THE POOR MAN PROSCRIBED.

It is very likely superfluous to criticize the method by which Uncle Sam disposes of his public lands, but some phases of land drawings as ordinarily conducted seem to show that a fairer and more considerate policy might be followed. This would be along the line of allowing registration for the drawing without requiring the presence of persons at the place where the registration is to take place, the one desiring to register instead appearing before a notary in his home town. This would be a boon to many poorer people, who feel they can ill afford to bear the expense of a trip hundreds or thousands of miles to the locality where the drawing is to take place when there is not one chance in a hundred that they will be successful. Were such persons allowed to register at home and mail their applications the registration would be increased many fold. Those who did register would thus not be compelled to make a trip unless they were among the fortunate ones in which event they would feel that there was enough at stake to justify an expenditure of their hard earned money sufficient to inspect the land to be awarded. Such an arrangement would cut down passenger traffic, but inasmuch as land drawings are not held primarily for the profit of transportation companies this would not be a vital consideration. It would, on the other hand, encourage many a poor man to register for land drawings who does not now do so, because the chances of success are so slim as not to warrant the expense involved. If there is any class which ought to benefit in the distribution of public lands it is the class just named.

PROPAGATING CURRANTS.

The currant, one of the highly prized garden fruits, may be propagated by taking hardwood cuttings some ten inches in length early in September. If the leaves have not already fallen they should be removed a week before the job is done. The cuttings should be started in the nursery row at once or tied in bundles and buried upside down with two or three inches of soil over the cuttings. In case the planting is delayed it may be done just before freezing, or the bundles of cuttings may be stored in moss or sand and carried through the winter in the cellar or storeroom. In this case the cuttings should be planted in the spring just as soon as the soil is fit. In warmer and drier sections the planting is best done in the fall, which usually marks the beginning of the wet season. If the precipitation amounts to anything at all. Another method of propagation is known as mound layering, which consists in drawing the soil up around the whorls of an established bush, when in the course of a couple of seasons they take root in this new upper soil and may be then cut away and transplanted, the stubs and roots of the parent bush being left below. Gooseberries may be propagated in the same manner.

ONLY A PATCH.

Nebraska and Colorado have lately passed stringent laws forbidding the importation of dairy cattle of any kind which do not show a clean bill of health in the matter of freedom from tuberculosis. This action may be called radical by those who would suffer from an enforcement of the law, but from the standpoint of a decent regard for the public health it is to be commended. Yet a matter that so vitally concerns the public health should not be left for the individual state to cope with, but should be reached by an effective federal law. Were such a measure enacted and the interstate shipment of tuberculous animals prohibited the ax would be laid at the root of the difficulty, and the individual dairyman of no conscience, being prohibited from selling diseased animals, would quit business or reform. Action by individual states is a step in the right direction, but it is at best a patch where in truth a new garment is needed.

A VOLCANIC WONDER.

Travelers who have visited the Sannan islands tell of a volcano in active eruption on the island of Savil, which seems to surpass in magnitude of operation any other volcano of historical times. It broke loose four years ago, and from the beginning there has been a continuous and increasing flow of lava, which now comes from a rent in the mountain side in a stream eight miles wide, the volume being placed at 300,000 tons per minute. Already sixty square miles of land have been submerged by molten lava, hills 600 feet high being covered and valleys as deep being filled to the rim. The glare of the molten stream by night, coupled with the clouds of steam which rise as it plunges into the ocean, is said to be one of the most magnificent and awe inspiring sights imaginable.
