Cause for Alarm Loss of appetite or distress after eating—a symptom that should not be disregarded.
It is not what you eat but what you digest and assimilate that does you good. Some of the strongest, healthiest persons are moderate eaters. Nothing will cause more trouble than a disordered stomach, and many people contract serious maladies through disregard or abuse of the stomach.
We urge all who suffer from indigestion, or dyspepsia, to try Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets, with the understanding that we will refund the money paid us without question or formality, if after use you are not perfectly satisfied with results.
We recommend Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets to customers every day, and have yet to hear of one who has not been benefited. We believe them to be without equal. They give prompt relief, aiding to neutralize acidity, stimulate flow of gastric juice, strengthen the digestive organs, and thus promote perfect nutrition and correct unhealthy symptoms. Three cans, 25 cents, 50 cents, and $1.
You can buy Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets in this community only at our store:

Possibly About You

New subscriptions received at the News office for all leading magazines.

There will be a moving picture show at Wesley-Cain hall Thursday evening at 8 o'clock.

It is learned as the News goes to press that the Art Exhibit has been delayed and will not reach here for a few days.

School notes were received too late for this week's paper. Correspondents are urged to mail or bring their copy, so it will reach this office not later than Tuesday evening.

The meetings at the Christian church are growing in interest. Subject tonight: "Court week in Heaven." Your case will soon be taken up. Friday evening, The standard by which the cases are tried, will be looked into.
Don't fail to hear it. All are welcome.

Thomas Topics
The Thomas and Crabtree creeks have been very high this week, the highest they have been this winter.

Arthur and Roy Kelly and Cletus Holt attended the dance at Stayton last Tuesday.

Mrs. Gus Schiemer who has been in St. Mary's hospital for the past few weeks, returned home last week.

Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Holt attended the Jersey cattle sale at Sandy Ridge near Portland, buying a young registered Jersey calf.
While at Portland they visited relatives, returning home Sunday.

Miss Allie Munsell of Albany is visiting relatives in this neighborhood this week.

Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Mikulka spent Saturday and Sunday with home folks.

Mr. Struckmeier of Albany was in this neighborhood last week looking after his interests on the farm.

Last Friday Lester Holt stepped on a rusty nail running it into his foot, which made it very sore for several days, but he is able to be at work now.

Will Mespelt spent Sunday with Albany friends.

Because of the height of the Crabtree creek and the water standing in the roads, the mail carrier and cream haulers were delayed one day.

While cutting logs for the Holt and Sommer sawmill Fred Sommer had the misfortune to lose one of his cows and cripple another by a falling tree striking them.

EXPLORING VESUVIUS.

A Descent Into the Volcano's Burning, Fumes Laden Crater.

Although many tourists visit the volcano of Vesuvius and enjoy the grand and terrible sight, few have the daring or the physical endurance to descend into the depths of the crater. Suffocating sulphur fumes, redhot cinders, precipitous walls down which masses of rock are constantly plunging, are obstacles that only a few explorers have overcome. The last to accomplish the descent was A. Console. He was accompanied by A. Malladra, who had been the second to explore the crater. Their experiences are described by Monsieur V. Forbin in La Nature.

Tied to a long rope, which six guides at the top lowered inch by inch, the two began to descend the perilous slope. The broken nature of the wall, which was scamed with deep crevasses, made the downward climb extremely difficult, and the crumbling rock offered no secure grip or foothold. The heat soon became almost insupportable. Mr.
Console felt that his feet were actually roasting, and a thermometer that Mr. Malladra carried registered 179.3 degrees F.

Finally the explorers reached the bottom of the cliff and halted near the Fumarole Mercalli. This hole is probably the vent of the volcanic chimney that has been almost entirely blocked by years of accumulated debris. It constantly vomits forth clouds of white and yellow fumes that render the surrounding air unbreathable. All about the fumarole the ground is covered with a deep layer of hot white powder mixed with gravel, into which the two adventurers sank almost to their knees.

As Mr. Console was focusing his camera to take a view of the crater the ground beneath him suddenly opened, and he sank to his waist in the redhot cinders. As his companion was some distance away, he had to effect his own rescue. Fortunately the end of the rope that had been used in the descent was within a few feet of him. He managed to grasp it and by its aid drew himself from his precarious and painful situation.

Every moment of their stay at the bottom of the crater rocks were breaking from the wall and plunging down about them. Mr. Console, who had stayed near the foot of the cliff, had to keep dodging these dangerous missiles. One or two did strike and wound him. The suffocating heat and the noxious gases brought on a strange sickness that caused him to reel in his gait and his heart to beat rapidly and violently. A terrible fit of coughing and choking seized Mr. Malladra, who had stayed too long near the fumarole, and it lasted until he reached the top again.

Naturally the ascent was far more difficult than the descent had been.
Although they had spent only twenty minutes at the bottom of the crater, they were so spent that they were several times on the point of fainting.

Once, after scaling a perpendicular wall of twenty-five feet, Mr.
Console thought that he had reached the limit of his endurance. Summoning all his strength and courage, however, he dragged himself on.
Looking back a moment later, he saw a small avalanche sweep over the exact spot he had just left.
When the two explorers were finally lifted over the edge of the cliff they were on the point of complete exhaustion.

How to Bleach Ivory.

To bleach ivory ornaments or piano keys the following method works well: The ornaments are first washed or "soaked" if possible in a bath of unslaked lime which has in it a few ounces of bran and water. This should make a pasty solution if properly mixed and will bleach the ivory which is discolored or stained. It should be rubbed off with a cloth and the ivory dried in magnesia powder. After a few minutes a few strokes with a cloth give the ivory a brilliant polish.—London Mail.

George W. Perkins of the steel and hardware trusts gave $48,000 of the New York Life Insurance company's money to Roosevelt's campaign fund, and refunded it when the fact became public.
