PARKERSVILLE ITEMS.

The mill forces have been engaged for several days in moving the logging engines; the larger one to a point close to the mill and the smaller one to the foot of the mountain.
Mr. and Mrs. Small, of Albany, visited their daughter, Mrs. Hiram Parker, recently. Mr. Small while here, spent several hours in trout fishing, carrying a fine mess home with him.
A literary school entertainment and social was one of the recent events at our school house, consisting of songs, declamations, dialogues and impromptu speeches. The occasion was greatly enjoyed by all who were present.
It is expected that our saw mill will soon start up running on full time. The constant steady hum of the big saw will be a most welcome sound.
It is the purpose of your correspondent to continue items for publication, as we desire the world to know that Parker'sville is a mill town of no small importance and that we have aspirations towards growing larger. There is an abundance of room both up and down the creek for expansion.

TEACHER'S INSTITUTE.

Supt. Jackson and Principal Goin held their local Teachers Institute on the 19th and 11th instants, as was previously announced in the News.
The attendance was good and the program was well carried out. Everyone seemed pleased with the meeting.
Nearly all of the teachers present took part in the discussions and, doubtless much valuable information was acquired by our young teachers. Quite a number of distinguished educators were present. The following are the names of the teachers present:

Knight, Scio; Asa P. Hiron, Scio;

Invest in a Mexican Mine.

A number of our citizens have invested pretty heavily in Mexican mining property through President Eisler, of this city, who is promoting the sale of stock. At a meeting of the share holders in this city on Monday, a most flattering report of the mine was made by Mr. Stamp of Stayton, who had recently visited the property in the interest of the shareholders.
The mine is located about 200 miles North of the city of Mexico and is easy of access, being almost directly on a line of railway.
It is planned for the entire number of shares to be owned by citizens of Scio and Stayton.
Development work is now going on.
Ore from the surface down has paid $14 and better per ton. The share holders believe that when the mine is fully developed, they will own a fine paying property.

Trullinger, Shelburn.

DEATH OF ED GOIN.

Word was received in this city last Friday that Mr. Ed Goin, an old time respected citizen of Scio, had died, a victim of heart disease, on that morning.

Mr. Goin lived in Scio for several years, purchasing and improving the Scio flouring mill. When the mill was burned in the early 90s, Mr. Goin immediately erected our present splendid roller mill; now owned by citizens of Scio.
Mr. Goin installed and operated our first electric light plant, erected the first brick business house in Scio and was a leading spirit in public improvement and enterprise so long as he was one of our citizens. When he disposed of his property interests in this city, he went to Albany, remaining there several years from whence he went to North Yakima, continually engaging in the milling business.
Of his family, three sons survive him, John H., of Albany and Arch and Ed, of North Yakima.
Mr. Goin was a citizen of sterling worth in any community in which he lived. Honest and upright, enterprising and public spirited, North Yakima has lost one of her best citizens.

Calavan Withdraws.

Owing to the fact that J. E. Calavan is now seriously sick with the prospect that his illness may continue for some weeks, he has deemed it best to withdraw his petition for the candidacy of county clerk on the Democratic ticket.
So on Wednesday he executed his formal withdrawal and forwarded the same to Chairman T. J. Stites of the Democratic central committee.

THE OPPOSITION TO MR. BRYAN.

There are half a dozen Democratic papers in New York whose presistently bitter opposition to Mr. Bryan is one of the most entertaining features of current politics. The list of them includes the Brooklyn Eagle, the Times, the World, the Evening Post, and a few others. These papers make a mistake in dealing with Mr. Bryan which able strategists are careful to avoid. They willfully underestimate the character, intelligence and popularity of the man whom they wish to defeat. The Times, for example, says of Mr. Bryan that "his motives are as plain as daylight can make them," meaning that he is a candidate only for the money there is in it. Such a statement is little short of madness. In the measures which Mr. Bryan advocates he often exercises bad judgment, but he is, we think, not insincere, nor are his motives base. Again, the Times remarks that "the unexplained and unexplainable thing is how reasonably intelligent men can listen to his tiresome prattings and his transparent misrepresentations of current events." Such language shows a strange obliquity of mind in the person who wrote it.

These metropolitan papers underestimate the popularity of Mr. Bryan. To follow them one must believe that the Democratic masses accept his leadership with extreme reluctance. It almost seems as if the Times and the Brooklyn Eagle imagined that he had some occult power by which he could make people follow him against their will. The Times remarks, to quote another sentence, that "the Democrats of the South do not want him; they will accept and support him only because somebody must be supported and he is at present the only man very much in view." Why Mr. Bryan happens to be the "only man at present very much in view" the Times discreetly refrains from explaining. That he is not the only Democrat who would accept Presidential honors if he could get them is clear enough. Indeed, the Times mentions Johnson, Gray, Harmon as among those who are willing and who are Mr. Bryan's "superiors in every quality that constitutes fitness for high political office." Amazing that the Democratic party, which is so wary of Mr. Bryan's leadership, does not discover the superlative fitness of some of these men. Is it because the masses of the party are irretrievably stupid? Is it because they do not know what they want? Or, after all, is the solution of the mystery the much simpler fact that the New York papers do not know what they are talking about, that the Democratic voters see in Mr. Bryan qualities which no other man of their party exhibits? To what other politician in recent times has such unwavering fidelity been shown as to Mr. Bryan? Is it a reproach to him or a real tribute that his followers cling to him in evil fortune more loyally than those of other men in victory?

Finally, the frequent reproach that Mr. Bryan has divided his party is not true any more than it is true that Mr.
Roosevelt has divided the Republican party. Both parties are divided because an irreconcilable difference of opinion has arisen among their respective members. This difference of opinion goes to the roots of political philosophy and the science of government.
In either party we have on one side a faction which believes that government exists to maintain the privileges of a class. On the other, a faction which believes that government exists to promote the common good by abolishing privileges and making all men equal before the law. Between these factions there is no hope of real reconciliation in either party.—Oregonian.
