TWENTY-TWO YEARS AGO

The following items are taken from the files of the Scio Press of September 1890.

Mrs. W. H. Roberts living near this city had a narrow escape from death one day last week. She was starting a fire in the yard preparatory to cooking eat doors, and it not blazing rapidly enough, she added some coal oil and the flame followed the stream of oil to the can which exploded, setting her clothes on fire. With wonderful presence of mind she procured a blanket and after a few slight burns succeeded in smothering the flames out. It was a very narrow escape from a horrible death, and serves to remind us that we cannot be too careful in handling explosives.

Sterling Bilyeu has bought the barber shop of Frank Mack and moved it to the building adjoining T. W. Dillay's jewelry store.

E. E. McKinney of Turner was in town this week buying out at 50c per bushel. Mr. McKinney has leased the building fronting on Mill street and belonging to A. J. Houston to store and handle oats in.

The residence of T. J. Richardson near Jefferson was burned the first of the week. The fire started from a fire being burned near by.

These cold mornings convince us that firewood is a very useful article. We would feel kindly towards those subscribers who intend paying their subscriptions in wood if they would only bring us a load. Our devil is kicking and will be raising the d—l with us if we don't supply him with a more lasting combustible material than old papers.

Mr. Dayton and son of the Paint Mill that has just been located in Scio, are busily engaged in moving the mill, engine, etc. from the mine near Providence church to this city. The necessary buildings are to be erected at once. Mr. Dayton has already arranged for the delivery of 100 tons of the ore in Scio. It is expected that a large quantity of the paint will be manufactured this fall.

N. C. Myers sold his harness shop Thursday to T. A. Richardson.

We understand that an effort is being made by the teachers who have been employed in our two school districts to consolidate and grade the two schools, making three grades. All the directors that have been consulted are favorable to the idea. The movement is in the right direction for there is no question but that the schools of both districts will be rendered better and more efficient by the arrangement. A well graded and well conducted school will be a means of adding growth to our city.

The Bank of Scio is complaining of doing a good business now days.

James Boyle shipped 9000 hazel barrel hoops to San Francisco from Munkers Thursday.

The track of the Oregonian railroad was laid to the Scio warehouse this week.

Some genius has made a calculation showing that every column in a newspaper contains some twelve to twenty thousand distinct pieces of metal, the displacement of any one of which will cause a blunder or typographical error. And yet some people lay claim to particular smartness if they can discover an error in a newspaper.

A Remarkable Comedy.

The most remarkable comedy ever written is "The Visionaries," by Desobry, the protégé of Richelieu. Every character in the play has a hallucination of one kind or another. One is a coward who thinks he has conquered the world, another a poet who conceives himself better than Homer, another a lover who becomes enamored of every heroine he reads of in a romance, another a beggar who thinks himself richer than Croesus.

That Was One, Surely.
"Don't tell me there are no such things as miracles nowadays."
"Show me one and I'll believe that there may still be such things."
"I saw one yesterday. Four musical experts were sitting at a table in a club to which I belong, and they agreed in their opinion of Wagner."—Chicago Record-Herald.

He Admits It Himself.
Hettie—Harry is always to be trusted. He has never deceived me.
Clara—How do you know that?
Hettie—Know it? Why, he told me so himself only last evening.

Not That Kind.
Boy (to music shop assistant)—Copy of "Pansy Faces," please, miss. Assistant—In what key? Boy—Key? She didn't say nothing about keys. Assistant—Do you know if the lady is a soprano or contralto?
Boy—Lor' bless you, miss, she ain't one of them sort. She's the barmaid across at the Red Lion.—London Tit-Bits.

Fancy and Fact.
Office Boy—Miss, the publisher regrets to state that notwithstanding the obvious merits of your song it is at present unavailable.
Fair Damsel—Oh! Did he really say that?
Office Boy—Well, er—not exactly. He said: "Take it away. It makes me sick."—Chicago News
