

The Old Man of the Mountain.
The title "Old Man of the Mountain" was first applied to Hassan Ben Sabbah, chief of a Mohammedan sect who founded a formidable dynasty in Syria, A. D. 1090. Banished from his country, he took up his abode on Mount Lebanon, gathered a band of followers and soon became the terror of the Jews, Christians and Turks. They all obeyed his orders implicitly in the belief that they would receive choice rewards in the joys of paradise. These assassins, as his followers were called among themselves, rode roughshod over the country for about 200 years. Whenever their chief, the Old Man of the Mountain, thought himself injured he sent a band of these men secretly to murder the offender, and it was from this that our word assassin originally took its meaning.

The Same Remedy.
A little girl came to her mother near lunchtime with a pain in her "tummy."
"Perhaps it aches," her mother said, "because it's empty. We'll put something in it, and then it will be all right."

The next day her father, who is a lawyer and has congressional aspirations, came home with a bad headache. The little daughter came and stood near his chair.

"Perhaps your head aches because it is empty," she said, looking into his face with sympathy. "You'd better put something in it, and then it will feel all right!"

Making Him Useful.
A prominent politician was asked if he was for a certain candidate for governor, and he answered:

"No. I don't want to waste him. The situation is like an event in a Dublin theater. Some fellow had made a disturbance in the gallery, and the cry was raised: 'Throw him over! Throw him over!' Thereupon a solemn looking man rose from his seat and impressively shouted: 'Hold on! Don't waste him! Kill a fiddler wid him.'—Everybody's.

Strict on the Proprieties.
"Now that I have given you something to eat," said the benevolent on lady, "will you not saw some wood for me?"

"I regret to say, madam," replied the weary wayfarer, "that I cannot saw wood without removing my coat, and I trust I am too much of a gentleman to appear before a lady in my shirt sleeves."—Philadelphia Record.

A Long Stage.
After a siege of 100 days, four years Turkey took Candia from Venice in 1669.

Courting.
There are innumerable methods of courting, but the best method is to be rich.—Frank Richardson.
