The good book says, "Give to everyone that asketh thee," but that does not mean to give a drunkard money to buy whiskey. It does not mean to give the baby a hammer and looking glass because he asks for it, and it does not mean that we should give to professional beggars who travel from town to town. The Bible doesn't always mean what it says, but it always means what it means.

Work is a moral and physical uplifter; it is a panacea for sorrow; idleness brings moral decay and furnishes an incentive to crime. The avalanche of crime that is sweeping over our beautiful land is largely due to the fact that too many would rather steal than work. The life of duty, not the life of mere ease or mere pleasure, is the kind of life which makes the great men and women. The first prize that life offers is the chance to work at work worth doing.

When the sun shines and the streets become dusty, you wish it would rain; when it rains and the streets become muddy, you wish the sun would shine. After you are married you wish you were single, and if you get a new dress you wish you had a new hat to match it; if it is a boy you wish it was a girl, and if it is a girl you wish it was a boy—was human nature ever satisfied? Guess not and glad of it, for then there would be nothing to kick about.

There is no doubt but that a large per cent of the degradation, disgrace, ruin and crime among the young springs from the habit of night prowling, corner loafing and kindred acts by both sexes in city, town and hamlet all over this broad country. Any person who keeps his or her eyes open knows this. Hundreds of boys and girls are out at night, and we all know that many influences for evil, and none for good, surround them continually. A curfew restriction may be derided as old fashioned and Puritanical, but the fact remains that there is far less night prowling in towns that have a curfew ordinance and enforce it.

GREETINGS

WISH all of my friends and patrons a Merry Christmas and a Happy and Prosperous New Year, and thank you heartily all for your past valuable patronage, that has made our store what it is, and hope I will continue to be remembered and worthy of your support in the future as in the past.

Sincerely Yours,

J. F. WESELY

A newspaper is the cheapest thing you can buy. It comes to you every day or week as the case may be, rain or shine, calm or stormy, bringing you the best news of the neighborhood. No matter what happens it enters your door a welcome friend, bringing sunshine and happiness. It shortens the long winter day and enlivens the long winter nights. It is your adviser, gossip and friend. No man is just to his wife and children who does not give them a home paper to read.

It is more fun to see a man read a puff on himself in a newspaper than to see a fat man slip on a banana peel. The narrow minded man reads it over seven or eight times and then goes around to appropriate what copies he can. The kind hearted man goes around to the office and pays what he owes. The successful business man who advertises regularly and makes money by it, immediately starts out to find the editor and the two walk silently down the street, and the business man takes sugar in his, they both eat a clove or two and then life is sweeter, and peace settles down on their hearts. Such is the experience of a mustard seed that falls on different ground.

If you have made up your mind to live in a town then stand up for it, and if you know of no good word to speak then silence is golden. Do all you can to help along every man who is engaged in a legitimate business. Do not send away for everything nice you want and still expect the home merchants to keep a stock to suit the whim of one or two customers. The success of your fellow townsmen will be your success. No man liveth to himself and no man does business independently of his fellow business men. Take your home paper. Do not imagine the big dailies fill up all the space. There are many little crevices of a good cheer, social sunshine, personal mention, etc., in the home paper that the big dailies do not print.

We wish to call your attention to the fact that most infectious diseases such as whooping cough, diphtheria and scarlet fever are contracted when the child has a cold. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy will quickly cure a cold and greatly lessen the danger of contracting these diseases. This remedy is famous for its cures of colds. It contains no opium or other narcotic and may be given to a child with implicit confidence. Sold by all dealers.
