WAS MANGLED BY A BLAST

A Stone Quarry Mine Explodes, Resulting in the Death of an Innocent Victim

W. A. Anderson, a Portland business man, was looking over some timber land he owned, in the vicinity of Niagara, last week. In returning to his hotel or camp, he came near a blast in the O'Neil & Callahan stone quarry, just as the noon blasts were being exploded. Anderson was horribly mangled. The quarry men did not know that Anderson was about, nor did he know that the blasts were about to be exploded.

The injured man was hurried to Albany on the train and to the hospital. But his injuries were so severe that he died on the following day. (Thursday). So far as we know, blame for the accident attaches no one.

Astonishing But True

It may seem somewhat astonishing to our delinquent subscribers that the NEWS occasionally needs money. Nevertheless it is true and we will feel gratified if subscribers knowing themselves to be in arrears on our subscription books, will come forward and adjust the same. Remember that we have to pay cash for all we buy in the way of newspaper supplies. Even our help must be paid every Saturday evening. We want the patronage of all but well it costs money to run a newspaper and we would like to have all that is due us.

To Protect Forests

That the forest fire season of 1911 approaches with better laws and stronger patrols than were in effect at the beginning of last season, but that the last general rains cannot be counted on to postpone danger beyond June, is the substance of a statement issued today by the Western Forestry & Conservation Association after a systematic canvass of field conditions through its constituent fire fighting associations in Montana, Idaho, Washington and Oregon.

Rainfall was about normal during May and April but light in March and February, so the total from New Year to date is less than in 1910. While May rains relieved the fear of another abnormally early fire season, they also prevented the burning of settlers' and loggers' slashings at the safest time. State and association fire officials emphasize that the removal of those fire-traps now must be under permit with the exercise of every care to prevent fire from escaping or lingering to spring up later.

All the timber owners' associations are making their patrols more efficient than ever before. In Idaho forces have been out since May 1 extending trails and telephone systems and some associations already have a man to every 15,000 acres. The Washington association has its men looking after the cleaning up of dangerous slashings and rights of way and has purchased much new equipment including automobiles for transporting men and supplies. The Montana and Oregon associations have reorganized on a much stronger footing as a result of last year's lesson. The Forest Service has also devoted much effort during the winter to perfecting its patrol and fire-fighting arrangements and will work in close cooperation with the states and private owners.

Forest officials of all the states are arranging for stricter enforcement of the fire laws than in previous years and promise little leniency to offenders. The Washington and Oregon laws were made more stringent by the last legislation and appropriations for executing them were increased $15,000 a year in Washington and $30,000 in Oregon. Both states are greatly increasing their warden force. The precautions required in burning slashings and operating engines are much more rigid.

The Western Forestry & Conservation Association is making special effort to secure public cooperation with all these agencies by distributing immense quantities of posters, stickers and folders calling attention to the laws, the steps necessary to prevent fires, and the injury to the community caused by destruction of resources, life and property. It believes that if the public can be made to realize the extraordinary effort being made by Government, State and timber owners, it will reciprocate by avoiding the carelessness which caused so much distress and damage last year.

EDUCATIONAL ASSOCIATION

San Francisco is Making Great Preparations
For the Meet to be Held in That City July 8 to 14

San Francisco, June 5 1911.—San Francisco is making elaborate preparations to welcome and entertain over 50,000 educator delegates from every state in the Union, Canada, Cuba and the Hawaiian Islands in the Forty-Ninth Annual Convention of the National Educational Association, which meets in this city from July 8th to 14th in the most important gathering in the history of the association. The citizens, through the San Francisco Convention League, have appropriated $25,000.00 for this purpose.

The Navy Department has ordered the Pacific Battle Fleet to boom a welcome salute to the teachers on their arrival and remain anchored in San Francisco Bay during their stay. Thousands of Uncle Sam's troops, just returned from the Mexican boundary line, will engage in mimic war. The City will be in gala attire for two weeks.

Every railroad in the United States and Canada has granted the lowest rates ever offered over their lines for any occasion.

The Governor of California, the Mayor of San Francisco and prominent educators all over the country, will welcome the visitors at the Greek Theater at Berkeley, Monday July 10th.

A woman, Mrs. Ella Flagg Young, of Chicago, President of the N. E. A. will preside at all the sessions, and will be the dominant figure during convention week.

The Convention is of particular interest to California and other Coast and Mountain State teachers who will act as hosts to the Eastern guests. Ten thousand are expected from California alone; four thousand from Washington; thirty-five hundred from Oregon, and large delegations from all the Mountain States.

A Run With Remedies

Watkins medicine man had a real nice time, last Wednesday evening. By some reason his team broke away from him on the road leading east from town, and started for Scio at a lively gait. By the time the team reached town, the horses had the travel notion well developed. They did not even think of stopping at the lively stable where they had received many feeds, to say nothing about stopping at wayside houses to sell remedies, but pushed on towards West Scio. At the Baptist church corner, the turn was made too quickly, and the wagon overturned and a general mixup of Watkins celebrated remedies resulted. The horses received no injury, but the wagon had to be taken to the shop for repairs. The driver as he passed the NEWS man on the street, appeared to be well winded, yet will probably survive.
