

The Warmer Days

Are going to bring house cleaning and brightening up time. The home must be fresh and clean to be in tune with the sun shining out of doors. Do you know the wonderful change that new curtains and draperies can make? Some very beautiful effects are obtained by using the Colonial Drapery Fabrics in colors to match your walls, etc. The conventional designs that are so popular are shown at this store in large numbers. Cozy corners and window seats covered with these materials are very pretty. Old chairs may be made to look as new by covering. The price is 10 cents to 50 cents per yard.

Room size rugs, $6 to $30
Small size rugs, $1 to $6

Water opaque window shades 35c
Oil " " " 50 to 75c
With Hartshorn fixtures.

Lace curtains $1 to $10 per pair.

Clyde Ashby, a native of Scio, died at his home in Salem, Friday, and was buried beside his mother in Franklin Butte cemetery, last Saturday. The remains were accompanied by a number of his brother members of electrical workers and relatives. It is said that he was suffering of cancer of the throat and, knowing the inevitable end, hastened matters by taking a dose of carbolic acid. Clyde was industrious and popular among those who knew him.

The Portland Oregonian on February 4, the 50th anniversary, was certainly a hummer. Artistically, it can not be surpassed by any other newspaper, and historically, it is of such value that everyone who has a copy is sure to preserve it. The history of the paper, as given by various onetime editors or employes, is an excellent history of Portland; because Portland and the Oregonian have grown up together. The Oregonian has kept abreast the progress of the town and has always been a factor in every event and many of the enterprises which has made Portland the first city of the Northwest. The editor of the NEWS has been a constant reader of the Oregonian for 41 years and feels a degree of pride in its success.

OUR PORTLAND LETTER

The Railroads Will Co-Operate to Make the Rose Festival a Success

The Hill and Harriman lines will subscribe $1,000 each to the 1911 Rose Festival. President John F. Stevens of the North Bank announced the Hill subscription this week and Harriman officials say the $1,000 formerly given will be forthcoming this season as usual. Both railroad systems are making great efforts to handle an unusually heavy traffic during June because of the wide advertising that will be given the Festival and the large number of tourists attracted this way as a result.

This is farmers' week at the Oregon Agricultural College and there is a large attendance of those interested in agricultural problems. Lectures and demonstrations of the greatest value to farmers are being given. These cover stockraising, dairying, horticulture, intensive farming, and practically every branch of the industry. The attendance is much larger than during the special short courses of former years and great interest is shown by farmers from all parts of the state.

Central Oregon will hear the locomotive whistle for the first time this summer. Operation of the Oregon Trunk will probably be commenced to Madras early in March and somewhat later the Deschutes Railroad will run trains to Redmond. These new lines will mark the beginning of a new era of settlement for the whole region east of the Cascade Mountains.

The formation of a syndicate to clear logged-off lands of Southwest Washington and place them on the market is a step that might be followed with profit on this side of the Columbia River. These lands, once cleared, are among the most valuable for diversified farming, fruit growing and dairying. To put them to use is to make a great addition to the wealth of the state.

A city of 2,000,000 people at Portland is included in the plan of Municipal Architect E. H. Bennett, who is mapping out a greater city. His project calls for the segregation of the various activities into districts and groups and the beautification of the whole municipality. Parks, boulevards and better buildings are prominent features of the plan.

Two additional salmon hatcheries on the Lower Columbia river are provided for in the bill passed this week by the United States Senate, appropriating $50,000 for the purpose. If this measure passes the House it will mean a great deal to the salmon industry of the Northwest, adding largely to the wealth taken annually from the Columbia and its tributaries.

The Oregon Journal, of last Saturday, published an excellent view of North Main street, Scio. The view was made from a point near the bridge and shows the business houses, maple trees, etc., very distinctly. Cal Carson had assumed a pose on the walk between Peery's drug store and Joe Wesely's grocery store.
