NO. 6

First Fall Fashions

Again Albany's Leading Cloak & Suit Store make the first announcement of a complete and authoritative showing of the newest Fall Fashions in Women's Misses' and Childrens Wearing Apparel.

Up to the minute in Fashion, the largest, the most beautiful assemblage of New Fall and Winter Suits, Coats, Millinery, shoes, Waists, Staple and Fancy Dry Goods between Portland and San Francisco.

Autumn styles have never been prettier in years. Tailored Suits will be worn more than ever before and we are prepared for the rush with a showing now of over 500 New Fall Suits, and 400 Coats, all the Famous Brands that have made this store so popular as a Suit House and by selling so many Suits we can sell from $5.00 to $10.00 less than other stores and show more styles than all other stores in Albany combined.

Hopping

This is the time of year that Scio and vicinity has the least population of the entire year. Practically everyone who can get away goes to the hop-yards for a couple of weeks as they can kill two birds with one stone—have an outing and at the same time make good wages. The pickers from this section includes some of the best families and hop-growers claim that no where else have they been able to get such satisfactory laborers. As a result several agents are sent here each year to contract with pickers and the rivalry is some times quite spirited.

As the hop crop in Oregon this year is large and the price unusually high due to crop failures elsewhere, strong inducements have been offered by growers and more people than usual will go from this vicinity.

Stolen

Lester Arnold says he is glad the fair comes but once a year. During the fair a number of the boys in the show band stopped at the Arnold home. They left Saturday, and Sunday evening when Lester looked for a brown suit he wished to put on he found it missing. A search failed to produce it and also revealed the absence of a shirt etc. The loss amounts to $20.00 to $30.00

THE FIFTH ANNUAL LINN COUNTY FAIR

Better Exhibits in Several Lines Than in Former Years—The Attendance Was Less as People Were Busy

The fifth annual Linn County Fair is now a matter of history. On the whole it has been a successful one. Such an undertaking cannot be measured in dollars and cents. It has not been the purpose of the fair association to make money. Few fairs do pay financial dividends. Stock holders do not expect to any more than "break even". To the officials and a few other public spirited citizens the fair always means a sacrifice financially and a burden physically. They have spent days and nights in planning and working for which they get nothing in return unless, as is too often the case, it is the kicks and adverse criticisms of those who never do anything unless there is a dollar visible.

In many ways the fair this year has surpassed any yet held. The exhibits as a whole were better. In the art department and the individual exhibits a great improvement has been made. The fruit display could not be expected to come up to former years as the large fruits have been almost a total failure in this section. Some lines of stock were well represented. The exhibit of hogs was not up to former years. Some of the races were unusually good.

Several causes combined to keep the attendance down. The harvest season was late this year and the farmers were in the midst of the threshing period. Four or five crews were threshing in the vicinity of the grounds and many people had to spend most of the week finishing up work preparatory to going to the hop yards.

The weather, also, was unusually warm and the roads were very dusty. As a result of the various causes the gate receipts fell off three hundred dollars from last year.

The Fair has quite an educational value and means much to the county as an advertising agency and deserves the support of the entire county. One encouraging feature this year was the increased attendance from Albany and the interest taken by the Albany commercial club. This has been much appreciated by the management and citizens of Scio generally and will, no doubt, be of some benefit to Albany in return.

It is hoped that in the near future our county court will be able to give the fair better financial support. Other counties give their fairs assistance and we believe that our own court will also just as soon as it can see its way clear to do so.

In the mean time let every one begin at once to plan to make the fair next year the "best ever."

The exhibit of sheep and goats were extra fine and completely filled the new barn for this exhibit.

BABY SHOW

The baby show was high class but was short on entries. This was not due to a short crop of babies, however. There is no doubt but what if there should be another such contest soon that there would be much more competition. The following babies were the prize winners.

Heaviest baby under 3 months old, Clara Long, weight 15 pounds, Mr. and Mrs. N. Long.

Heaviest baby under 6 months of age, Ruth Haley, weight 26 pounds, Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Haley.

Heaviest baby under 12 months old, Francis Struckmeier, weight 16 1/2, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. F. Struckmeier.

The prizes in each case was $1.50. It is probable that there will be another baby show next year and several are already planning on making one or more entries.

Let every one get busy and make this feature a howling success.

INDIVIDUAL EXHIBITS

Among the new features of the fair this year were the individual exhibits of farm products by Leo Zeller of Thomas and Henry Struckmeier of Thomas. Perhaps these caused more favorable comment than any other exhibits. Each one was an excellent collection of the various fruits, grains, hay, vegetables and canned goods which can be produced so abundantly in this part of Oregon. Either one would be a credit to the state fair.

Opinion differed as to which was entitled to first premium. The judge found that that of Mr. Struckmeier was a double exhibit, the tent being divided and the same articles in the same order were to be found in each half. It was decided that as one was an exact duplicate of the other that but one half should be considered in awarding the premiums. On this basis the judge decided that Mr. Zeller's was a shade the better and he was awarded first premium.
