The man who gets mad at what the newspaper says about him should return thanks three times a day for what the newspaper knew about him and suppressed.

If you want to know all you have ever done, and many things you never thought of doing, just run for office, and you'll get your character aired in good shape.

If our paper is meeting with your approval as a newspaper, tell your neighbor who is not receiving it. If it is not meeting with your approval tell us and wherein.

It is the person rather than the occupation that adds dignity to labor. There are those who can beautify the most menial occupation or service, and there are others who can degrade the most honorable calling.

If there is a chance to boom business, boom it. Don't put on a long face and look as though you had a stomach ache. Hold up your head, smile and look for better things. Hide your little hammer and try to speak well of others, no matter how small you may know yourself to be.

What are you doing for your town? If you have no confidence in the growth and improvement of the town and country in which you live, how on earth do you do you expect other people to move among you and cause the country to develop and grow for your benefit.

No man ever got rich by trying to make others believe he was "The only," or the only one who knew anything. You cannot climb the ladder of success by treading on others' corns. Keep off the corns and don't knock. You're not the only. There are others and they have brains, and know something as well as you do.

A POINTER FOR YOU

Always see what you are buying before buying it. If you wish to know before buying a bill of lumber that you are going to get the very best and the most your money will buy, don't make any mistake, but bring your bill to us. We preach quality because we buy a superior stock for our trade and want everybody to know that they can buy the best from us and that it will not cost any more than ordinary lumber elsewhere. Quality, Price and Service is our motto.

The storekeeper who does not advertise and who does not systematize his business, might as well put up his shutters. Judicious advertising means financial success. Never in the history of the commercial world has advertising occupied so dominant a place as it does today.

A farmer carrying an express package from a Chicago mail order house says an exchange, was accosted by a merchant who said: "Why didn't you buy that bill of goods from me? I could have saved you the express charges on them, and besides you would have been patronizing a home store." The farmer looked at the merchant for a full minute and then said: "Why don't you patronize your home paper and advertise? I read it and didn't know you had this particular line."

CHRONIC DYSPEPSIA.

Its Symptoms Very Often Resemble Those of Heart Trouble.

The stomach is a patient organ. It usually does its duty without complaint, even when outrageously abused. But once its patience is tried too far and it acquiesces the querulous habit no amount of placating will quiet it.

No patient is so dreaded by the doctor as the chronic dyspeptic. In the first place, he does not always find it easy to determine just where the fault lies. On the one hand, the symptoms may not suggest stomach trouble at all. The patient may be convinced that his heart is at fault, and even the doctor may be deceived at first into the same belief by the palpitations, shortness of breath, giddiness and pain in the left side, although these are not infrequent signs of a rebellious stomach. On the other hand, the symptoms of indigestion may be due not to any fault in the stomach itself, but to a reflex disturbance excited by eye strain, spinal disease or some other trouble in a part remote from the digestive apparatus.

In a case of chronic indigestion the first thing to do is to make sure that it is not due to any of these causes. The next thing is to determine whether there is serious disease of the stomach—such as ulcer or tumor. In most cases of "heartburn" or "acidity" there is no organic trouble—merely a failure on the part of the stomach to empty itself promptly and perhaps a defect in the gastric juice that allows the contents of the stomach to ferment.

Very simple measures often suffice to give relief, such as the sipping of a glass of water half an hour or so after meals or a gentle rubbing of the abdomen just below the ribs on the left side, which causes the stomach to contract and empty its contents into the intestines.

The diet should be regulated, foods hard to digest should be avoided, and the meals should be taken at the same time each day and at not too frequent intervals. Of course constipation, if present, should be corrected, and some simple stomachic may be necessary. But if the heartburn does not yield to the treatment suggested the physician had better be consulted, for the condition may be serious.—Youth's Companion.

Crawford—How did your wife come to buy you all those suspenders? Crabshaw—I think she wanted the pretty boxes they came in.—Judge.

We must carefully distinguish between the absence of fact and the presence of principle.—John Davidson.

TWENTY-TWO YEARS AGO

The following items are taken from the files of the Scio Press of July 1890.

At its last meeting the City Dads resolved to build a new city hall and engine house, and will invite plans and specifications therefor. We are getting there.

Justice Williams on Tuesday, married at the residence of the bride's parents in this city, Mr. Green Coffey and Miss Eva Billie.

Alf Shelton was unfortunate enough to lose a valuable mare on Thursday. He tossed a stone toward the animal, striking it on the leg in such a way that the leg was broken.

Last Saturday John Richardson was raking hay with a sulky rake when his horse became frightened at a hog that ran out from nearby. The horse, becoming unmanageable, ran away, throwing Mr. Richardson a distance of 18 feet and injuring him severely. His collar bone was broken and cracked the radius bone of the right arm and otherwise bruising him.

The dynamos and other electrical machinery, sufficient to make our streets and houses almost as light as day, even on a rainy winter night, arrived Tuesday. Workmen are about through erecting the poles, and the wires and machinery will be placed in position immediately, so that by August 1, we can assume metropolitan airs.

The new Christian church is nearly enclosed and promises to be quite a neat and tasty edifice.

The Scio Roller Mills sent a load of their excellent flour over to S. E. Young of Albany today.

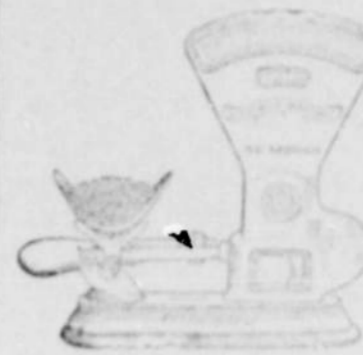

The Sanderson bridge is said to be in a dangerous condition. During the floods of the past winter the center pier was undermined so that the water is six or eight feet deep beneath it, and the filling is all gone. The piling around which the pier was constructed is all that keeps the bridge from falling.

The Scio Roller Mills are kept running night and day to supply the local demand for their excellent flour.

Fire was placed under the kiln of brick to be used for the erection of the Scio bank the first of the week. The brick will be sufficiently burned and cool enough to handle by August 1, when work will again commence on the building. The rock foundation has been completed for sometime and a part of the lumber is on the ground, so that an early completion of the bank is assured.

The Seeing Eye.

I know a man who has lived on one farm half a century. He sleeps in the room in which he was born. He knows every rod of his farm in the dark. Yet his hands and his plow, the velvet roll of new sprouting wheat, the procession of the seasons, the apple trees he planted and has watched for years—all are new to him each day. I have seen him stand and look at his sheep as if he were a city man long shut out from such sights. A snore or a snarl is to him a miracle new performed each day. That man has the seeing eye.—Detroit News.

EDISON

Dear people, do you know that Mr. Edison has made another improvement in the music line? Such is the case. He has greatly improved the quality and quantity of tone and durability of the record. The new records will play 3000 times without any noticeable wear and the price remains the same. Mr. Edison asks you to report at his headquarters at East & Main St., Scio, Ore. and judge for yourself.

These same headquarters can supply you with a nice machine and plenty of good records to drive away dull hours through the long stormy winter that is now upon us. Come in and hear something new.
