A. C. Brown, who is with the Forest-fill Investment people at Lebanon, was a social caller at the News office, while transacting business in town last Saturday.

The people this side of Green's bridge are trading at Scio since the ridge washed out and the rural mail room Jefferson has to be taken across the river in a boat.

Mistress Biddy has again got busy during the warm weather of the past two weeks and as a result the price of ven fruit has taken a drop that is very gratifying to the consumer.

Indian Charley, a well known resident of the Upper Willamette, says he Eugene Register, has killed six cougars this winter and this helps considerably in getting rid of the greatest enemy the deer have.

Lakeview lime will be on hand next year in sufficient quantities to supply every man that contemplates building. The quality of the home product will be the equal of any lime manufactured anywhere in America.—Lakeview Examiner.

SEWING CIRCLE

The Sewing Club was entertained last Thursday by Mrs. D.M. McKnight. In addition to those who regularly attend, Mrs. Walter Bilyeu and Mrs. L. E. Heyne were present. The afternoon was spent in the usual pleasant way. The next meeting will be with Mrs. Fred Jones.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

Jolted His Dignity.
James J. Hill, the railroad king, told the following amusing incident happening on one of his roads:

"One of our division superintendents had received numerous complaints that freight trains were in the habit of stopping on a grade crossing in a certain small town, thereby blocking travel for long periods. He issued orders, but still the kicks came in. Finally he decided to investigate personally. A short man in size, very excitable, he went down to the crossing, and, sure enough, there stood, in defiance of his orders, a long freight train anchored squarely across it. A brakeman who didn't know him by sight sat complacently on top of the car.

"Move that train on!" spluttered the little "super." "Get it off the crossing so people can pass. Move on, I say!"

"The brakeman surveyed the tempestuous little man from head to foot. You go to blazes, you little shrimp!" he replied. "You're small enough to crawl under!"—Cosmopolitan.

The Abiding.
Pain and pleasure both decay. Wealth and poverty depart. Wisdom makes a longer stay. Therefore be thou wise, my heart.

Land remains not, nor do they Who the lands today control Kings and princes pass away. Therefore be thou fixed, my root.

If by hatred, love or pride Thou art shaken, thou art wrong. Only one thing will abide—Only goodness can be strong.—Richard Henry Stoddard.

A Mixed Drink.

A cafe in Paris which was famous for its beer was owned by a Bohemian and conducted actively by his son and nephew. The old man seldom had occasion to go behind the bar or to deal directly with the public in other ways.

One day, however, all hands were out of reach when a man came in to get a drink. To make the situation acute, he ordered a cocktail.

The proprietor knew of such things vaguely, but in a place where everybody came to drink Bohemian beer a cocktail had no place.

First he took a lemonade glass and put some ice in it. Then he poured from every bottle behind the bar and set the mixture before the customer.

"There," he said. "You have everything but the license. Drink it!"—Chicago Post.

Moilere and the Doctor.

Moilere had written many plays to ridicule doctors and medicine. Louis XIV, heard that the author had, however, a doctor at his service since he became famous and well to do, so the king one day called upon Moilere and said to him:

"I have heard, Moilere, that you have a physician. What is he doing to you?"

"Sire," answered the author of the Maid of Imaginaire, "we chat together. He writes prescriptions for me, I don't take them, and I am cured!"

Unexpected Candor.

In court martial trials in the United States army the attorneys are selected from among the officers at the post regardless of their lack of legal training or their inability to handle a case.

One young officer, a surgeon, whose ignorance was bliss, so far as the law was concerned, found himself appointed "counsel for the defense" at his new post, and when he entered the court his only legal knowledge was that he had a right to "object" to the tactics of the other side. Accordingly, when one of his witnesses began to be cross questioned, he sprang to his feet and shouted in a voice of thunder: "I object!"

"On what grounds?" demanded the prosecuting attorney.

"On what grounds?" echoed the surgeon. "On mighty good grounds. Why, if my witness tells the truth when he answers that question it will ruin my case!"—Lippincott's.

Regularly you hear of expensive lawsuits over disputed titles—titles, which if the buyer had abstracts of, they would have been avoided.

Why, therefore, take such long chances in buying real estate by investing without abstracts of the properties' titles?

Our abstracts are dependable, full and complete—one should accompany every real estate exchange.

REMINGTON UMC

METALLIC CARTRIDGES and Steel Lined SHOT SHELLS

The amount of powder in Remington-UMC cartridges is so uniform, the combustion so perfect, the bullet of such a model and so accurately gauged, that at long or short range your shots are always "kills" if the aim be true.

The steel lining around the powder in Nitro Club and Arrow Shot Shells insures better pattern, better penetration and greater velocity for the same load. It makes the shell stronger, surer and safer.
