The Scio Literary Society met last Friday evening and resumed business under temporary officers. The attendance was good and great interest was shown in the work.

A motion was made to accept the report of the committee on constitution and by laws, as the constitution of the society.

After much debate and several amendments the question, by motion, was posponed until the next regular meeting.

The efforts of those on the debate deserve merit, as they were new in the work.

Mrs. Geo. Rogers on her Travels.

Ogden, Utah,
Oct. 9, 1904.

Santiam News Greeting:—I will try and write you about a few things we have seen on this part of our journey.

We left home very early Saturday morning and passed through Scio when her people were still in the arms of Morpheus.

We arrived in Portland before noon and went directly to the fair grounds. In the fair grounds we went first to the Forestry building; which interested us very much, because we were from the woods. There we saw mounted elks, deer, bears, cougars and a number of smaller atimals. There were planks ten or twelve feet wide, sawn from huge trees. There were a great many other things of interests here but we had but little time, so we hurried on to the government building. It would take one-half day to see the exhibit in this building. There were models of war vessels and cannons and amunition galore; but the Alaska and Phillipine display interested us more.

The next building we entered was the California. We liked the exhibit in this building better than any we saw; except the government exhibit. In it we found mounted elk, made of beans or some kind of small nuts; a bear made of prunes; an elephant made of English walnuts and a model of a house made of pecans.

Next we went to the Oregon reception rooms and called upon Hon. Jefferson Myers. We took the train for the East at 8:15 Saturday evening, and the next morning when we awoke we found ourselves in the land of sage brush and coyotes. Presently I saw a coyote standing within gun shot of the track. It watched the train until it was out of sight. I thought that if Billy Brenner and John Spelton were out there with their dogs, they would teach Mr. Coyote how to rubber at a train like that.

We traveled two hours Sunday through snow and today (Monday) we are traveling through Utah and it is snowing.

Well I will stop writing for this time and will write again when I get to the end of my journey.

Mrs. G. E. Rogers.

Buys a Scio Home.

Last week John Frost (not Jack Frost) purchashed the Peter Bilyeu property n south Scio. John states that it is his intention to erect an $800 to $1000 residence thereon next spring. This is somewhat of a strange notion for a bachelor to take; but then you can't always tell what fool notions a bachelor will entertain. Evidently some of the fair daughters of the Forks of the Santiam could throw floods of light on the proposition if she only would do so. Any way we will gladly welcome John a fellow townsman.
