

Those Bargains.
 "My dear," said the thoughtful husband, entering the house with a huge package in his arms, "you remember last week when you secured such a wonderful bargain in shirts at 48 cents and neckties at three for a quarter for me?"
 "Yes," said the fond wife.
 "Well, don't think that I didn't appreciate your thoughtfulness. See what I have bought for you. I noticed some beautiful green and yellow plaid in a show window on my way home, and I bought you eighty yards of it at 4 cents a yard. The clerk said it was a grand bargain, and it will make enough dresses to last you for two years."
 —Exchange.

Flattered Him.
 Two men were returning home after an evening spent at their club. They were walking in the middle of the road and were assisting each other to walk. It was evident that both were intoxicated. Finally they stumbled and fell. One rolled into a ditch on one side of the road and the other landed in the gutter on the other side. After a few minutes of silence one said:
 "Shay, John, come over here and help me out."
 After a momentary silence the other replied:
 "Flatterer!"—Chicago Tribune.

The Other Side.
 "Mrs. Woonia, I understand you have been happily married for twenty-five years."
 "Yes."
 "To one husband?"
 "Yes."
 "Would you consider an offer to appear in vaudeville?"
 "No. I don't believe in making a sensation out of such matters."—Pittsburgh Post.

Wise Division.
 Mrs. Wunnchick consulted her husband about their daughter's education. "Would you prefer to have daughter take her lessons home?" she asked.
 "It's all right for the drawing," replied her husband, who disliked noise, "but she'd better go to the teacher's residence for the singing and piano playing."

They Don't Speak Now.
 Gladys (just twenty-two)—This is my birthday, Mabelle. Guess how old I am? Mabelle—Oh, I'll guess twenty-six. Gladys—Not very good. Four years out of the way. Mabelle—Well, dearie, I wanted to be sure and be on the safe side.—Judge.
