NEWS for the YOUNG PEOPLE

HOME-MADE YANKEE BOBSLED

Excellent Coasting Sled May Be Put Together by Handy Youngster—Easy to Guide.

A good coasting sled, which I call a Yankee bob, can be made from two hardwood barrel staves, two pieces of 2 by 6-inch pine, a piece of hardwood for the rudder and a few pieces of boards, writes William Aigie, Jr., of Little Falls, N. Y., in Popular Mechanics. The 2 by 6-inch pieces should be a little longer than one-third the length of the staves, and each piece cut tapering from the widest part, 6 inches, down to 2 inches, and then fastened to the staves with large wood screws as shown in Fig. 1. Boards 1 inch thick are nailed on top of the pieces for a seat to hold the runners together. The boards should be of such a length as to make the runners about eighteen inches apart.

A 2-inch shaft of wood, Fig. 2, is turned down to 1 inch on the ends and put through holes that must be bored in the front ends of the 2 by 6-inch pieces. A small pin is put through each end of the shaft to keep it in place. The rudder is a 1½-inch hardwood piece which should be tapered to one-half inch at the bottom and shod with a thin piece of iron. A half-inch hole is bored through the center of the shaft and a lag screw put through and turned in the rudder piece, making it so the rudder will turn right and left and, also, up and down. Two cleats are nailed to the upper sides of the runners and in the middle lengthways for the person's heels to rest against.

Runners Made of Barrel Staves.

Any child can guide this bob, as all he has to do is to guide the rudder right and left to go in the direction named. If he wants to stop, he pulls up on the handle and the heel of the rudder will dig into the snow, causing too much friction for the sled to go any further.

An Unexpected Find.

You are always likely to find things when you least expect. For instance, there is the story now going the rounds of the newspapers about the woman in Connecticut who was preparing a leg of lamb for dinner when out dropped a diamond worth $300. The woman had not the least expectation of finding a diamond in the roast. On the other hand, if you have roast lamb every day for dinner for a year and examine each roast with a microscope and an X-ray machine it is 17,000,000 to one that you will not even find a $200 diamond.

What It Meant.

A little girl at Sunday school, being asked what it meant to bear false witness against one's neighbor, replied: "It is when nobody hasn't done nothing and somebody goes and tells it."

Out for a Long Walk.

You may recall reading about a cat that walked nearly 100 miles to get home, crossing a river and several smaller streams on the way. A story from England is better than that for distance. It relates that a cat was taken from Somersetshire to Surrey, 123 miles away, became homesick, as cats proverbially do when they are exiled, and ran away. For several months nothing was heard of it, but finally it turned up in its old home, looking entirely disreputable.

"Why do you wish that, dear?" queried his mother.

Peculiar Chinese Industries.

In Taichow there are some strange industries. One is the raising of the machi, a sort of large pheasant, the all feathers of which are very valuable, as they are needed for the dress hats of mandarins. Timber is very plentiful in this district and is sent away by raft to all parts.

Scientific Disillusionment.

One of those scientists claims he is now able to prove that Eve was not a beauty. The next scientist will probably try to prove that Adam married her for her money.

Promises.

A man usually wants the preacher to furnish proof that what he promises is going to come true, but he is willing to take the glib promoter's word for it.

Cynic Well Answered.

A cynic once observed: "It does not matter whom you take as a bride, because you always find out next day that you have married some one else." To which every happy husband will confidently reply: "It is better to love the real woman you have married than to marry the ideal girl you have loved."

Hamlin's Wizard Oil is recommended by many physicians. It is used in many public and private hospitals. Why not keep a bottle on hand in your own home?

Relieves Backache Instantly

Sloan's Liniment is a great remedy for backache. It penetrates and relieves the pain instantly—no rubbing necessary—just lay it on lightly.

Here's Proof.

"I had my back hurt in the Deer War and in San Francisco two years ago I was hit by a street car in the same place. I tried all kinds of drugs without success. Two weeks ago I saw your liniment in a drug store and got a bottle to try. The first application caused instant relief, and now except for a little stiffness, I am almost well."
FLETCHER NORMAN, Whittier, Calif.

SLOAN'S LINIMENT

War Against "Loan Sharks."

Lawyers engaged to assist poor people in New York who had been in the clutches of the "loan sharks," have reported that their clients took an aggregate of $8,299.60 in loans, on which they were to pay $3,744.71 in interest in three months. The lawyers in most cases were able to persuade the loan companies to continue the loans at the rate of 6 per cent annually. The loans had generally been obtained to pay doctors' bills or funeral expenses.

Christmas Makes Demand.

The German demand for apples and nuts to hang on Christmas trees is always very great. The inland production of apples, even in a favorable year, although large, is far too small for the demand, in spite of the fact that thousands of acres of new trees are planted each year. In order to supply the inland market, large quantities of apples and nuts must be imported from abroad each year.

Mothers will find Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup the best remedy to use for their children during the teething period.

Apis.

It is difficult to believe what early writers tell us of the divine honors lavished upon Apis, the sacred bull of Memphis, and upon Minerva, the sacred ox of Heliopolis. Yet perhaps some of our customs of deeds of today, as handed down by the uninitiated, may seem just as incongruously absurd when heard and understood from an equally proportionate future time.

Mice in Queer Nest.

When an old gas main was being taken out at Sunderland (Scotland) recently, a mouse was seen to run out at the end of the pipe. The pipe was then broken up, and in the interior was found a nest containing six young mice. How the animals could exist in a pipe which had gas passing through it is regarded as remarkable, but the fact that there was a fracture in the pipe may in some degree explain the mystery.
