OUR PORTLAND LETTER

Portland, Or., Nov. 15, (Special)—Oregon will have a special day at the Chicago Land Show, it having been fixed on November 30. Oregon people will be in charge of the program and special exercises will be held in the lecture room of the Coliseum in honor of the occasion.

Under the direction of the Harriman lines in this territory, a splendid exhibit of Oregon products has been gathered that will be shown at Chicago, excellent space having been secured for it. The products of the state on view there will be explained by competent lecturers in charge and the state generally will profit very largely from the showing to be made.

Prominent Oregon citizens will participate in the exercises at the land show on Oregon day. Among them are William McMurray, General Passenger Agent for the Harriman Lines in this territory; John M. Scott, assistant general passenger agent; B. W. Johnson, Corvallis; E. D. Waterman, Medford; J. C. Skinner, Hood River; E. B. Bolton, Grants Pass; W. E. Benton, W. D. Skinner and A. A. Morse, Portland.

The biggest mining deal in the history of the state took place during the past week when the Rainbow Mine, in the Mormon Basin, near Baker, was bonded to the United States Smelting, Refining & Mining Co. for $1,050,000. The purchasers have four months in which to look over the property and make a cash payment of $250,000. At the end of six months the balance of the purchase price is to be paid. This is one of the best known properties in the state, and has a gold production of about $200,000 to its credit.

That the Hill interests are prepared to spend from $7,000,000 to $10,000,000 on extensions to the Oregon Electric and United Railways in Western Oregon during the coming year or 18 months, is the statement of John F. Stevens, head of the Hill system in this state. This will mean the construction of from 200 to 250 miles of new interurban roads in the Willamette Valley, Southern Oregon and the Coast country.

The Oregon branch of the National League of Postmasters of the United States will hold its annual meeting in the rooms of the Portland Commercial

ATTEMPT TO BURN WAY OUT

Guy Craft Was Rescued From the Burning Jail, Just in the Nick of Time

Last Thursday afternoon, Guy Craft having imbibed too liberally of a special brand of fighting whiskey and endeavoring to create a row with several persons, finally succeeded in getting into a fight with Jake Smeltzer, an employe at the livery stable.

Marshal Weddle was called, who arrested Craft and he and J. R. Pound started to take the aforesaid Craft to the city bastille. On the way, Craft resisted as determinedly as he was able, until the services of W. W. Williams was enlisted and no further trouble was experienced. Near 2 o'clock the following morning, Jack Bilyeu was aroused from his slumbers with cries of Help! Help! and, discovering that a fire existed at the city jail, he lost no time in going across the street and rang the fire alarm. Jack did not take time to dress himself. Bert Bilyeu was first at the fire and, with ax in hand, proceeded to demolish the jail door.

When Craft was released, he was nearly smothered with the smoke. He, evidently thought that the smoke would be drawn to the outside. But he was mistaken. The inside of the jail was filled so densely with the smoke that, had help been delayed a few minutes longer, the News would have had a different story to write.

After paying a fine of $20, Craft secured a team at the livery stable and went to his home.

Such escapades as the above preach a louder temperance sermon than was heard in Scio during the recent political campaign. Let us hope that the experience will be a lesson to Guy and cause him to drink either less whiskey or of a different brand.

Notice

As I have purchased T. O. Neal's interest in the hardware and implement business conducted under the firm name of Morrison & Neal, all accounts of said firm are now due and payable at the store to N. I. Morrison. Please call and settle, either by cash or note, as I need the dough.

N. I. MORRISON

The Revival at the Christain church is increasing in power and influence. Large audiences are in attendance from night to night, the Gospel is preached in sermon and in song with telling effect. Mr. and Mrs. Webb are song leaders of dower and their special songs are tender and beautiful. Evangelist Horn preaches the gospel in a convincing manner. A goodly number have already been added to the church by confession and by letter. Meetings will continue next week.

Last week we stated, through hurry in reading copy, that a daughter born to the wife of J. R. Jonas was the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Sims. We should have stated that a daughter born to the wife of George Flook, of Detroit, was their granddaughter. The young Miss Jonas is no relation whatever.

Club, Sixth and Oak streets, Saturday, December 3. The meeting will be called at 10 a. m. and the session will last one day. A night session will be arranged if necessary. The coming convention of postmasters is said to be the most important ever held by the Oregon Association and it is desired that a full representation of the members be in attendance.

Ashland claims it will have the most beautiful street in Oregon when its new boulevard is completed. This thoroughfare will be 100 feet in width, with paving on both sides of a park row in the center that will be beautified with trees and shrubbery. The paving will be completed next Spring.
