Now is the time to get rid of your rheumatism. You will find Chamberlain's Liniment wonderfully effective. One application will convince you of its merits. Try it. For sale by all dealers.

The Mexican rebels seem to be able to capture almost any old town down there, these days. They seem to be the better fighters due, probably, to the large number of American cowboys in their ranks.

Sick headache results from a disordered condition of the stomach, and can be cured by the use of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. Try it. For sale by all dealers.

Frank W. Sticha has bought the Lee Shelton farm, just in the southwest part of town and will move thereto just as soon as the weather settles. Mr. Shelton will move to the W. M. Phillips farm, near West Scio.

Parties who have attempted to cross the mountains, via the Lebanon route were compelled to turn back on account of the deep snow at the summit of the mountains. It is thought the road will not be open for travel before the first of July.

If you are intending to buy a buggy this spring, I invite you to call and examine my stock before purchasing elsewhere. I carry some of the best makes of vehicles on the market and sell them at the lowest possible prices. Yours for business, N. I. Morrison.

Governor Woodrow Wilson, of New Jersey, is in Portland. He says his trip out west is to get acquainted with the country and the people. No man who has jumped into public life, has made faster strides than Gov. Wilson. He is, today, probably the most available nominee for the presidency, by the democratic party.

Monday evening Scio was invaded by a bunch of Lebanon boosters. They were boosting the Lebanon Strawberry fair of course. The bunch included, A. C. Brown, of the live real estate firm of Durlam, Brown & Co., B. W. Wiesstein, J. R. Green, W. Hubb and Wayne Green. The boys made us know that something was doing over at Lebanon.

Morganheim Or Otherwise

Is American statesmanship willing to confess its impotency? Is there no way to get coal out of Alaska except by turning the territory over to Morgan and Guggenheim to exploit for their own benefit? Cannot the administration, the interior department or congress fix regulations by which Alaska coal can be mined on other than a monopoly basis?

We are a weak people if the Morganheim syndicate is going to be able to direct the coal policy of our government. We bought Alaska from Russia and paid the price for it in cash. The investment was made on behalf of the people of the United States and with the money of the people of the United States. Have we come to the pass in which this publicly owned property can not be administered by the usual processes of government for the benefit of the people who paid for it, but, on the contrary must be turned over to Morgan and Guggenheim as great stewards to own, operate, and enjoy?

The Alaska coal mines ought to be opened. They ought to be worked, and their output become speedily available. It is needed in Alaska and needed in the industries and homes of the Pacific coast. It ought to reach these industries and these homes on a basis of legitimate business and legitimate profits for mining, and without paying extortionate exactions to the greedy few who are attempting to secure a stranglehold on the fabulously rich mineral deposits of Alaska.

There is a wealth of statesmanship at Washington. In the vast wilderness of senators, congressmen, bureaucrats and other officialdom, there ought to be men capable of grappling with the Alaska problem, and pushing it to an equitable solution. A Woodrow Wilson at the head of the government and a few Woodrow Wilsons in other positions of trust would quickly bring adjustment, and bring it in such a way that the homes, industries and firesides of the Pacific coast would not be compelled to pay a toll to heighten the power and add to the swollen millions of Morgan and Guggenheim.

One of the mightiest conflicts of the century is being waged over Alaska and its minerals. The prize is rich. Untold wealth is stored under the frozen surface of Alaskan coal, copper and gold fields. The barons of coal and gold know something of the tremendous value of these hidden treasures. They are seeking possession of them, and are moving Heaven and earth in the effort.

They want the privilege of fixing the price of all the coal that comes out of Alaska. The stakes are high and the game is desperate. Is the settlement to be on a Morganheim basis or on a homeowners' basis?—Oregon Sunday Journal

Did it Ever Occur to You

That perhaps you are making a mistake by not getting our prices before buying lumber, sash, doors, lime, cement, plaster, etc., somewhere else? You are old enough to know that there's a lot of difference in the quality of every one of these articles, just the same as there is in tea and coffee. And that there's always more or less difference in the prices, too. Then, as you can always get the most and best here, at the lowest prices, why aren't you making a mistake by not buying here. From where we sit, it looks like you were passing up a good thing.

When a Man Buys Clothes

He goes to the store in which he has the greatest confidence. He does not judge stores by what they claim to do, but by what they do do. He goes to the store that he has learned always gives all or more than they promise. While some stores are always promising unheard of values, it is quite often the case that some other store not claiming so much, is really giving better values. While we believe in advertising, we know that men judge us mostly by what we do, and hence we depend upon real, genuine value-giving, to get our customers, and keep them. ¶ When in Albany you are welcome to come to our store for a place to be at home. We are anxious for the particular young fellow, the slim young man, the fat man all who seem to have a hard time to set clothes to fit and suit, to come to us, as our store is the largest south of Portland, and none there are better.
