SANTIAM FARA.

Hello, Mr. Editor! What has happened? I see the Press or News comes out in a new suit and away up in G.
 Hurrah for the News.

Mr. Julius Mary and son, of Lebanon, completed a successful job of drilling a well at our school house, 40 feet deep in solid sand rock with 30 feet of pure water.

Miss Ada Compton was up home to see her parents, near Providence, Saturday and Sunday.

Mrs. Rebecca Morri, of Albany, is now visiting her sisters and brothers in these parts, for two weeks.

S. W. G. was on quite a sledge the latter part of last week, went over in Lebanon County to visit Prof. Brooks, who lives six miles North of Corvallis; but was sadly disappointed in not finding his man at home.

Mr. Julius Mary and son are solliciting to drill a well for Al Ewing of Scio, this week, as he is a successful well driller.

Miss Maggie Crabtree returned home from Lebanon Sunday where she has been, under the care of Dr. Booth.

Mrs. W. M. T. Gaines, of Cornelius, will soon return home to her parents as she has been on the sick list for the past month. Her husband has disappeared to parts unknown.

G. A. Griffin was on a flying trip to Lebanon over Sunday and cut the dust as fine as worm-lust. George is rather extravagant. He killed a $40 cow to feed his little dog, Barney, and all he wanted was the hide for boot soles.

Mr. Lawrence Pinedexter and Scott Turner resumed their wood contract last Monday, after a few days lay off on account of Scott slashing his foot with his ax. They are cutting for Will and Reed.

Our milk wagons for Hazlewood and Independence still make their regular trips with small returns. They are a great convenience to farmers.

The writer on his trip over in Benton County, saw some fine country North of Corvallis and some fine Fall grain, but no grass and lots of poor stock.

Doc Turner, who has been sick the past ten years and confined to his room without any improvement, is still lingering along a walking skeleton.

Mr. Mary, of Lebanon, tells me there is quite a crew of R. R. surveyors scouring the country in and around Lebanon for the purpose of locating a site on the Santiam to erect a R. R. bridge; also a route from Crabtree to build and change R. R. by Lebanon and Sand Ridge.

Mr. John Calavan and Miss Bower were united in the Holy bonds of adduction one day last week, in Albany. The bride returned to the Calavan farm and John pulled out for Hay Creek, Eastern Oregon. We congratulate them with a world of best wishes as the bride is only 20 years his senior and with a nice family for a starter.
