Do you want to stop that pain? If so get one of Dr. D. P. Ordway's plasters from Mrs. V. Richardson for 25c. It will relieve all classes of rheumatism, lung complaints and bronchial troubles, cramps, kidney complaint and all other aches and pains.

V. Cladek, who recently sold his farm to a Mr. Pool from Portland, has bought sixty acres near his old home where they will live. After selling out Mr. Cladek looked around over the country for a new location, but was unable to find anything that looked as good to him as this section.

C. P. Blanton was in this vicinity the first of the week in the interest of the Pacific Northwest. This publication will send a crowd of young ladies to the eastern states on a pleasure trip this summer. They will travel in their own private car and will visit Washington, D. C., New York and other points of interest. Miss Della Harold has been engaged to work for that popular farm journal in this part of the country.

The freshest stage of the Willamette reached its height at this point last evening at 7 o'clock when the gauge showed 26.2 feet, says Monday's Herald, since which time the water has been gradually receding and at 1 o'clock this afternoon stood at 24.3. Owing to the high water, it was impossible for the steamer Pomona to get through the locks at Oregon City yesterday morning and she returned to Portland. Captain Coleman, the local agent of the Oregon City Transportation Co.'s business here thinks, however, that by Wednesday or Thursday the water will have fallen sufficiently to allow the resumption of shipping on the upper river.

I wish to thank the many customers that have visited my place of business during the past year, and have assisted me in my success which has increased nearly 200 per cent in the past year. I have secured the services of Mr. Roy V. Shelton and I will promise you courteous treatment when you visit my store. If we make a few mistakes please overlook them as we are comparatively new at the business and have many things to learn. We are all liable to make mistakes and when we make one we try and not let it occur again. We aim to carry the best the market affords and sell as low or lower than anywhere else. I have the goods to sell and you need them, and I ask a share of patronage. Yours very truly, N. I. Morrison.

Bill Freever of Lebanon has been visiting his sister, Mrs. L. E. Heyne, the past two weeks.

The leap year ball given by the ladies last Saturday night at Wesley-Cain Hall was voted a decided success by all who participated.

Miss Della Harold who has been selected by the Pacific Northwest to join their eastern excursion this summer, was a pleasant caller at the News office Wednesday.

A pie social will be given at the Gaines school house next Wednesday evening for the benefit of the County Fair. The ladies are urged to bring a good supply of pies and the gentlemen fat pocketbooks.

When you want your engines and other machinery repaired or any kind of turning done in wood or iron, your saws filed and gummed, call on H. S. Johnston, Scio. Prices reasonable. Wood saws built to order.

Scio was left in the dark left Friday night on account of Thomas' creek being on a rampage. The water went down sufficiently Saturday for the power plant to operate, however, and the creek is now about back to normal behavior.

R. Shelton has been reappointed road supervisor in District 15. A better choice could not have been made, as Mr. Shelton has given general satisfaction and the district is fortunate in securing his services for another year. No supervisor was appointed by the court for District 16.

The following are the names of Scio residents drawn for the 1912 jury list: North Scio—John Shimanek, John E. Gill, Rudolph Wesley, J. A. Bilyeu, John E. Cyrus, John F. Loffler, Jasper N. Weddle, J. A. Wallace. South Scio—J. H. Poindexter, John G. Holt, C. H. Wain, Wm. F. Sommer, W. W. Miller, E. D. Myers, W. T. Hassler, Fred Mespelt.

Six young men in a launch from Corvallis had a very narrow escape from drowning last night in the raging waters of the Willamette at Halfmoon Bend about half way between Albany and Corvallis, says Monday's Democrat. Their cries for help were heard by J. H. Dodge and the news was telephoned to Mr. Van Hussen of Corvallis, who came down the river and rescued the shipwrecked from their perilous place.

On account of the streams being at flood stage and some bridges being washed out through the country, the fair meeting last Saturday was not as well attended as it otherwise would have been. It was decided to hold another meeting on January 27, at which time the election of officers and other business which should have been transacted at Saturday's meeting will take place. This meeting will be one of vital interest to everyone in this vicinity so if you are interested in the fair, make it a point to attend.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

BULLFIGHT IN A TREE.

It Marked the Doom of a Famous Old Time Ohio Sycamore.

The greatest tree ever seen by white men in Ohio is believed to have been the enormous sycamore, or, more properly, buttonwood, which stood in what is now Valley township, Scioto county, in the rich bottom lands of the Scioto river.

It was so prodigious in bulk that as early as 1810 it was described in the Cincinnati Almanac as one of the natural wonders of Ohio. In June, 1808, according to what seems reliable testimony, a party of thirteen persons, all on horseback, rode into the hollow trunk of this sycamore and found that room enough remained for two more horses and their riders. The tree forked about eight feet from the ground, and it was hollow when first seen by the white settlers. The circumference of the trunk was about sixty-three feet at the base, and five feet from the earth it was forty-two feet in girth. These figures remind the reader of the famous big trees of California. The opening into the cavity within the trunk was ten feet wide at the bottom, nine and a half feet high, and the hollow was about fourteen feet in diameter.

The account which has been preserved of the fate of this enormous tree is very odd. It is claimed that the giant buttonwood was kept uninjured as a great curiosity until the farm on which it stood was used as a stock farm by one Thomas Dugan. This stock breeder turned several valuable bulls into the fields where the huge tree stood, and two of them fought inside its trunk. In that small space for a bull ring the victor was able to prevent the escape of his rival, and the weaker was killed. This affair convinced Dugan that the largest tree in Ohio was a menace to his stock, and he cut it down. Later hogs kept in the same field were attacked by cholera, and the owner reasoned that their habit of lying inside the hollow stump was bad for their health, and so he had the stump removed. It may well be doubted whether any other immense tree was ever destroyed because of a fight between two bulls.—Cleveland Leader.

All She Asked.

Justice Harlan, praising temperance at a lawyers' banquet, once told a story about a young wife who said to her husband:

"Jack, dear, I do wish you'd stop drinking! Every time you go to one of these banquets of yours you get up the next morning pale and tired, you won't eat anything, you just gulp down nine or ten glasses of water. Do stop drinking, won't you, dear? I know it's bad for you."

"But all great men have been drinking men," Jack grumbled. "Look at Webster, look at Poe, look at Charles Lamb, look at—"

"Well," interrupted his wife, "you just promise, dear, that you'll quit drinking till you're great and I'll be satisfied."

Bone and Strength.

The wonderful power of bone structure has been tested scientifically to show how a bone bears strain. A very small bone will hold thirty-three pounds in suspension without breaking, while a piece of the best oak of the same thickness will hold only twenty-two pounds. The bone is therefore half as strong again as the solid oak, thus showing that nature is economical in the weight given to bones, making them hollow and at the same time making them stronger than if they were solid and much heavier. This principle has been recognized in mechanics, engineers using hollow steel tubes instead of solid to meet great strain.

A Mean Insinuation.

Sir Henry Thompson, who was equally famous as an author, an artist, and a surgeon, was once staying at a country house with another surgeon of great fame, and somehow the talk turned on the number of letters that each received. When the post arrived only one or two letters came for Sir Henry, while his friend received an imposing batch. The friend proudly called attention to his mail. "Yes," said Sir Henry, with a twinkle in his eye, "but I see yours are all in black edged envelopes."

REMINGTON-UMC

METALLIC CARTRIDGES and Steel Lined SHOT SHELLS

The amount of powder in Remington-UMC cartridges is so uniform, the combustion so perfect, the bullet of such a model and so accurately gauged, that at long or short range your shots are always "kills" if the aim be true.

The steel lining around the powder in Nitro Club and Arrow Shot Shells insures better pattern, better penetration and greater velocity for the same load. It makes the shell stronger, surer and safer.
