Possibly About You

Frank Shores of Lebanon was a Scio visitor Monday.

J. A. Bilyeu made a business trip to Albany Tuesday in his auto.

Don't forget the 4th of July celebration at Jordan. A good time is assured all who attend.

A sprained ankle may as a rule be cured in from three to four days by applying Chamberlain's liniment and observing the directions with each bottle. For sale by all dealers.

Mr. Allen and family of near Thomas were in town Sunday breaking a new Reo to ride.

The streets of Scio presented a metropolitan appearance Tuesday owing to the mohair pool being delivered on that day. About $5,000. was received by the growers in the vicinity of Scio, and as a result, everyone got a little touch of prosperity.

Santiam Farm strawberries are fine and will continue till the 4th of July at 15c per gallon on the vines, also 100 gallons of gooseberries at 15c per gallon on the bushes—will be fine till the 4th; a fine lot of currants at 20c per gal., also a fine crop of Loganberries at 20c on the vines. All kinds of cherries at 20c on the trees.

The News is in receipt of the following interesting communication from S. W. Gaines:

Breitenbush Hot Springs is quite a fine resort as we now have ideal weather with our campers daily increasing. We only had three ladies here up to this week and we now have ten with several more expected. We have several who claim the bathing and use of the water has improved them very much. Fishing and croquet are the chief amusements, which the campers seem to enjoy. We have a nice little store which is supplied with most anything wished for by the campers and at a reasonable price, considering the cost of packing it 12 miles over the mountains. It is cheaper to buy here than to bring it with you. Mr. Editor I assure you the News is appreciated up here in the mountains as it tells what is going on in the valley. Sunday was warm and the sun shone brightly until four in the evening when all of a sudden it began raining in torrents, and continued for an hour. It caught all unawares and several got a good soaking. We are all quite sociable and all seem to be at home, with plenty to eat and a general good time. These Springs are located twelve miles east of Detroit with a fairly good trail, and a pack train of 17 horses making daily trips—when not rained out and the river too high to cross. The Detroit store, run by John Outerson, supplies the store at the Springs with any and everything called for. The Pie Eater is still alive and having the time of his life as he gets out of lots of hard work and the care of his garden and berries. Still the old man misses some of those lucious berries and the good wife to do the cooking.

Father Henry Pellatan returned Monday from a business trip to Portland.

There is no real need of anyone being troubled with constipation. Chamberlain's tablets will cause an agreeable movement of the bowels without any unpleasant effects. Give them a trial. For sale by all dealers.

All kinds of speaking, music, physical culture exercises and fancy drilling will be on the program for the 4th of July celebration by the T J S lodge.

Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Gill and daughters, Miss Grace and Mrs. Hibler of Seattle, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gill visited in Lebanon Sunday with Dr. Gill and family.

It is now well known that not more than one case of rheumatism in ten requires any internal treatment whatever. All that is needed is a free application of Chamberlain's liniment and massaging the parts at each application. Try it and see how quickly it will relieve the pain and soreness. Sold by all dealers.

Call on Hibler & Gill Co. for your shoes. Up to date line.

Drs. J. W. and M. T. Cole have closed the City Hotel on account of poor health and being unable to properly look after the business. The News is not informed as to what they intend to do, but whatever the good doctor and his estimable wife undertake, their many friends will wish them abundant success.

Three Bargains.

"My dear," said the thoughtful husband, entering the house with a huge package in his arms, "you remember last week when you secured such a wonderful bargain in shirts at 48 cents and neckties at three for a quarter for me?"

"Yes," said the fond wife.

"Well, don't think that I didn't appreciate your thoughtfulness. See what I have bought for you. I noticed some beautiful green and yellow plaid in a show window on my way home, and I bought you eighty yards of it at 4 cents a yard. The clerk said it was a grand bargain, and it will make enough dresses to last you for two years."—Exchange.

Flattered Him.

Two men were returning home after an evening spent at their club. They were walking in the middle of the road and were assisting each other to walk. It was evident that both were intoxicated. Finally they stumbled and fell. One rolled into a ditch on one side of the road and the other landed in the gutter on the other side. After a few minutes of silence one said:

"Shay, John, come over here and help me out."

After a momentary silence the other replied:

"Flatterer!"—Chicago Tribune.

The Other Side.

"Mrs. Womba, I understand you have been happily married for twenty-five years."

"Yes."

"To one husband?"

"Yes."

"Would you consider an offer to appear in vaudeville?"

"No. I don't believe in making a sensation out of such matters."—Pittsburgh Post.

They Don't Speak Now.

Gladys (just twenty-two)—This is my birthday, Mabelle. Guess how old I am? Mabelle—Oh, I'll guess twenty-six. Gladys—Not very good. Four years out of the way. Mabelle—Well, dearie, I wanted to be sure and be on the safe side.—Judge.

A Long Siege.

After a siege of twenty-four years Turkey took Candia from Venice in 1629.

POISONS WE EAT DAILY.

Common Salt in Large Quantities is as Deadly as Arsenic.

When the doctor told me he was prescribing prussic acid for the pain in my stomach I said I would rather keep the pain than take such a poison.

"You need not have the slightest fear," he assured me. "Why, you eat poisons every day. When the Chinese want to commit suicide one of their favorite plans is to take half a cup of salt."

"Common salt?"

"Yes. In large quantities common salt is a violent irritant. It sets up severe inflammation of the stomach and kills as surely as arsenic."

"Salt peter, that colors bacon and corned beef an attractive red, is a powerful poison. One ounce has killed a person in three hours. Many people have been poisoned by this salt."

"You must know that your Christmas pudding and the icing of your wedding cake are incomplete unless flavored with bitter almonds. I am not sure how many bitter almonds it takes to kill a man, but they contain a good deal of this prussic acid that you object to."

"Oxalic acid, with which foolish people so often commit suicide, is the salt which gives rhubarb and sorrel their pleasant flavor. It is a violently irritant and dreadfully painful poison."

"Need I tell you that caffeine, the exhilarating principle of coffee and tea, is a poison?"

"In nearly all our condiments we eat poison. The oils of nutmeg, cloves, black pepper, cinnamon, peppermint, caraway, horseradish, thyme, etc., are all poisonous in large doses. Black pepper contains a fiery, volatile oil, capable of burning a hole in your stomach if it were not moved on, while its piperine is a rare poison. Cayenne pepper, or capsicum, is still more irritant."

"But, besides poisons which we take from choice, there are others which it is impossible to avoid swallowing in these days of complex feeding. Arsenic is a very common ingredient in beer, jam, sweets, etc., made with glucose. Fortunately, the liver acts more or less as a filter and saves us from serious consequences."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

The Happy Man.

An oriental monarch was anxious to find out the secret of happiness. He called to him all his wise men and sages and debated with them for many a day. Finally an old man, who had hitherto remained silent, arose and said: "Oh, king, the secret of happiness is easily mastered. All you have to do is to secure the shirt of a happy man." This advice seemed sensible to the king, who immediately started forth on a journey. He met thousands and thousands of his subjects, but none of them was happy. At last, in the remotest part of his kingdom, he came across a man who admitted that he was happy.

"Then give me your shirt," said the king.

"I never had one," said the happy man.

A Difference in Buttons.

Buttons make the supreme and mysterious separation of the sexes. And buttonholes! If as a man you will go through your clothes, from overcoat to the underclothes, you will find that the buttons are on the right and the buttonholes on the left. But you will notice that the feminine garments close up the other way and that the woman demands her buttonholes to correspond. Feminine clothes fold from right to left, masculine from left to right. And there the problem must be left by a puzzled commentator.—Dundee Advertiser.

FOOLING THE FLY.

An Easy Method of Coaxing the Pest Out of the House.

A fly will invariably walk uphill, almost never turning and going back. On the contrary, he will reach the top, fly off, light at the bottom of the hill again and again climb up, somewhat as Hindu philosophy pictures us mortals ceaselessly returning along the path of birth and death. Well, take advantage of his upward tendency, his passion for bright things, such as mirrors, bald pates or windowpanes.

You have noticed that, in obedience to the passion for bright things, every fly in the room periodically flies to the windowpane. You have also noticed that, in obedience to his tendency to walk uphill, he sets forth bravely and plods to the top of the pane, only to fly off again into space and to begin all over again when he gets to the top.

Take him along the line of his weakness. Close the window at the bottom, open it six inches or so at the top; then pull the shade down, so that it overlaps by another six inches the upper edge of the window. Presently a fly, impelled by the reaction of his nervous system to the impact of light upon his many lensed eyes, will fly to the window, roost a moment and then begin to crawl up. He holds on with a pair of hooks in each foot, hooked by hairy pads which act as suckers, and it is just this combination of hooks and pads which makes him so peculiarly exasperating when he lights on one's nose.

A fly, therefore, flies to the windowpane and begins to walk up. In due time he reaches the upper edge, flies off into space, knocks against the window blind, which is drawn down slightly beyond the top of the window, turns round and flies out of the window to the wide out of doors, a consummation, as Hamlet says, devoutly to be wished. In an hour or two you can clear a room of flies by this simple psychological trick.—Harper's Weekly.

Lamps Used Before Candles.

Lamps were used before candles. They date back almost as far as history goes and were common in ancient Egypt, China, Assyria, Greece and Rome. Lamp, from the Greek lampas, a torch, and candle, from kandel, the Egyptian word for a common lamp, originally meant the same thing, and the Moslem candlestick held oil lamps, not candles, as we now use the word. Man early improved on the torches of the Homeric age and caught the idea of obtaining light from porous fiber soaked in animal or vegetable oils. Lamps of brass, bronze and stone have been found in the pyramids and in ancient Indian temples, and common terra cotta ones were in general use for domestic purposes in Greece in the fourth century B. C. The earliest candles we hear of were those of the ancient Romans made of rushes coated with fat or wax.

Courting.

There are innumerable methods of courting, but the best method is to be rich.—Frank Richardson.

A Good Position

Can be had by ambitious young men and ladies in the field of "Wireless" or Railroad telegraphy. Since the 8-hour law became effective, and since the Wireless companies are establishing stations throughout the country there is a great shortage of telegraphers. Positions pay beginners from $70 to $200 per month, with good change for advancement. The National Telegraph Institute of Portland, Oregon, operates under supervision of R. R. and Wireless officials and places all graduates into positions. It will pay you to write them for full details.

Oregon has a good chance to win the national prize for advance in earth education this year. The state committee has under way an exhibit showing how 75,000 boys and girls of the state have been interested in the new competitive gardening contests and how 10,000 Portland school children were enlisted in similar work in this city alone. Perhaps no other state ever gave such liberal support to this movement at the outset. The next step, it is expected, will be to make this industrial education an integral part of the state school system.

CARD OF THANKS
