RAMMED BY WHALES.

Vessels That Were Disabled by the Force of the Collision.

While cruising in the south seas the whaler Essex on Nov. 20, 1820, was furiously attacked by a cow sperm whale supposed to have been the mother of a calf which had just been harpooned. The whale had not been wounded herself, and her attack was very determined. At her first rush she passed under the Essex and carried away a great length of her false keel. Then, coming to the surface a considerable distance away, she appeared to take bearings and deliberately charged the vessel again, ramming her with such violence that she stove in the bows, while the ship rolled so heavily that the captain thought she must be dismantled. The case is memorable because the crew had to abandon the vessel, and one boat was never heard of again.

A more singular instance of a whale attacking a vessel occurred in 1895. The singularity lies in the fact that in the case of the Handa Isle the attack was entirely unprovoked. This vessel, a brigantine of 260 tons, was on her way to Sydney with a cargo of timber. On Aug. 24, about noon, a couple of sperm whales rose very close to the vessel, and while the crew watched them "sporting" across her bows the pair suddenly slued around and came straight for her. One thought better of it and dived below the Handa Isle. The other struck her fair and square on the beam, crushing in her timbers. Having rammed the ship in this resolute fashion, it sheered off, terribly damaged about the head, and presently sank tail first.

Fortunately there were some packages of rawhides on board, and the crew were able to keep the vessel afloat with the pumps until a rough and ready collision mat had been fashioned out of these and drawn over the leak.

Reward of Boasting.

"Father," boasted the farmer's son, home from college for over the holidays, "I'm the strongest man in our college this year."
"You don't mean to tell me!"
"Yes; they tested me with different kinds of strength testing machines in the gymnasium, and my record shows that I'm the strongest student enrolled there this year. The physical director says I'm a 'modern Hercules.'"
"My son, I'm glad to hear the good news. Instead of going back to college you can stay home here and help me lift the mortgage off the farm."—St. Louis Post Dispatch.

The Various Alphabets.

The alphabets of different nations vary in the number of their letters. Arabic has twenty-eight letters, Armenian thirty-eight, Coptic thirty-two, Dutch, German and English twenty-six; French twenty-five, Georgian (Transcaucasian) thirty-nine, Greek twenty-four, Hebrew twenty-two, Italian twenty-one, Latin twenty-three, Persian (Parsee or Zend) forty-five, Russian thirty-three, Sanskrit forty-nine, Slavonic forty, Spanish twenty-seven and Syriac twenty-two. The Chinese have no alphabet, but they have 20,000 syllabic signs—their phonetic alphabet.

The Golden Gate.

The center gateway in the Brandenburger Tor in Berlin is reserved for the exclusive use of the kaiser. An American visitor drove through the sacred space in his automobile and was promptly arrested.

"The fine is 200 marks," said the policeman.

The American handed the policeman 400 marks.

"Sir," protested the policeman, "I said only 200."

"I know," replied the American, "but I am coming back again."—Saturday Evening Post.

His Bust.

Daniel C. French, the sculptor, who was commissioned to make the bust of Ralph Waldo Emerson, which is now in Memorial hall, Harvard university, told this story:

At one of the sittings Mr. Emerson rose suddenly and walked over to where the sculptor was working. He looked long and earnestly at the bust, and then, with an inimitably droll expression, he said:

"The trouble is the more it resembles me the worse it looks."

Shelburn Items

Mrs Aman is very sick at the hospital in Albany where she underwent a serious operation last Friday. She is reported to be improving.

Mr Keever of Jefferson was plastering Mr Shillings new house last week.

Ed Zink received a telegram last week from his brother-in-law, Mr Wheeler of Idaho telling him to come and get him as he was ill with paralysis. When Ed arrived there he found that the telegram was intended for a brother of Mr Wheeler's so he returned home.

Dillon McLain began work on the railroad the first of the week.

Mr McLain sold a two year old heifer to Roy McDonald of Scio.

Miss Aman of Portland is here doing the work for her brother and family while his wife is ill.

It is thought that Ralph McDonald will teach the school here again next year. Every one is well pleased with his work and we hope he will teach the next term.

This week Asa Hiron finished his school for this year. He is anxious for it to be out as he has his spring farming to do.

Roy Faulkner and family moved in to town the first of the week.

Enoch Shelton has been making some improvements on his house by adding a new kitchen.

Don't forget the Movies at Wesely-Cain hall Thursday night.

Must You Be Bald?

What have you done to stop your hair from falling? Have you tried Rexall "93" Hair Tonic? If not, we want you to try it at our risk.

If you have dandruff, if your hair is falling out and your scalp is not clean and shiny, if you use Rexall "93" Hair Tonic according to directions for thirty days, and at the end of that time you are not thoroughly satisfied with the results and will tell us so, we will immediately hand back your money. We won't ask you to promise anything. We won't even question you. We will take your mere word and return your money.

Doesn't it stand to reason that Rexall "93" Hair Tonic must be a mighty good remedy and have given great satisfaction to our customers if we endorse it like this? We know of no similar remedy that is as good. It is because of what Rexall "93" Hair Tonic has done for others that we back it with our own money.

Why suffer scalp and hair trouble or be bald, when Rexall "93" Hair Tonic will remove dandruff, make your scalp comfortable and healthy, promote hair growth and tend to prevent baldness—when we will pay for the treatment should it fail to please you?

We don't obligate you to anything. You simply buy the treatment, use it, and if not pleased, come back to us empty-handed—and we will hand back what you paid us. Two sizes, 50c and $1.00 a bottle. You can buy Rexall "93" Hair Tonic in this community only at our store.
