Snow is rapidly disappearing from the hills and low mountains. Thomas Creek is swollen considerably on that account.

When the new road leading to the Sanderson bridge is opened, there will be but little travel to Albany via Jefferson from this city.

The legislature is attempting to economize. Appropriations reaching close to five millions are being cut, the most extravagant of legislators.

Wm. Brenner heard that two more coyotes had reported down about Turner in Marion county, and he went down, last Friday, to get them.

The Linn-Lane county division bill was the first to become law, down at Salem. Where there is unanimous desire accomplishment becomes easy.

We go to cross Thomas Creek still remains at a medium stage with a tendency to go higher. High water in the Willamette and Columbia rivers is probable.

Because of a defect in the chain of title, the Wesely-Jones property deal is about to fall through with. The failure of this trade causes the McCreary-Jones trade to be declared off as well. Mr. Jones had moved into the Myers property, but returned to his former home this week.

Leg Broken.

J. W. Compton was engaged last week in cutting his annual supply of wood, on the hill between Scio and Stayton. In returning home he had occasion to climb over a rail fence. In doing so a rail slipped causing him to fall.

In falling his right leg, slipped between some rails and in such shape that the outer bone below the knee was broken. The piece of accident was quite a distance from the highway. Mr. Compton tried to signal several teams that passed, but was unable to attract their attention, until Bert Blyden, who drives the freight team of the Scio Livery stable, saw the signal and went to Mr. Compton's relief, causing him into the wagon and conveyed him to his home. Dr. Prill reduced the fracture and in the old gentleman as comfortable as possible. Mr. Compton is over 70 years old and will probably be confined to his room for several weeks.

A Light Case of Measles.

The infant child of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Davey developed a light attack of the little, or French measles, last week. Dr. A. G. Prill, as health officer, caused the required blue flag to be displayed and placed the family in quarantine. In two or three days the trouble was over.

SANTIAM FARM.

G. A. Griffin has returned from a few days stay in Albany, where he went to have his eyes treated. He did not receive any benefit from the trip.

J. W. Pindexter went up, Thursday, and built a nice porch on the South side of Mrs. May Pindexter and Grandma Griggs' residence.

Mrs. Smeling, who has been quite sick for some time, is now improving.

Mother and Son Die within few Hours of Eachother.

Sunday afternoon, two days after the death of Mrs. J. W. Daggett, of Lebanon, her seven year old son died in the same manner. Neither Mrs. Daggett nor the child were ill for more than a few hours. The child died in this city Saturday and was buried immediately because of the evident contagious nature of the disease. A short time before the fatal illness of Mrs. Daggett, it is said she cooked some canned corn for dinner. Part of the corn was thrown out before it was cooked. The chickens ate the corn, and have since died. Whether the corn had anything to do with the death of Mrs. Daggett, her child and the chickens, is not known, but circumstances seem to point in this direction.

The physician who attended the child during its brief illness, would not state definitely what the disease was effecting the child, until he has completed a closer examination into the circumstances; but it is said that indications seemed to point to a disease alphthretic in its nature.

Some months ago a family near Scio is said to have been attacked with a similar illness which resulted fatally.—Albany Herald.

The relatives to the Scio family evidently refers to the family of T. D. McClain, whose wife and child died some months ago. So far as we know, there was no common cause for the death of Mrs. McClain and child and that of the chickens, which occurred at about the same time. The Lebanon case, which appears similar, may be attributable to entirely different causes.

Candidates For The Reform School.

Scio has three boys, ranging in ages from 12 to 14 years, who, unless they change their mode of procedure, will wake up some fine morning finding themselves inmates of the Reform school. Petty pilfering is all they have been guilty of, so far; but, boys, petty pilfering in the end leads to larceny and a term in the penitentiary.

Last week these three boys succeeded in taking tobacco and several other things from Rodgers confectionery store. Being caught with the goods, they confessed and paid the damage. We will not give names, boys, this time; but don't do so any more. If you do you will make trouble for yourselves and sorrow for your parents. Don't do it.
