SCIO'S RAILROAD PROSPECTS.

DURING THE FAIR two representatives of the Southern Pacific spent a day on the grounds and conferring with our lumbermen and other business men.

The situation was thoroughly canvassed with them by the lumbermen, Mayor Prill and THE NEWS man. The fact that nearly all of the business that is given this end of the line, originates in Scio and vicinity, and that the business would be greatly increased if the track should be laid into town—that the mills would construct lumber flumes from the mills into town, thereby furnishing steady lumber shipments during the winter. It was also shown that a considerable grain and flour business would be furnished with the relaying and operating of the spur track, and, finally, that the sawmills would furnish the ties free with which to build the line.

While the gentlemen who were here could not speak with authority, they intimated that they would urge the line to be constructed. Their report, with that of Messrs. Malboeuf and Morris, who visited Scio last spring, and who recommended the building of the line, certainly will have weight with the management.

While it is true that railroad matters in general seem to be in somewhat of a jumble at the present time, there is no doubt but what matters will soon be straightened out.

The S. P. must prepare itself to take care of the growing business, or, failing an electric line is sure to be constructed that will take care of the business. This fact the railroad people must take cognizance of.

Should an electric line be built through Scio and on to Lebanon, the S. P., as now in operation, would do but little business. This fact must be apparent to the S. P. officials.

With the completion of the electric line from Saem to Portland, which, it is said, will be in operation in a few weeks, the business between those points will be divided, with the chances in favor of the electric people, especially in the passenger business. A like division of the business in Eastern Linn county will result when the electric line is constructed. Hence, it behooves the S. P. to get a move on, and by being the first in the field, secure a grip on the transportation business that will be difficult to dislodge.

The immense bodies of the finest timber that grows in Oregon, on Thomas and Crabtree, must have an outlet. The world wants the lumber, and the mills now in operation, and others that will be constructed, will supply the want.

The Southern Pacific now enjoys the advantage of being nearest these timber belts, and it will be lacking in business sense if it does not make some effort to meet the demand for the carrying of this freight, at least half way.

With thousands of tons of idle steel lying along its side tracks, too light for the heavy traffic of the main line, but sufficient for branch lines like the one we desire; with ties furnished free of cost, the S. P. people can hardly refuse to comply with the wishes of Scio and construct the line. At all events the outlook is promising for the line to be built in the near future. We shall expect something to be done soon.

THE 1908 FAIR.

The fair for 1907, Scio's first real fair, is now a matter of history. As the universal verdict of our first attempt is "success," the management feels warranted in saying: We will have a fair next year." When all bills against the organization are audited and paid, the Association will have, from the receipts of the fair just closed, between $650 and $700 to apply on next year. This is not enough with which to make the necessary improvements, pay the premiums necessary to give a fair with an assurance of success which is desirable. At least $1000 more is necessary. To obtain this amount, it will be necessary to sell 100 membership tickets at $10 each. Last year 170 certificates were sold at this figure. This amount was all we had with which to give this year's fair. We were compelled to encroach upon the gate receipts—something over $400—which reduces the surplus to the figure first mentioned. At least $1200 should be available with which to pay premiums next year, if we will have a fair that the people of Linn and adjoining counties will appreciate. From $500 to $600 will be necessary to improve the grounds; so our only recourse is to sell 100 more life memberships.

We have demonstrated by this year's fair, handicapped though we were in the lack of funds, that we could produce a creditable exhibition. Of course, we did not have as large exhibits as we desired, nor did we have as good racing as we hope to have next year. Yet, all agree that we had an "awful good time." We will have a better time next year, for it is the consensus of opinion that the next should be one month earlier, so that people will be assured of a dry ground on which to camp, etc.

Now, cannot every member of the Association secure just one new member? Will you not interest yourself sufficiently in the welfare of Linn county and the Forks of the Santiam to secure this new member? To do this, should not take, at most, one-half day of your time.

As a matter of fact, President Prill and Secretary Dugger have devoted more than two months of time, each, to produce our first fair. This has been done without one cent of pay and without hope of reward, other than the development of Scio and Linn county. While others have been paid for any work they have done, either prior to or during the fair, with two or three exceptions, the president and secretary have worked without pay both before and during the fair. They did this, because they were determined that Scio's first fair should not be a financial failure.

Now, in the light of what these people have done, it surely is not asking too much of each member to secure at least one new member each.

It is desirable that new members be secured from all over the county. We want all parts of Linn county in particular, and other counties adjoining, to be interested and participate in the fair. We desire it shall be, not a Scio fair, but a Linn county fair in every way, and one in which every citizen is interested and from which each will recover benefit.

In point of natural beauty, a better fair ground could not be found in the state of Oregon. Where can a finer camp be found than "Camp Wallace"? Situate on the banks of Thomas creek, amidst a splendid oak grove, an ideal place for an outing is at hand. Then the reunion of old friends, acquaintances and relatives, assuredly, is an object for which all should be willing to strive for. Certainly, a second invitation to become a life member of the Association should not be necessary. The society is duly incorporated, its officers are required to serve without pay, and if our citizens will give it the support of a life membership each, success is assured.

Let the name "Linn County Fair," be made, not a misnomer, but a verity. Let every one who is financially able become a member, and let every one, next year, place something upon exhibition in the pavilion or in the way of stock. It is not too early now to commence planning and working for next year's fair.

ARE THEY MISTAKEN!

The Oregonian recently stated:

"The Oregon Agricultural College, in unquestioned possession of its legislative appropriation, with its new building practically ready for occupancy. Waldo Hall, the new dormitory for women, will open its doors to students at once, giving them suitable accommodations, while the woman's dormitory at Eugene, one of the most pressing needs of the University of Oregon—its appropriation withheld by a referendum, called by mistaken farmers—cannot be opened for the reason that it is without funds. Comment is needless at this time. The voters of the state next June will settle the matter and the dormitory will no doubt be furnished in time for the opening of the University in 1908. In the meantime those who are responsible for the holding of the referendum will probably enjoy the embarrassment of that institution, the economic shifts and makeshifts to which the facilities are reduced, and the discomforts forced upon a large class of students."

So the farmer who insists on having the state tax moneys expended economically and judiciously is mistaken, is he? Will the Oregonian assume that the only function of the farmer is to work his farm and pay his taxes, while another class of people—not farmers—will have control of the expenditure thereof? Of course the invoking of the referendum is inconvenient to the state university. So was the failure to appropriate support for the Monmouth and Drain schools inconvenient to those institutions. These mistaken farmers cannot see justice in denying Monmouth and Drain any support whatever when the appropriation for the university was more than doubled. Farmers may be mistaken in endeavoring to have a voice in the way in which their tax moneys shall be expended, but the Oregonian shall have undertaken a good sized contract if they convince them of the fact.

A majority of the people of Linn county decided in favor of local option at last election. The law having been enacted, should be obeyed, and the men over in Albany who have been selling liquor illicitly, will find that law-abiding citizens will sustain the district attorney in his acts. Repeat the law if you will, but don't violate it in the whole sale manner that seems to be done over there.

INSANITY WAS THE DEFENSE.

The jury in the case of the state of Washington against Robert Walker at Bellingham, Wash., after a spirited trial, brought in a verdict of insanity, a verdict for the defense. The trial lasted about five days. N. M. Newport, of Lebanon, was the attorney for the defendant, and most of the witnesses for the defense were from Linn county, the former home of the defendant, as well as that of his victim, a daughter of Mr. West, Baltimore. The evidence of experts indicated that Walker was incurably insane, an inheritance, his father and other relatives having been in the asylum.

Under the laws of Washington, Walker will have to spend his life in confinement, with no alternative, no matter what his condition hereafter.

He will be taken to Walla Walla and placed in the insane department of the penitentiary.—Albany Democrat.
