The town of Parkersburg, over on the Coquille River, was entirely destroyed by fire last week. But two small dwellings on the out-skirts escaped the fiery demon. More than 100 people were bereft of their homes.

Mrs. Gertrude Reynolds and husband, of Ogden, Utah, arrived in this city last week for a visit at Mrs. Reynolds' parental homestead. Mr. Reynolds is an express messenger on the C. P. from Ogden to Reno, and having but a ten-days' layoff, has returned to his post of duty. Mrs. Reynolds will remain some time as she considers Oregon about the only country worth living in.

Tuesday evening a streak of rain of the downpour variety extended from the vicinity of Lebanon to Knox Butte. The Albany Democrat says that city's dryness was not disturbed. Scio can respond, "Me too, Pete."

It is said the Gould railway system will get into Oregon by a connection with the C. & E. at some point in Eastern or Southeastern Oregon. The word now is that the C. & E. will push its line to this connection next year.

Albany, since there are no saloon licenses, is forced to economize. The City Marshal is now the night policeman, while the fire engine engineer and the street superintendent do duty as day policemen and without additional pay.

Rev. Richmond returned last week from a week's outing over at Newport. He thinks the Pacific Ocean a rather large foot bath and that, while crabs are a delicious food, one has a sort of "crawley" feeling while eating them.

Mr. and Mrs. Griggs of San Francisco arrived in this city Tuesday for a visit with the former's mother, who lives near this city. Mr. Griggs pursued the tonsorial art in Scio some twenty years ago and is well known to all the old-timers.

Mrs. Mary F., wife of Cyrus H. Walker, of near Albany, died at the family home last Saturday. Mrs. Walker was the youngest daughter of Hon. Jason Wheeler, and was born in the Forks of the Santiam, a few miles East of Lebanon.

The NEWS predicts that Scio will be situated directly on a railroad within the next three years. It will be embraced in the electric railway system that will soon cover the valley with a network of lines, and also will be the terminus of a logging road into the big timber belt.

County Surveyor Fisher came over from Albany Monday morning and, accompanied by Road Supervisors A. J. Bilyeu and L. W. Pomeroy as viewers, went up to the neighborhood of M. V. Bilyeu's to view a road. Surveyor Fisher went to Bilyeu Den on Tuesday on a like mission.

Since Eugene has placed her new water system in commission with the latest, up-to-date filters, the water is pronounced by Bacteriologist Matson, of the State Board, to be as pure as can be found in any city in the State, not excepting Bull Run water. There is now no danger from the typhoid germ.

The fires up the Santiam are not all out yet, though no great damage is being done at the present time. The damage altogether has been overstated, not a great deal of standing timber being injured. Probably the greatest individual loss was the 600 cords of tanbark, which was valued at $9 per cord.

The Albany Brewing Company is making extensive improvements to its plant. nevertheless Linn, Lane, Benton, and Lincoln counties are dry. As a matter of fact if these counties are politically dry, many of the citizens refuse to be in that condition if the necessary wet goods can be secured.

A postal card from the Marion Lake party last Friday announced their safe arrival at the lake and that the boys were all feeling "foxy." Dr. Prill seems to have been the lucky one to get the first shot at what he supposed to be a buck, but when he saw a steer amble off uninjured, he concluded that his luck was both ill and fortunate.

Riley Shelton, Roger Cain, Walter Bilyeu and Fred Ficklin drove over to Stayton Wednesday morning and bought a pump for the City water works. The new pump is a rotary affair, warranted to give 80 pounds pressure through the mains. The old pump would only furnish 35 pounds pressure. The City is to have the pump on 30 days trial.

Last Friday on the farm of R. G. Miller, seven or eight miles South of Lebanon, a threshing separator and two stacks of wheat were burned. The thresher belonged to W. H. Ingram and the wheat to R. G. Miller. The big belt and the engine were saved. The separator was valued at $650 and the wheat at $150. This is the second machine burned near Lebanon this harvest.

So many Scioans went to Albany yesterday to attend the circus that we cannot give them personal mention. As Thursday is our press day, the NEWS editor could not go. We thought of asking the show people to postpone the business for a day, as the animals probably needed a day's rest anyway, but afterwards concluded that the monkeys had made especial toilets for the occasion and that they would be greatly disappointed, so we desisted.

Her Eighty-Second Birthday.

Last Sunday numerous relatives assembled at the residence of J. M. V. Bilyeu for the purpose of celebrating the 82d anniversary of the birth of Aunt Hannah Bilyeu. Aunt Hannah is one of the pioneer matrons of Linn County, having arrived with the immigration of 1852 and settled on a claim just East of Scio. About thirty years ago "Little John," as everybody spoke of her husband, purchased the tract of land where the family home now is. The husband passed away but a few years ago, since which time Aunt Hannah has continued to live at the old homestead. About one year ago her son, J. M. V., moved in with her. Aunt Hannah is remarkably spry for one of her age, and nearly every day walks two or more times to her son, Lee's, a distance of nearly one-fourth of a mile. Her health is usually good and she enjoys life among her children and grandchildren, and is fondly loved by them all. Among those who assembled to do justice to the magnificent dinner were: Mrs. L. W. Pomeroy, Mrs. M. J. Bilyeu, Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Bilyeu and family, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Bilyeu and family, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. V. Bilyeu and family, Messrs. Wm. Downing, Lyman Smale, and Myron Miller.

Postoffice Boxes Are Here.

Ever since our big fire the Scio postoffice has been compelled to get along in any old way. Soap boxes, shoe boxes, and boxes of all sizes and shapes have been utilized for mail boxes. Shortly after the fire Postmaster Gill ordered new mail boxes from Kansas City. There were shipped over a month ago and presumably have been hung up somewhere on the way, until Wednesday they arrived at West Scio and were brought into town by the freight team. The new boxes are the latest up-to-date keyless lock boxes and the outfit is quite ornamental. Just as soon as the counter can be prepared they will be placed in commission, when Scio will have a postoffice equal to that of any small town in the valley.

For Sale.

WENT UP IN FLAMES

Warehouse at Munkers Station Completely Destroyed by Fire--One Dwelling Also Burned.

Last Sunday evening just at dusk the citizens of Scio noticed a bright light in the direction of Munkers Station on the C. & E. R. R. The telephone soon informed us that the light was caused by the burning of Section Foreman Murphy's dwelling and the big warehouse at the station.

Mr. Murphy stated the cause of the fire, which started in his dwelling, to be entirely accidental. He was carrying a lighted lamp from one room to another. The lamp chimney fitted loosely and fell from the lamp, and in trying to save the chimney, Mr. Murphy dropped the lamp. The lamp breaking, the oil spread over the room and almost instantly the entire room was in flames. Before scarcely any of the contents of the building were removed the flames had enveloped the entire building and but few things were saved.

The big warehouse, not more than 75 yards distant, was in the exact direction from the burning dwelling that the wind carried the flames and cinders and in a very short time it too was in the grasp of the fire fiend. People by this time were coming from all directions, and as the warehouse seemed doomed they busied themselves pushing the large number of flat cars that were on the sidetrack out of danger, utilizing a team of horses in doing so. There were perhaps more than a hundred spectators present, but as there was little water available all they could do was to watch the big warehouse go up in smoke. Sparks set an adjoining stubble field afire but the stubble was yet green and little damage was done the shocked grain.

The Munkers warehouse was built some twenty years ago, the late David Myers and O. S. May being the contractors. When the building was fully equipped with the proper machinery the total value was something near $5,000. It was erected by the old Oregon Development Company, but since the dissolution of that company, we have not learned who is the owner. Mr. Murphy's loss was probably but a few hundred dollars. The dwelling was owned by Griff King. Whether there was insurance on either building or not we have not learned.

A Profitable Crop.

Clover handled properly is one of the most profitable crops that can be grown by the Oregon farmer. To illustrate: Seven years ago the NEWS family concluded to try the granger life for a spell and moved on their farm 1½ miles West of Tallman. We had a small plot of land, about eight acres in all, which we seeded down to clover for pasture, using both red and alsike seed for different parts of the field. The field was pastured for three years, then plowed late in the Fall. In the Spring following, about three acres was planted in potatoes and cabbage and the balance seeded to oats. In the Fall of the fourth year the farm was rented to Mr. Neuschwander, the present tenant. This plot of ground was plowed and seeded to Fall wheat the same Fall that Mr. Neuschwander took possession. The year following such a splendid stand of clover appeared that the plot was turned back to clover again. Mr. Neuschwander this year mowed about two acres for hay and the balance, six acres, for seed. He has just hulled 48 bushels of splendid clean seed. This seed can be sold for $624, which is nearly double what the land can be sold for. Mr. Neuschwander also had 35 acres of clover which he harvested for the seed. He will be able to realize $2000 clear profit from the crop. This is a little more than the entire farm of 120 acres cost him a few years ago. Money can be made at farming in Oregon if the farm is handled intelligently.

BUTTER CREEK ITEMS.

The weather is cool and pleasant now.

Mrs. Al. Moore and children are now stopping in Heppner.

George Daley came out from Ione to spend a few days on his homestead.

Price Munkers, L. L. Calavan and Claud Calavan are harvesting up near Adams.

Bruce Munkers has been sick with the fever for the last two weeks, but is now improving.

Mrs. Margaret Moore is now living on her homestead. She came out from Hood River.

Al. Moore and Wade Calavan drove the mule team to Heppner for a two-days' visit last week.

Most of the Butter Creek farmers are in the mountains, but they will soon be returning to put up their third crop of alfalfa.

Miss Mabel Cree, of Lebanon; Chas. Robinett, of Echo; Fred Bartholomew, of Heppner, and Waldo Vincent, of Galloway, visited the Calavan and Irvine ranches Monday.

Myrtle Calavan has been over to North Yakima taking teachers' examination and arranging her work for next year. She returned home by way of Pendleton where she visited Mrs. T. J. Wilson and daughters.

JUST AN ECHO.

Big Land Fraud Trial On.

The land fraud trial of the greatest amount of property is now on. Ex-State Senator Franklin P. Mays, Willard N. Jones, George Sorrenson, Ex-Commissioner of the General Land Office Binger Hermann and Congressman Williamson were indicted for conspiring to defraud the Government of 200,000 acres of land. The indictment as to Congressman Williamson was dismissed by the Government because of previous conviction, and the trial of Hermann, by his request, was postponed until after his trial at Washington for destroying Government letter press copy books. This leaves the three first-mentioned to face the jury at this time. A large array of legal talent, the best obtainable, has been employed by the defendants, while the Government is represented by Special Assistant to the Attorney-General Heney and District Prosecuting Attorney Bristol. It is thought the trial will last three weeks. Owing to the prominence of the defendants, the court room in constantly crowded.
