HE STILL REMEMBERED THEM

Farmer Had no Trouble in Recalling Young Lad He Befriended Fifteen Years Previously.

"By the way," said the man who had stopped at a farmhouse to water his horse, "fifteen years ago a poor boy came this way and you took him in."

"Yes?" queried the farmer, some what surprised. "You were kind to him," went on the stranger. "You fed him, gave him words of encouragement and an old suit of clothes, put money in his pocket, and sent him on his way rejoicing. He told you at the time that he never would forget your kindness. Am I right?"

"Yes, you are," replied the farmer. "He said that if he prospered he would see that you never had occasion to regret your kindness to a poor, struggling lad."

"Gracious!" exclaimed the farmer's wife, excitedly. "It sounds almost like a fairy tale, don't it? Why, you must have seen him."

"I have," said the stranger, "and he sent a message to you."

"What is it?" they both asked, expectantly. "He told me to tell you that he is still poor."

"The stranger drove away the farmer went out and kicked the pump viciously, while his wife threw a roll of soap at the chickens.

"Wouldn't go that far. I read in one of the papers the other day," said Mr. Henpeck, "that trial marriages are rapidly increasing in France."

"Oh, you did, did you?" his wife replied. "And I suppose you think we ought to have that kind of marriage in this country?"

"No, dear," he replied, edging toward the door, "I shouldn't even go as far as trial marriages."

By the use of the telephone he succeeded in re-establishing friendly relations with her.

NOW AND THE FUTURE

Jack—I could follow your footsteps all my life long, dearest.

Grace—Oh! yes, you say that, but when we are married no doubt you'll walk about ten feet ahead of me, just like all other husbands.

Where She Balked.

Miss Flora McFilmsey of Madison square was complaining that she had absolutely nothing to wear.

"I draw the line, of course," she said, "at the hobble skirt."

Concealing herself beneath an inverted washtub hat, however, she managed to walk up Broadway without being recognized or attracting any particular attention.

Unreasonable.

"You have not attended church lately?"

"Nope. Got a cow."

"What has that to do with it?"

"Milk her myself."

"But what difference does that make?"

"You don't expect me to milk a cow and be a Christian during fly time?"

No Need to Worry.

"Captain, is there no way in which the ship may be saved?"

"None at all, sir. We are going to the bottom; but I would not worry about the ship, sir, if I were you—she is fully insured. You'd better find a life belt."—Wasp.

Certainly Annoying.

The Circle Railroad in London describes a circle whose diameter is about 19 miles. In the car was an old and very obese lady, who expressed the utmost solicitude lest she be carried past her station. A passenger assured her that her station was half an hour away, and that he would tell her when they reached it.

"Thank you very much, sir," said the old lady, "but whenever I get out, bel'n' as 'ow I'm so 'eavy, I backs out; an' I ain't more than 'arf way out afore along comes a guard, an' 'e says, 'Look lively there, mum,' says he, 'look lively, an' 'e pushes me back in again, an' I've been round the circle three times this morning!"

Bachelors Confined to Skirts. It was once the custom in Korea that a man was not allowed to attain to the dignity of trousers until he married. The bachelor was forced to wear skirts as one who possessed no definite position in society. Moreover, the law prohibited marriage unless the man was able to support a wife in the station to which she was used, so that the skirt also served as an index of income.

Plain Speech Should Survive.

It is the speech of the plain people that we would preserve. The early settlers were not given to much talking, and their vocabulary was small, but they never failed to express themselves so that their meaning was perfectly clear. In the mountain country of the south they preserve to this day many of the ancient idioms, and use words which even the most active of our lexicographers have not caught. —Exchange.

Westminster Monuments.

There are nearly as many monuments to women, says the London Daily Telegraph, in Westminster Abbey, as to men. Some are honored as the wives of celebrated men, but many are there on their own account for the fame of their own works and lives.

Curiously Expressed.

Curious ways of expressing ideas in English may be expected from foreigners, as, for instance, when the Frenchman, who made a call in the country and was about to be introduced to the family, said: "Ah, ze ladies! Zea I would before, if you please, vish to purify mine lands and to swoop mine hair."

It Would Seem So.

The subjoined item appeared in a French newspaper: "There was found in the river this morning the body of a scoldier cut to pieces and sewed up in a sack. The circumstances seem to preclude any suspicion of suicide."

People Who Work Indoors With Their Hands

Seamstresses, watch-makers, artists, draughtsmen, and many others, cannot properly handle their tools with cold, stiff hands. Many a lost hour or two on cold winter mornings results from the delayed heat of furnace or stove.

The Perfection Oil Heater in a few minutes gives the temperature that assures the worker warm hands and pliable muscles. The quickly gives heat, and with one filling of the font burns steadily for nine hours, without smoke or smell. Has automatic-locking flame spreader which prevents the wick from being turned high enough to smoke, and is easy to remove and drop back so the wick can be quickly cleaned.

Absolutely smokeless and odorless

It has a damper top and a cool handle. Indicator always shows the amount of oil in the font. The filler-cap does not need to be screwed down; it is put in like a cork in a bottle, and is attached to the font by a chain, and cannot get lost.

The burner body or gallery cannot become wedged, because of a new device in construction, and consequently, it can always be easily unscrewed in an instant for reworking. The Perfection is finished in Japan or nickel, is strong, durable, well-made, built for service, and yet light and ornamental.
