Two Monster Cheeses

Past and the Present

friend, I will, with the consent and in the presence of my cabinet officers, proceed to have this monster cut, and you will take back to your Berkshire home a portion of it that your people may test its richness, flavor and quality, and you will convey to them my heartiest thanks. Tell them never to falter in the principles which they have so nobly defended, having bravely and successfully come to the rescue of our beloved country in the time of its deepest and greatest peril. I wish them health and prosperity, and that rivers of milk may never cease to abundantly flow into, not only themselves, but their posterity."

The steward of the White House, on a signal from the president, carved the great cheese in the presence of the executive and his cabinet, foreign diplomats and many distinguished men and women. Great slices were served with bread to those present in the order of their rank until all had eaten. One by one the company was then introduced by the president to Elder Leland. On his homeward trip Elder Leland was highly honored all along the route, as he journeyed by boat and sled back to Cheshire. The Sunday following his return the church was crowded with the people who listened to the narrative of his journey and heard the president's message of thanks. We may well believe that the elder's praise of his friend Jefferson was warm to the extreme. As a climax to his eulogy, when his eye fell upon a very deaf and fleshy old lady sitting in a chair directly beneath his desk, he said: "Thomas Jefferson not only completely fills the presidential chair—but, like Polly Smith, slops over all around it."

Did it Ever Occur to You

That perhaps you are making a mistake by not getting our prices before buying lumber, sash, doors, lime, cement, plaster, etc., somewhere else? You are old enough to know that there's a lot of difference in the quality of every one of these articles, just the same as there is in tea and coffee. And that there's always more or less difference in the prices, too. Then, as you can always get the most and best here, at the lowest prices, why aren't you making a mistake by not buying here? From where we sit, it looks like you were passing up a good thing.
