PERSONAL MENTION.

J. J. Barnes and family paid Waterloo a visit last Sunday.

C. D. Compton and family were Albany visitors Monday.

Dr. Kavanaugh came over Tuesday to look after Dr. Prill's practice.

John Wesley went to Portland Monday to look after business matters.

T. J. Munkers and E. D. Myers this week sold their holdings in the Scio Milling Co. to J. J. Barnes.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Mitte, of Canby, arrived on Monday for a visit to his brother-in-law, J. S. Calavan, of this city.

Mrs. J. H. Holland and son, Edwin, left on Monday for a month, to visit Idaho friends and to look after some business matters up there.

Dr. Henderson of Ashland, and an old-time resident of Scio, has been spending a week with his old-time friends, principally at the home of J. D. Morris.

Mr. and Mrs. Byron Gill, of Airle, Polk county, arrived last Friday, on a visit to the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Gill, of this city. Byron informs us that since he came away from Airle, his employer, C. V. Johnson, has sold his mercantile establishment in that village.

W. W. Crawford, the armorer man, and his son, Ralph, came over to Shelburn last Friday to build a tank in the windmill town for Mr. Miller, father of County Clerk Miller. Mr. Crawford travels in a "velocipede" wagon, and while here gave several Scioans their first automobile ride.

AN ENJOYABLE TRIP.

Tuesday evening the Marion Lake excursionists, consisting of Dr. Prill, J. F. Wesley, E. C. Peery, I. T. Parker and Clarence Rex, returned with the aid of a compass. All of the party expressed themselves as having a most enjoyable and successful trip. They consumed ten days, large quantities of commissary stores and all the mountain ozone for miles around. As spoils, they brought back about 700 delicious mountain trout and some two dozen of most magnificent views of lake, mountain and river scenery. We can answer for the quality of the trout, because we sampled a fine mess of them.

A NEARLY FATAL ACCIDENT.

Last Friday afternoon an accident occurred to C. W. Richardson, a leading farmer of Billye Den neighborhood, in which he miraculously escaped with his life, yet he was very gravely injured.

Mr. Richardson was engaged in cutting grain for his neighbor, C. C. Burmester. It became necessary to put on a new ball of twine, and for the purpose of threading the needle, Mr. R. was at work about the binding attachment. While there, one of his horses in fighting the flies, caught one of his hind feet in the line at the junction of the binder. This caused the team to back the binder so quickly and suddenly that Mr. Richardson could not get out of the way, consequently, the machine was backed over him. At about this time the line gave way and the team thus released started forward. It is thought the sickle guards then caught and wounded him. He was dragged beneath the machine 40 to 50 feet before he was released. Mr. Burmester, who was at the barn a short distance away, heard Richardson's call to his team, and at once went to the rescue. The wounded man was at once taken to the house and Dr. Kavanaugh, who is a substitute for Dr. Prill during the latter's absence, was telephoned for.

Dr. Kavanaugh found Mr. Richardson had two broken or cracked ribs, a bad scalp wound, several wounds about the back of his neck, others in his back, and a severe wound in one of his ankles. All of the wounds were properly cared for and the injured made as comfortable as possible. If there are no internal injuries, Mr. Richardson will be out again in a few days.

The team attached to the binder was a gentle one. No injury was done to the team, and but two or three unimportant breaks resulted to the binder.

SANDERSON BRIDGE.

Last winter the south span of the Sanderson bridge was washed out by the freshet, and since that time all the travel has been compelled to ford the Santiam. The county bridge gang, under Commissioner Butler, commenced putting in a span about two weeks ago, and it will soon be ready for use. Judge Stewart was down there this week, and tells us that the false work was taken down while he was there, and that teams can cross by the middle of next week, although it will not be entirely finished for several weeks. The old span was 110 feet long, but the bank was cut away so badly that the new one had to be made 204 feet long, and it was one of the best jobs in the valley. The old span was cast in place, 150 feet south and rested on piling, but the new one rests upon a pier that, when completed, will last for a lifetime. In constructing it an excavation was made several feet below water, and then 24 piles, 28 feet long, were driven down into it to a depth of at least 16 feet below water. Around these piles a crib was built, 30 feet long and 7 feet wide, and this will be filled with concrete. The judge says they can safely say that the pier will not wash out, but that they can't guarantee that the river will stay under the bridge.—Democrat.

SITE CHOSEN.

The Linn Milk Condenser site committee have done a good job by taking their time and going to the bottom of the site proposition for the milk condenser. The committee has secured the water front block of the wooden mill, including the brick walls in good condition, the turbine wheels, electric motors and water pipes, the consideration being $2500, a bargain. The building will be reconstructed, the walls remaining as now, into a two-story building. There is also a frame warehouse building, 5 x 90 feet. The condenser will thus have a brick building that will be a credit and a first-class location on the railroad ready for shipment.

CLIFFORD CLARK DROWNED.

Clifford Clark, the 14-year-old son of Z. J. Clark, who lives on the north bank of Tionas creek, a short distance below the Sandier bridge, was drowned last Monday about noon.

As nearly as we could learn the circumstances of the drowning were about as follows:

Mr. Clark is engaged in hauling lumber from one of the mills to West Scio. He usually arrived at the Shidler bridge with his load at about the noon hour, and here he was met by Clifford, who brought his dinner and feed for the horses.

On Monday Clifford carried the dinner and horse feed as usual, and arrived at the bridge at 11 a. m. or shortly thereafter. Mr. Clark had not yet arrived, and Clifford concluded he would take a bath while he was waiting for his father. He removed his clothing and entered the water just below the bridge and near a deep hole. The boy could not swim, and getting too near this deep hole slipped in and was sunk. Some small children, who were on the bank, gave the alarm. But some little time elapsed before any attempt at rescue could be made. About this time the father of the boy arrived and at once jumped into the water to rescue his son. The commotion made in the water prevented the boy from being seen, and Mr. Clark made several ineffectual dives. He failed to find his son. In the meantime a horse had been prepared by driving a spike slanting into a long pole, with which the lad was taken from the water. Willing hands at once commenced the effort at resuscitation, resorting to every means that could be thought of in the effort. By rolling the drowned boy on a barrel all the water was gotten from his stomach and lungs, and every effort to bring the lad back to life failed. Dr. Browne arrived in the course of an hour. He pronounced life extinct as soon as he made an examination.

Clifford was an exceptionally good boy, ever ready to obey a request from his parents promptly and cheerfully. The blow is a severe one to the parents, to whom the sympathy of all is extended.

Clifford Dunsford Clark, son of Zolman J. and Etta Clark, was born on the farm near Scio, Oct. 25, 1893, died August 19, 1907; age at death, 13 years, 9 months, 23 days.

I have often attended funeral services, where I felt the death was a sad one, but I don't know when I ever attended a brighter, smarter boy, full of life, vim and vigor, just entering into manhood's young morning—when life's morning star had just begun to show upon him—when parents' hearts were brightening with his—when death cuts them all asunder.

My friends, the English language is not adequate to speak and express our sorrow and sympathy on this occasion; and the only and most sacred utterance I can give, is the language of the blessed Christ on an occasion like this: "Let not your hearts be troubled. If you believe in God, believe also in Me. In My father's house are many mansions. If I were not so, I would have told you." Again: "Suffer little children to come unto me, and forbid them not, for such is the kingdom of heaven."

A large crowd assembled to pay their last respects to dear little Clifford, and join in mingling their sympathy their sorrow.

The funeral service was conducted by Mr. George L. Sutherland.

OREGON WILL WELCOME TAFT.

Hon. Wm. H. Taft, secretary of war, will spend all day in Portland, Friday, September 5. He will speak at the Armory in the evening at 8 o'clock, and seats will be reserved for every editor for the officers of every commercial and industrial body, for the members of the last legislature, the state officers, the mayor of every city, and a limited number of delegates from all of the commercial bodies throughout Oregon, but these names must be reported and reservations made by Monday, September 2, by addressing Tom Richardson, Secretary of the Oregon Development League, Portland.

Everybody in this state will be welcome at this meeting, in addition to the reservations mentioned, and it is desired that the larger portion of the audience be from outside Portland.

A rate of a fare and a third for the round trip has been made for the occasion from Pendleton and all points west of the O. R. & N., and from Roseburg and all points north on the Southern Pacific.

The meat and bread of Oregon advertising is the colonist rates. The people of Oregon are not neglecting this opportunity, and there will be thousands of people come to this state to find homes between September 1 and October 31. However, do your portion, and write another letter just as soon as you lay down this paper to some friend in the older states, who should get the advantage of the low one-way rates to Oregon.

The different organizations composing the Oregon Development League have now had printed 125,000 of the official letter heads. That looks like going some.

Mr. Albert Phenix, staff correspondent of the Manufacturers' Record, of Baltimore, and one of the country's best posted correspondents on industrial subjects, is making a study of Oregon and the Pacific Northwest, in connection with a trip including all the Pacific Coast. The report of Mr. Phenix will be a daily complimentary to Oregon.

One hundred prominent business men of Brooklyn, N. Y., comprising the Brooklyn League, will spend all of August 28 in Portland. These gentlemen are visiting the different cities of the country, studying municipal conditions everywhere.

Mr. W. E. Shaffer visited Portland last week in the interest of the Tillamook County Fair and Street Carnival, to be held in Tillamook Aug. 22-23-24, and wants delegations from all over the state.

CARD OF THANKS.

We, in this sad hour of our bereavement, desire to express our most sincere and heartfelt thanks to the many friends for their sympathy and help in the recovery of the body of our boy, and in the funeral the following day. May you never be caused a like bereavement.

MR. AND MRS. Z. J. CLARK.
