A few home buyers were in town this week.

Uncle Bill Bilyeu and son Jake drove over from Albany last Sunday.

There were twenty-five baptisms into the Evangelistic church at Jefferson last Sunday.

Samuel Marks, an old-time resident of Linn county, fell dead on the streets of Portland last week.

Within the radius of a few miles of Scio there are five sawmills engaged in cutting ties for the S. P. R. R.

John Cyrus reports progress on his tie contract. Those delivered on the right of way were to be inspected this week.

Uncle Jim Shelton came over from Albany Sunday and was busy for a spell shaking hands with his many friends.

Frank Dobrkowsky buried his infant child, aged 32 hours, in the grave of its sister in Franklin Butte cemetery last Sunday.

Joe Jefferson, the veteran actor, died at his home at Palm Beach in Florida on the evening of April 23. He was the oldest of American actors.

Our new line of spring carpets, linoleums and wall papers are now in. Call and see us before you buy.

Chas. Wesely.

Occasionally some expert trout fisher brings in a few trout from the small streams, but the fishing season in the larger streams is not yet on.

Jack Jones and Guy McKnight made a flying trip over to the county metropolis Monday. They report everything very quiet over there.

Miss Ollie Morris came over with her mother from Lebanon last Friday evening. Miss Ollie will close her term of teaching school in the Cowan district this week.

After several months' sickness, we are glad to state that Mrs. J. A. Crabtree is again on the road to recovery and is expected to regain a comfortable degree of health in a short time.

Bob White quail are becoming numerous in this vicinity. In a short ride Wednesday the News editor heard the old-time whistle, "bob white," in dozens of different places.

H. E. Burmester, Jr., who has been attending dental college in Portland, has passed his final examination and will now have the legal right to look down in other people's mouths.

Bill Brenner is building a double, back-action chicken house, warranted to make hens lay 365 eggs in a year. He has not stated whether he has taken leap year into his calculations or not.

Prof. Virgil Goins, of Buena Vista surprised his many Scio friends by turning up among them last Friday. Virgil has a warm place in the hearts of many Scioans and a visit from him is ever welcome.

E. J. Hays, an employe of the S. P. bridge gang at the North Santiam, came to this city Tuesday because of getting three fingers of his left hand badly bruised while working on the pile driver. Dr. Prill, the S. P. surgeon, is looking after him and thinks he will be able to save all the fingers.

John and Joe Wesely of this city and Will Miller of Shelburn went to Jefferson last Sunday to assist in a match game of baseball. The game was between Jefferson and Lebanon and resulted in a score of 8 to 2 in favor of Jefferson. Quite a number of Scio people went down to root for Jefferson.

Mrs. Dr. Clara M. Davidson, the eldest daughter of Hon. C. B. Montague of this county, died at her home in Newberg on April 20. Dr. Davidson had achieved eminent success in her chosen profession. When the editor of the News was principal of Santiam Academy at Lebanon, she was one of his brightest pupils.

Judge Bellinger of the U. S. district court, Portland, has decided every technical point put up by the defense in the land fraud trials in favor of the government. There is nothing to it now but for the accused senator, congressmen and all the rest to face a jury of twelve of their fellow-citizens, submit their evidence, etc., and abide by the consequences.

The sleight-of-hand and illusion show that visited our town last Friday and Saturday nights is pronounced by all who were present as being meritorious and worthy of better audiences than were present. The professor did a great number of very clever tricks, some of which are exhibited by traveling spiritual mediums. The suspension of the human body in mid-air and the passing of a solid hoop around and on all sides, showing to the audience, at least, that there was no support, was especially good.

Miss Jessie Daley, who is chief nurse in one of the female wards of the hospital for the insane at Salem, is home for a few days' visit with home folks. Jessie looks a little the worse for wear. From appearance she might have played a star part at an Irish wake from the manner in which one of her eyes is decorated. One of the patients did not like to have Jessie talk to the doctor while she (the patient) was present, and as soon as the doctor had passed on about his duties, she struck Jessie a violent blow on one of her eyes, which practically put that optic out of business for a few days. Jessie did not want us to say anything about the matter, but for fear that the discolored eye might cause people to think that it was not obtained in the line of duty, we give the explanation.

Joe Strejc returned from Portland Wednesday to complete some business left unfinished.

A number of Scioans went to Bilyeu Den last Sunday to attend Easter services at the Catholic church at that place.

County Treasurer James Elkins has remitted state taxes to the state treasurer amounting to $33,915, leaving due from this county for this year $20,000. Half of the amount due from this county must be paid by May 1 and the rest has until December 1, when it must be paid. This leaves in the county treasury in the general fund $28,000, and in the road fund $15,000.

Scutch Mill to Start Up

Tuesday, two representatives of the flax industry in Oregon came up from Salem for the purpose of starting up the scutch mill in this city. Several tons of flax straw which has been retted is on hand yet to be prepared for market. It is for this purpose that the mill is to be placed in operation. Nine hands are required to operate the plant, and it will require about two months' time to work up what straw there is on hand. We are also informed that it is practically certain that a large linen mill will be erected at Salem this year. The money to build the mill is on hand, and the only hitch in the matter is to find a proper superintendent—one of known business ability and who is an experienced linen manufacturer—to take charge of and operate the plant. When the proposed linen mill is in operation, the product of 2,000 to 3000 acres of flax will be necessary to keep it running throughout the year. In all the calculations of the projectors of the industry, Scio figures to considerable extent, for, we are told, the land in this vicinity grows a quality of flax that cannot be surpassed in the state, or in the world for that matter. The scutch mill here can take care of the product of from 500 to 600 acres of flax. This means employment for a large number of hands. All that is necessary to get our farmers to grow flax is to make them know that there will be a cash market and at a remunerative price for the product, and it will be grown. Of course it is too late now to grow a crop this year, for our farmers are about through seeding. Next fall, however arrangements can be made to have all the flax grown that the scutch mill here can take care of.

Severely Injured

Last Friday W. H. Stam, of this city, was assisting Bill Young to hook up a partially broken horse to a cart for the purpose of breaking him to work singly to a buggy. Mr. Stam was holding the horse by the bits while Bill was doing the hitching act. During the process, the horse concluded that he did not want to do that kind of work and proceeded to break away from the whole business. During the melee, the horse by some means knocked Mr. Stam down and at the same time became so mixed up that he fell. Before Stam could get out of the way he was caught by the falling horse, resulting in crushing the bones of the left arm at the elbow and also cracking his breastbone. Dr. Prill reduced the fracture and made everything as comfortable as possible for him. Mr. Stam was able to be on the street Saturday, though complaining of being very sore. It will be several weeks before he will be able to work again. The arm will most likely be stiff at the elbow joint.

To Clean Up Cemtoery.

A communication has been handed us this week, the purport of which was to urge all our citizens to spend a day in cleaning up Franklin Butte cemetery. There is much foul stuff that is offensive when growing in a cemetery that ought to be removed. There are also many graves that are in danger of becoming obliterated and ought to be remarked. We mentioned the matter to several of the Masonic brethren. They indicated that they would have a sufficiency of grave markers prepared to place at all graves that require them. As the Masons have the cemetery in charge, it is proper that that order should name the day and invite the people to come and help tidy up the city of the dead. For this reason we hold the communication back for one week.

Escaped From Jail.

William Davis, a big logger, who was being held in the county jail for assault and robbery, broke jail some time last night, escaping through the roof of the corridor. Davis and Ed McGraw were being held on a charge of assault and robbery committed on a companion in Harrisburg three weeks ago. Davis was allowed to leave his cell going into the jail corridor to take a bath. Later, when an officer went in to lock up the prisoners in their cells for the night, he found Davis' form in Davis' bed. Thinking it was Davis, the cells were locked for the night. The form proved to be a dummy.

It turns out that Davis was in the rear end of the corridor, where he hid in the shadows. Later he cut through the roof of the corridor, gaining admittance to a trap door in the ceiling leading to the sheriff's residence and escaped down the back stairs.

Davis is believed to be the man who some time ago made the saws in the Portland city jail, resulting in a jail delivery. He is a shrewd crook. Every effort is being made to capture him.—Saturday's Journal.

Convicts to Work on Roads.

A Salem special to the Oregonian says: Forty convicts will be placed at work on the county roads near Salem, half of them on what is known as the River road, leading southward to Hall's Ferry, and the other half on the Jefferson road, leading through the hills from South Commercial street to the town of Jefferson. County Judge Scott, Superintendent James and Governor Chamberlain held a conference today and settled the arrangements under which the convicts are to be worked.

The county will work the 40 men in two gangs, employing two guards and a supervisor for each gang, and one overseer to give general directions to both gangs. The county will pay $3 per day for transportation of the convicts over the street car lines and five cents a day for each man to cover the additional cost of food while the men are working. The guards will be paid $2 per day each and the supervisors and overseer $2.50 each. The total cost to the county will therefore be about $20.50 per day for the two gangs of men.

The convicts will be employed chiefly where shovel work must be done and where teams and machinery cannot be used. It is expected that in this way the state can determine approximately whether it is profitable to employ convicts on the public highways. Only "trusties," or men whose conduct and previous records are such that they can be worked outside the prison walls, will be worked on the roads. The men will have two days credited on their term of imprisonment for each day they work on the roads.

The Pacific Monthly.

With the June number will begin the Pacific Monthly's series of special editions for the year 1905. They will comprise a number for Portland, for Seattle, for Southern California, for San Francisco and the souvenir number of the Lewis and Clark Exposition, also a special automobile number. The articles of Dr. Wolf von Schierbrand, six in number, on "The Coming Supremacy of the Pacific" are also promised, and the plans contemplated by the publishers will, without question, place the Pacific Monthly far in advance, not only of present competitors, but also into the unreachable class of periodical literature on the Pacific Coast. The Pacific Monthly is sold to regular subscribers at the extremely low price of $1 a year. We have made an arrangement with the publishers by which we are able to offer it in connection with the Santiam News (both publications) for $2 a year.
