A. L. Kelly who recently returned home from Prineville says the Willamette valley is good enough for him. Fourteen inches of snow and 26 degrees below zero did not excite much comment there, says Mr. Kelly.

J. M. Pollard writes to the News as follows: I wish to ask that you change my address and send the News to me at Clearwater, Minn. as we moved here from Dakota the first of March. My family and I often think and speak of Scio as it used to be our home. While there I was employed as office man by the Condensery. Just now we think of your country as enjoying Spring, but such a luxury will be late here.

The Lebanon Tribune and Linn County Agriculturist is the name of a new weekly publication launched at Lebanon by the Tribune Publishing company, with T. L. Dugger as manager. The Tribune will be devoted to farming, fruit raising, gardening, stock raising and dairying as well as to chronicling local happenings of Lebanon and vicinity. Mr. Dugger was for a number of years editor of the Santiam News at Scio where he manifested exceptional talent as an editorial writer. Lebanon already has two newspapers where really there seems scarcely room for one to exist and make money. But Mr. Dugger has entered a field not necessarily in conflict with the others if he sticks to the text. And his field is similar to that of many of the broad acres of the Willamette valley in that it needs cultivation and it is to be hoped that he may instill in the minds of the people of the best county in the valley that impetus which will make every cleared acre in the county a producer of some of the products which are now being imported into Oregon but which should be raised on this soil.—Albany Herald.

A Good Position

Can be had by ambitious young men and ladies in the field of "Wireless" or Railroad telegraphy. Since the 8-hour law became effective, and since the Wireless companies are establishing stations throughout the country there is a great shortage of telegraphers. Positions pay beginners from $70 to $90 per month, with good change for advancement. The National Telegraph Institute of Portland, Oregon, operates under supervision of R. R. and Wireless officials and places all graduates into positions. It will pay you to write them for full details. 23-4
