PERSONAL MENTION.

Are you going to have an exhibit at the Scio Stock and Agricultural Fair association's first fair? If not, why not?
T. J. Munkers was an Albany visitor last Saturday.
John Wesely played baseball at Eugene last Sunday.
G. H. Fay, of Scio, was an Albany visitor Wednesday.—Herald.
H. M. Myer and A. E. Bilyeu were business visitors in Albany on Tuesday.
A. E. Randall attended the milk condensery meeting in Albany last Saturday.
Frank Gill went to Portland Tuesday and from there on to Seattle for a few days' visit.
S. W. Gaines expects to start on a six weeks or two months' trip to "old" Missouri, Iowa and Illinois today.
L. W. Pomeroy concluded the purchase, last Monday morning, of the Don McKnight residence property; consideration, $500.
Lee Bilyeu and family expect to start for the state fair grounds next Sunday morning with the expectation of remaining the entire week.
Mr. Vernon, late of California and a brother of G. W. Vernon, of near this city, has been looking at several pieces of property in Scio this week with a view of buying.
Walter Bilyeu went down to Kalama, Wash., today for a few days' visit. Mrs. Bilyeu, who has been visiting there for several weeks, will return with him next Monday.

WRIST DISLOCATED.

It is very seldom, indeed, that a doctor is the victim of an accident, such as occurred to Dr. Prill Wednesday evening. He was assisting in carrying a board out at the fair grounds. He was walking backwards and caught his foot on some obstruction, resulting in a tumble. Endeavoring to protect himself with his right arm, the hand was forced back onto the wrist, resulting in a dislocation of the wrist joint and, possibly, the fracture of some of the small bones in the wrist. Dr. Prill attend to his own injury, and a short time thereafter attended a professional call at Munkers, a serious accident, of which we speak elsewhere.

A PECULIAR ACCIDENT.

Ed. Young, who works in the Gooch logging camp, met with a peculiar accident last Saturday. He was standing on a timber or handspike as a log was being handled. Ed. proved to be lighter than the log, for he was thrown violently some 12 to 15 feet into the air. When the blow struck the timber upon which Ed. stood, the force was so great that the right foot and ankle was badly jammed and some of the ankle bones were cracked. He was brought to Dr. Prill's office for treatment.

CAPS THE CLIMAX.

The Portland Oregon Journal, this week, issued a special anniversary number that simply caps the climax in the way of special newspaper editions. The issue, which is a splendid specimen of typographical and mechanical skill, is devoted to the interests of all Oregon, and is most valuable as a souvenir and a first-class immigrant getter. We congratulate the Journal on its success.

MAY RESULT SERIOUSLY.

Wednesday, Frank Shores, the auctioneer, was hauling rock from the North Santiam to his farm. Mrs. Shores went with him after one load. As they returned and were coming down the approach of the Trullinger bridge the neckyoke was broken, the team became unmanageable and ran away.
In the fracas Mr. Shores was thrown from the wagon on one side and Mrs. Shores fell on the other. Mr. Shores received no injury to speak of, but Mrs. Shores was more unfortunate. She fell so that a wheel of the heavily loaded wagon passed over her right leg and abdomen. Dr. Prill answered a hurry call, regardless of his injured wrist. Upon examination, he found the pelvic bones crushed with, perhaps, internal injuries that may result seriously. This fact could not be determined as we go to press.

PUBLIC SALE

I will sell at my place in Sodaville, Oregon, beginning at 12 o'clock noon on TUESDAY, OCTOBER 1, 1907, about 70 head of cattle, ranging from real calves up, including beef cattle and dairy cows.
Terms of sale reasonable.
Free lunch at 11:30 a. m.
D. M. JONES.
JOE M. FLAHERTY, Auctioneer.

grounds this week. The big pavilion and auditorium tents are expected to arrive in a few days. J. A. Bilyeu, with assistants, will cut the finishing touches to the track, and everything will be in readiness in a few days.

Father Pelletan, of the Trappist colony, says we neglected to state that he was back from his Albany-Portland trip. Well, he came back and brought a fine new 7 1/2-ton planer for his mill, with him. Furthermore, he expects to commence the erection of his "Exhibit of native woods" building on the fair grounds, next week.

Secretary of War Taft has been in Oregon, has made a speech and is, probably, now on his way across the Pacific. If Oregon has changed in the least because of his visit, that fact is not in evidence. Secretary Taft is a great man in point of rotundity. There is no doubt about that; but if he is great in any other respect, the fact is yet to be demonstrated. As war secretary and a representative of the Roosevelt administration, Judge Taft was given a cordial reception down at the metropolis. This was as it should be, irrespective of the fact that Mr. Taft is the probable Republican nominee for president next year. After all, the secretary has left the impression behind him that he was endeavoring to shine in borrowed light. His connection with President Roosevelt's administration cast a better shadow on the secretary than he otherwise was not entitled to. Secretary Taft is a great man physically. He may be intellectually and ex-citively, but there are a great many Misourians in Oregon. They would like a little more evidence. They would like to be shown.

THE SCIO FAIR.

The First Annual Fair of the Scio Stock and Agricultural Fair Association will open for visitors on October 2, and continue through the following two days.

The management has endeavored to provide entertainment for the visitors during the entire three days.

The present outlook is: We will have a much larger exhibit than at first contemplated. We will be compelled to about double the capacity for stock and while the program offered for races are small compared with those offered at the state fair, we are promised to have some really good racing. Of course, the agricultural and artistic exhibits will be large, for all of Linn and adjoining counties will participate.

In the way of amusements, the management have contracted with the Arnold Co. to place their attractions upon the grounds, among which will be a daily balloon ascension and parachute jump, during trapeze acts, and a slide for life. The performers in each case are veterans and understand their work perfectly.

On Wednesday, October 2, Mr. M. Hofer, president of the State development League, and other prominent speakers will deliver addresses. On Thursday and Friday following, the Farmers' Institute, under the supervision of Dr. Withycombe, of Corvallis, will occur.

Labor is so scarce in Scio that the Tax Assessor was compelled to help in order to get his wood sawed this week.

The Revere house, Albany, now in charge of S. C. Hummel, formerly of Corvallis, is now open to the public.

Bulk Olives, Pickled Herring, Salt Salmon, Boneless Corned Beef, sour and Dil Pickles, at Wesely's Grocery.

A full line of harness has just been received by Chase Wesely. Give him a call. No trouble to show them to you.

We have a full line of sash doors, lath, lead, oils, tar roofing, wall paper, putty, mouldings, carpets, etc., at C. Wesely's.

Car-penter work on the MacDonald store building has now been completed and the painter, E. J. Daley, is doing the final finishing act.

Entries of stock should be made early for the Scio fair so that the management will have ample time to construct more stalls if found necessary.

R. B. Miller has bargained for the George Phillips place on Mill street, and will move there in a short time. The purchase price is slightly under $1000.

John M. Miller, of Marion county, just across the river from Shelburna, slashed his foot severely with an axe one day last week, and as a result, will be laid off for repairs for some weeks.

Every habitable house in Scio will have a tenant next winter. The price of real estate, rents, etc., are tending upward. The fair has, doubtless been a factor in bringing this result about.

You can give your friends no better advice than to recommend Hickory Bark Cough Remedy for all coughs and colds. Sure cure! Sure pure. For sale by dealers everywhere, and E. C. Peery, Scio, Ore.

All pool selling and betting is not to be permitted on the state fair grounds this year for the first time in the history of Oregon state fairs. It is thought, as a result of this order, "cuck" races will disappear.

A fist encounter in San Francisco last Monday places Africa ahead of America in the fight game. Joe Gans is now the lightweight champion of the world, and Jimmy Britt is one of the "has beens."

Quite an interesting game of base ball was played last Sunday on the Scio grounds, between a Scio team and a team from the Miller mill, just across the river in Marion county. The score at the end of the ninth inning was: Scio, 6; Millers, 7.

Hickory Bark Cough Remedy, made by the Hickory Bark Remedy Co., of Salem, Ore., guaranteed to cure your cough, or money refunded. Guaranteed to make a friend of you. For sale by E. C. Peery, Scio, Ore., and first-class dealers everywhere.

It is most essential that this, our first annual fair, shall be a success. The future welfare of our Agricultural Association depends largely on the success of this our maiden effort. Therefore, let every man, woman, boy and girl give the enterprise every assistance possible.

Miss Marguerite Chamberlain, Governor Chamberlain's second daughter, was married Wednesday evening to Mr. H. Brown Galtner, of Na chez, Miss. Natelz was the governor's boyhood home, and the marriage is a result of a visit to the Mississippi town by Miss Chamberlain.

George M. Bilyeu and family seem to have more than their share of accidents this summer. George M. is still limping about with a bullet hole through his foot, and last Friday a little son fell in such a way that his left hand was cramped back the wrong way, which resulted in the breaking and disarranging of the bones of the wrist.

A number of workmen are employed in completing the stables and doing other necessary chores at the fair grounds.

Fifteen tons of baled hay and 20 cords of peeled fir poles.

FOR SALE.

THE MILK CONDENSERY:

T. J. Munkers attended the meeting of the directors of the milk condensery in Albany last Saturday. All matters affecting the new industry did not seem to be very harmonious. In fact the whole business seems about to collapse. The block in the progress of the corporation seems to be Mr. Olmstead, the promoter. A good many of the subscribers had been promised, by Mr. Olmstead, the loan of money with which to pay up their assessments, and in case they became dissatisfied with their subscriptions, he would be glad to take the stock off their hands.

Well, several of the subscribers requested Mr. Olmstead to make his words good. This he refused to do. After discussing matters thoroughly, the board of directors passed the following resolution and adjourned:
Resolved, That the information received does not warrant this organization in proceeding further with the contract for machinery; further, that the conditions entered into by some of the subscribers to the stock have not been fulfilled by the promoter and cannot be sanctioned or approved by this association.

In order to protect the interests of the people and ourselves, we recommend that a meeting be called of the stockholders for the purpose of dissolving the corporation and returning the assessments paid in by the shareholders, or taking such action as the shareholders in their judgment may deem best.

The information received, however, seems to warrant and justify a condensing milk plant with sufficient capital to conduct it, the machinery to be purchased on a cash basis.

WAS AMONG THE FIRST PIONEERS

Mr. George T. Frost, of White Sulphur Springs farm, was in this city this week, and while here he called at THE NEWS office. In talking of the early days in the Forks of the Santiam, we gleaned the following from Mr. Frost's interesting conversation. Mr. Frost is quite an old man. He crossed the plains 55 years ago. During that year (1852) the cholera raged in many of the emigrant trains severely. Nearly every camp ground became a burial place. Mr. Frost saw as many as four persons buried at one camp ground.

In coming to this region, Mr. Frost forded the North Santiam, just below the present ferry, and Thomas creek, just above where the planer, in this city now stands. At that time there was just two batchelors living in Scio—Len Wheeler and Doc McKinney. Mr. Frost stopped for a day or two with Franklin Rice, who had settled on Franklin Butte, and was keeping batchelors' hall at the time. Mr. Frost went to Bilyeu Den and settled upon the claim that his father, Daniel Boone Frost had taken up the previous year (1851) and upon which he had built a cabin, the elder frost having returned to Missouri for his family.

Geo. T. Frost raised the first wheat that was grown in the forks of the creek above where the Monks' mill now stands. He helped build the first bridge across Thomas creek that led into the Bilyeu Den settlement; helped to build the second saw mill on Thomas creek, and assisted in clearing out the first road from Fox Valley to Scio. He also helped to build the first Baptist church erected in the Forks of the Santiam. Mr. Frost is a lineal descendant of the great Kentucky pioneer, Daniel Boone, and is a grandson of Captain John Frost, of the war of 1812.

FRED WOOLLEY WANTED.

THE NEWS has received a letter from Henry R. Harrison, coal merchant, Woodway House, Blaby, Leicester, England, making inquiry for Fred Woolley, who worked in THE NEWS office in January, 1901. Any person who knows of the address of Mr. Woolley, or if this notice comes under the observation of Mr. Woolley, he will confer a great favor on all concerned, by communicating with this office. It is most important to Mr. Woolley.

A NARROW ESCAPE.

One day last week Mrs. A. M. Wilson, of Lebanon, in taking a dose of medicine, mistook the bottle and before she discovered her mistake, had swallowed a dose of ammonia. Dr. Jones was called immediately, and at once administered an antidote.
It was thought Mrs. Wilson's life was in danger for a while, but she is now out of all danger. The strangest feature of the case is: For nearly two years she has been unable to talk, having lost her voice because of a severe attack of lagrippe. The ammonia seems to have restored her voice, for she now can speak without difficulty.

THE RAY-SAUNDERS NUPHIALS.

Donald Ray and Victoria Saunders were married at the St. Charles hotel, Albany, on Wednesday, September 4, in the presence of relatives and friends. To the strains of the wedding march, played by Miss Anna Blacklaw, they entered the parlor where the marriage services were performed by Rev. J. J. Evans.
The bride wore white silk and carried a bouquet of bride roses, while the groom wore the conventional black. Mr. and Mrs. Ray have gone north on an extended trip.

LOST—Between Scio and Mart Bilyeu's hop yard, a purse containing a sum of money. Reward will be paid by returning to THE NEWS office.
