Someone of Wm. J. Bryan's many Oregon friends sent him a clipping from the columns of the News pertaining to the recent visit of Mr. S. Young to Mr. Bryan's Lincoln home. West-nesday Mr. Young received a letter of thanks from Mr. Bryan for the write-up.
 Of course Mr. Young will not throw this letter into the waste basket.

Hembree who murdered his wife and was sent to the penitentiary on an indeterminate sentence, and was paroled at the end of one year by Governor Chamberlain, has been arrested for the murder of his daughter, and will have to face a trial for his life again. He murdered wife and daughter at the same time, but was tried only for the murder of his wife. Governor Chamberlain says he had no opinion but to order the parole under the circumstances.

Wm. Bryan informs the News that he has received notice that patents would be issued for his timber claims at once. These claims have been under contest for the past two or three years.
 They were taken as homesteads and sold by the locators to a timber syndicate. Brenner and others filed contests to the claims. That matter was fought through every branch of the land office to a decision by the secretary of the interior, the contestants winning out in every instance. The issue of patents is the final act in the several cases.

Very truly,
 EUGENE PALMER.

FAVORS O. A. C.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE SANTIAM NEWS: I have been very much interested in reading your attacks on the different colleges that are receiving help from the state of Oregon, and especially the O. A. C.

If I am informed correctly the U. S. government, (National) set aside in each state, a certain amount of land for the partial support of state institutions to be known as Agricultural Colleges.

As it is well known every male student that attends one of these colleges receives a practical education that cannot be had in any other school, in any part of our country, except in the Agricultural colleges.

From reading the News I am led to believe that the Editor tries to make "Two blades of grass grow where one grew before." I do not believe he wants to pull one blade up, as he is professing to do.

I have not been in close touch with Oregon affairs for several years, but I can cite one thing, that is to the credit of the O. A. C., that has repaid several over the state appropriation; Disinfecting Farming, Farmers institutes, which have not cost any farmer one cent except his time in attendance. I believe if more money was appropriated for the support of the O. A. C. that the benefits would be trebled.

The University of Oregon situated at Eugene, the less said is "Eud and".
 No state should have universities to support. As I understand the proposition, every corporation in the state that had money enough to put up a building has asked and received support as a "State Normal" school. Mind you I do not believe in giving every school in the state, State support.

Referring to an editorial in edition two of the "News" January 17 I do not see Linn County mentioned. I believe the school at Seaside receives state support, does it not?
 If I were again in the state of Oregon, God Bless Her, and I came to a vote, I should vote, Discontinue state support except to one college and that one the Oregon Agricultural College, Corvallis Oregon.

I do not believe that there is more than one school in California that receives state support, except the University of California, which is one of the best institutions in the country.

Yours very truly,
 EDMOND W. CYRUS.

GOOD TAX COLLECTING.

The total of delinquent taxes for 1907 on real property in Linn County, exclusive of the amount due from the Corvallis and Eastern, is $2,495.10. Inclusive of the sheriff's assessments the total for collection aggregated $234, 197.05.

In the amount delinquent is included taxes on property as to which there is a question of assessment or ownership and when these are straightened out, there will remain a very small amount unpaid. Linn is square with the world and out of debt. This is the first year that the county has not been obliged to borrow money to tide itself over the time immediately before the collection of taxes on the new roll.

WILL OREGON GO DEMOCRATIC?

If, in order to make a record for economy as a campaign issue, congress makes no provision for northwest waterways, Oregon ought to go Democratic.
 It is not certain that the state will not do it, anyway. There is blood on the moon, and signs on the horizon. The people of the state are learning the value of independent voting. Since Mr.
 Roosevelt has indulged by actually adopting many of his policies, Mr. Bryan has become wonderfully popular with Oregon voters of all parties. They believe in him. They have faith in his constancy and admiration for his bravery. There are thousands of Oregonians who have opposed him before that will vote for him now, should he be the nominee.

Besides, it would be a splendid thing for Oregon to go Democratic for president, if for only once. She has been too long a sure Republican state. She is counted on as certain, and hence gets no favors, as she would get if in the doubtful column. That is a large reason why she is so discriminated against at Washington. She is discriminated against in the matter of visiting battleships. She is discriminated against in the transport service. She is discriminated against in military posts. She is discriminated against in so many ways and from so many standpoints, and there is not the slightest doubt but her habit of going madly and blindly Republican in presidential elections has meant to do with the condition.

The state is now clamoring for government aid for her waterways. The call for this aid is akin to that which comes from a sinking ship. It is an appeal for relief. The state has been grossly discriminated in the matter of railroad mileage.
 But three or four states in the union are as poorly equipped in proportion to population, area and production. We are at the lowest round of the ladder, unhelped and helpless. Products have to be carted at sidings, because there was no money to transport them to market.
 The railroads are useless, and shippers and producers are a scanty aid from the government for waterway improvement. If a partisan congress for particular purposes rejects this appeal for aid there ought to be a signal rebuke. If honest industry must remain behind and material development be retarded, for partisan reasons Oregon will certainly resent it. She can do it by going Democratic, and that is probably the thing that will happen. It would certainly put an end to the discrimination against which she has so long and so disadvan-tageously struggled—Oregon Journal.

The decision of the Oregon Supreme Court upholding the Tuttle road law is a fortunate event in the history of road improvement in Oregon. While the law does not meet the requirements of conditions in all communities, it is an effective measure where circumstances make it applicable. The law provides for the permanent improvement of a highway at the expense of owners of property within two miles on either side of the road, the cost to be paid in installments. The principle is the same as that upon which most of the street improvement laws are based. The work cannot be done without the consent of the property-owners themselves, and on the other hand, a minority cannot prevent the work. Whether improvements shall be made under that statute is optional with those who are most directly interested. The provisions are not obligatory upon any community. In some localities it is quite likely that this method of paying the cost of road improvements would be found unsatisfactory, but it is well to have the law upon the statute books for the benefit of those who wish to operate under it. The law is fair and reasonable and was wisely enacted.—Oregonian
