted the work. When the emblematic apron had been placed upon the casket, the words "Dust to dust and ashes to ashes" had been spoken, each member of the Order present deposited a sprig of evergreens. After the grave was filled and the concluding words said, the mound was literally covered with elegant floral offerings.

Much might be said of our late neighbor and friend, for he was most worthy. How for the past 22 years he has been both father and mother to his children and how true and honorable he was as a friend and and neighbor. No more can be said then, seeing his duty through life, he did it unflinchingly and and well.

Crabtree Cullings.

G. C. Gilham has sold his farm, lying two miles east of Crabtree to Joe Boyonoski. 113 acres for $4,100.

The county court, on the 3rd of February, instructed road supervisors to be sure and place their improvements on the road survey. Now some of the supervisors are receiving slow responses to to their requests to remove fences from the road right-of-way. Possibly a little gentle insistance from an official source, may be necessary to have the requests complied with.

SOLD AT 32.30.

The Mohair Pool composed of about 3,300 fleeces was sold to Hermann Metzger, of Portland, at the above figure. Bids submitted were as follows: Hibler & Gill Co., $31.55 per hundred; Johnson & Hibler, $31.625; Guy McKnight, $31.25; Wesely Bros., $31.625; Hermann Metzger, $32.30. The sale attracted quite a number of people to town and matters looked quite lively for a while. Wool growers are now making a pool and they expect that it will total at least 25,000 pounds. By making pools in this way, a considerable advance over the ordinary retail price may be realized.

A MATTER OF HEALTH
ROYAL BAKING POWDER
Absolutely Pure
HAS NO SUBSTITUTE

FROM KING TO PAUPER.

Edward W. Marshall, a wheat gambler, who amassed millions by a successful wheat corner in 1868, died in the county hospital in Chicago Saturday. For several years prior his death he had been a pauper, all of his easily won wealth having vanished in less than two years after he made his highly successful coup.

Dame Fortune is less kind to some of the men who engineer wheat corners than she is to others. There was "Ol Hutch," for example, who was still doing a moderately active business selling peanuts at retail on the street corners nearly a dozen years after his historic wheat corner passed into commercial history, and long after Marshall had been all but forgotten by the bulls and the bears that gamble and gamble in the wheat pit.

Partridge was another man whose magnificent luck never deserted him, for in less than two years after he raked in several million with his celebrated corner he was locked up in an asylum until he died, so that there was no opportunity for his money to get away from him.

Joe Leiter, the greatest of all "cornerers," was another of the favorites on whom fortune smiled by providing him with a rich father to clear up the mess after the cavorting bears had made a financial grease spot out of the rampant Joseph. Then came "Corn King" Phillips. This regal individual might not properly be classed with the wheat kings, but he followed their tactics and was broken on the same wheel, but, unlike the ancient Mr. Marshall, he made a partial recovery and followed it with a spectacular second failure.

So it goes on through the list. In every grain market of importance in the country financial wrecks are drifting around the edges of the malestorm of speculation, dismantled and cast aside. Amidst this human flotsam the unsuccessful "cornerers" of the past drift unnoticed, until some friendly current at last seizes them and sweeps them out to the sea of eternity. There for a fleeting moment a gleam of the old fame rests upon them, for the millionaire who died a pauper is sure to have his name heralded.—Oregonian.

INDICTED FOR MURDER.

Harry Wright and Chas. Montie have been indicted for murder in the first degree, for furnishing arms to Tracy and Merrill, when they made their famous break for liberty from the penitentiary. Wright and Montie are former reform school boys. Montie is now doing time in the Oregon penitentiary and Wright is confined at the Walla Walla pen. It is said the evidence is conclusive against them and their conviction certain.

Card of Thanks.

To our friends and acquaintances who who so kindly assisted us during the long illness of our much beloved father, David Meyers:

To those who rendered such valuable assistance during the death and burial, and to those who gave beautiful floral offerings: We extend to you our heartfelt thanks. May the kindness you have shown to us in our bereavement be returned to you a hundred fold, should sorrow come to you.

The Family.

To Refund Bonded Indebtedness.

A petition is being circulated, requesting the school board to call a special school election for the purpose of authorizing the board to refund the district's bonded debt by replacing the bonds with an equal amount bearing a lower rate of interest. When the school house was built, the best bid we could get was 6½ per cent. interest bearers. It is thought the debt can now be floated easily at 4 or 4½ per cent. interest. A reduction of one-third in the amount of interest paid annually, would in time provide quite a sinking fund, yet not increase the rate of taxation.

Telephone Saved House.

Geo. Rodges, who is on [illegible], thinks the telephone is a good investment. When his house caught fire, he had plenty of assistance in short order.

BROKE INTO SCHOOL HOUSE.

Last Friday, complaint was made by Henry Cyres and W. S. Paul against two itinerant showmen, one of whose names was "Clever Hal," for raising a window and entering the schoolhouse in the Paul district and using the stove therein for cooking their breakfast. After being ordered out of the building they came on to Scio, as did Messrs. Cyrus and Paul. When placed under arrest the showmen were found at the saloon partaking of a frugal meal of beer, sausage and crackers. They came before Justice Shelton's court, who, after taking into consideration their poor luck lately, assessed their fine at five dollars for simple trespass. Judge Shelton stated to them that he could hold them under a criminal charge, but would not do so if they would pay the above fine. "Clever Hal" then confessed that they had but $2 between them, which they would pay, and remit the other $3 later. On Monday last, true to their promise, they again came into town and "squared up" with his honor. Evidently their slight of hand show had been meeting with better success.

Died.

MILLER—At his home in Marion county, one mile below the railroad bridge and adjoining the North Santiam river, George A. Miller, aged 73 years, 11 months and 16 days.

The deceased was a native of Scotland and was an Oregon pioneer. The cause of his death was, acute gastritis and neuralgia of the stomach, following an attack of la grippe, his illness dating back for six weeks. He had a large family and was a brother of R. B. Miller of this city and was one of Marion county's reliable and trustworthy citizens.
